What a Brain.
Times Change, Men Change.
This Week's News.
The Man Under Forty.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

PROF. C. JUDSON HERRICK, of the University of Chicago, tells the American Association for the Advancement of Science ...

Man's brain is so complicated that all figures connected with astronomy, all calculations about the number of miles that light can travel in 100,000,000 light years, going at the rate of 186,000 miles a second, seem childish.

The stupendous figure ONE BILLION is indicated by writing the figure one, followed by nine zeros.

The number of individual "cerebral telephone lines," connecting the brain cells one with another, can be represented by writing the figure 1, followed by FIFTEEN MILLION ZEROS.

EACH OF those fifteen million zeros, as it is added, multiplies the preceding figure by ten. The human brain cannot imagine even one million. The figure quoted, a figure one, followed by fifteen million zeros, if printed, would fill thirty books of average size, each book of 350 pages.

Every one of the ten to fourteen billion nerve cells in the human brain is interconnected, and every one of them is an electric battery.

Fortunately, this earth is expected to last at least one million million years more. Men will have time to develop that unbelievably complicated brain machine.

MEN'S MENTAL attitudes change rapidly with changing conditions. Recently, Germany and Austria were begging the League of Nations to let them abolish tariff frontiers and build up some kind of strong German nation.

Now Dollfuss, who is "Austria's Hitler," but no Nazi, arrests Hitler's representatives. And Hitler is preparing, Heaven knows what, for vengeance on Dollfuss.

THE LATE Prof. Shalerjn, who taught geology at Harvard, wrote a book on the mob, telling the difference between individuals acting separately and in mob formation. He declared that a group of clergymen, under the right mob influence, might be started on a lynching expedition.

News comes from Germany that the most rampant, radical, communistic "red" groups of workers in Germany are now enthusiastic Nazis, eager to put on their brown shirts, and march under Hitler's orders. Men believe that they think FOR THEMSELVES, but, like wolves, what they want is a leader of the pack.

PREPARING a broadcast on the news of the past week, this writer asked William Randolph Hearst, whose newspapers supply news to 5,000,000 American families every Sunday, what he considered the most important news of last week.

His reply, telegraphed from his ranch at San Simeon, Cal., reads:

"The most important news of the week is that nothing has happened, or will happen, or can happen at the World's Economic Conference which would be of any benefit to America. Instead of our President going abroad, our delegates would better come home.

"The next most important news is that Charles E. Mitchell has been pronounced by a jury not guilty of income tax evasion. Juries will not convict people for evading the income tax law, or for evading the prohibition law. Both laws are unjust, unwise, un-American and consequently unpopular. They should be repealed.

"William Randolph Hearst."

IN GOOD HOUSEKEEPING MAGAZINE, for this month, Henry Ford says he looks to "men of forty" to rescue the nation from its difficulties. "Experience wins finally," says Mr. Ford, and adds that he has never known men under forty who were "worth much."

There are exceptions. For instance, Alexander the Great was dead at the age of thirty-three. Perhaps he was not "worth much." At twenty-five Keats had closed his book and lay in the cemetery at Rome, beneath a stone on which was written:

"Here lies one whose name was writ in water."

SHELLEY DIED, drowned, at thirty, and that colossus of all time, William Shakespeare, at thirty-eight, had written "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Romeo and Juliet," historical plays and innumerable other works.

Nobody knows better than Henry Ford how much had been done by his intimate friend, Thomas A. Edison, before the age of forty, and most important to the United States, at thirty, Henry Ford had built his first engine, and before forty had begun the work of putting the 123,000,000 people on wheels, and conquering the law of gravitation.

HOWEVER, Francis Bacon, "wisest of mankind," agrees in part with Mr. Ford.

"Young men are fitter to invent than to judge, fitter for execution than for counsel, and fitter for new projects than for settled business."

SENATOR NORRIS, of Nebraska, called a radical because he thinks the United States should be run by its 123,000,000 people, not by 123 million well-organized dollars, joins the United States Board of Trade in urging that the United States recognize Russia and proceed to do business with Russia, as in the days when the czars were

COAL MEN END FEUD ON CODE

Independents to Join Mellon Group in Harmony Move

These were today's developments in the nation-wide drive toward business recovery:

1—Harmony restored in Western Pennsylvania coal industry as independent operators join organization sponsored by Pittsburgh Coal Company to draft code under national recovery act.

2—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, industrial czar, ready to prod big industries into raising wages and increasing purchasing power; declares war on profiteers.

3—Leaders of the nation's largest industrial concerns organized by Secretary of Commerce Roper for conduct of business on long term basis.

Harmony was restored among coal operators of the Pittsburgh district today as the two factions of producers settled their differences on the question of working out a code and decided to merge their activities.

The Coal producers' Association of Western Pennsylvania, representing a majority of the independent operators, decided to join the organization which is being sponsored by the Mellon-controlled Pittsburgh Coal Company, largest operator in the Pittsburgh territory, it was learned from an authoritative source.

ASSOCIATIONS UNITE

The individual members of the Coal Producers' Association will not join the new organization, but the association as a unit will join. The new organization will then join Central Coals Associates, which represents producers in the leading northern fields. Central Coals was recently formed by Frank E. Taplin, Cleveland operator, who takes the stand the southern mines must raise their wages to a parity with the northern producers.

The action of independent operators of this district in accepting the proferred leadership of Pittsburgh Coal and of the new association in joining Central Coals Associates will make it possible for all northern coal producers to be represented as a unit in working out a code of fair practices and in negotiating with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, industrial czar.

This step reduces the many fac-

Professor Jailed In Labor Riot

CHICAGO, June 26.—(INS.)—Prof. Robert Morss Lovett, of the University of Chicago, and Thomas McKenna, of the Chicago Civic Liberties League were seized by police early today when they appeared in a demonstration in front of the shop of B. Sopkin & Sons, apron manufacturers, on the South Side.

The two men were arrested from among 1,500 dressmakers who staged the demonstration as a protest against wage cuts from $2 to $5 a week.

Braddock Stack to Be Fired

Tomorrow's sky over Braddock will be brighter with the blowing in of furnace No. 1 at the Edgar Thomson Works of the Carnegie Steel Company, sending several hundred men back to work. President I. Lamont Hughes, of the company, and other plant and civic officials will participate in the lighting ceremonies at 2:30 p. m.

This will be followed at 7:30 p. m. by a parade.

Tomorrow's program will mark the resumption of three furnaces at the plant in the past few weeks and heralds the opening of other furnaces in the near future, steel men say.

Mirroring the general picture of progress in the Pittsburgh district is the 100 per cent increase in production during May and June by the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Corporation.

Forty employes of the Pittsburgh Corrugated Paper Box Company will receive a 10 per cent wage increase Friday.

Five hundred steel workers, idle for two years, went back to work today at the Benwood plant of the Wheeling Steel Corporation.

The eleventh open hearth furnace at the Donora mill of the American Steel and Wire Company will be lighted this week. The Pittsburgh Steel Company plans to have 10 of its 12 open hearths operating at Monessen within five days.

Because of "the considerably improved condition of the steel business," 2,000 men have been added to the payroll of the Weirton Steel Company during the past 60 days. This announcement was made today at the general offices at Wierton, W. Va.

BARDOLPH SENTENCED TO 2 YEARS

Franklin S. & T. Head Gives Bond Pending Appeal

The ruin of the Franklin Savings and Trust Company today resulted in the sentencing of Charles A. Bardolph, its former president, to a two-year jail term.

He also must pay a $1,000 fine.

Bardolph was found guilty of making 11 false entries in the books of the bank. He gave immediate notice of appeal to the Superior Court and was released under $5,000 bond.

The Bardolph sentence recalled the crash of the Franklin Savings and Trust Company, in September, 1931, with its revelations of unsecured city money deposited there by ex-City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley and of unsecured loans granted to Schooley. The failure resulted in indictments of several officers and customers of the bank.

Charges against the former president came from deposits of worthless drafts by David Kellerman, of the Agricultural Exchange, which Bardolph entered on the books as cash.

Kellerman is under indictment for false pretense in connection with depositing the drafts and for conspiracy.

Herman Friedman is under indictment on charges of fraudulent conversion and conspiracy. He is known in Pittsburgh as a financier of politicians and a mortgage dealer.

Bardolph was acquitted on embezzlement and falsification charges.

Bailing Out Muldowney Picnickers

SLIPPERED JOHN M. MULDOWNEY

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE MARTIN K. WEITZEL

The middle-of-the-night scene in Mt. Lebanon Police Station as Mr. Muldowney, one of two brothers who responded pell-mell, signed $1,000 bonds for each of three men and three women among 16 arrested in the forceful climax of the Women's Booster Club of Soho's testimonial picnic for Congressman Michael J. Muldowney. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

16 ARRESTED, 6 INJURED IN MELEE

M'Quaide Son Among Those Seized in Tumult

It was a fine picnic they gave for Mike Muldowney, the congressman.

Such a fine picnic, indeed, that at 2 o'clock this morning the heads of the fair ladies and the sturdy gentlemen of Soho were being swathed in bandages and out at the picnic grounds the beer bottles were not only empty (and why not?) but broken.

It was a riot, literally, figuratively and socially.

Mr. McQuaide, Jr.

The polite way to say it is that the Women's Booster Club of Soho yesterday (and early today) gave a testimonial picnic at Eddie Ray's picnic grounds out at Greentree and Cochran roads, past Mt. Lebanon, attended by 1,000 political admirers of the handsome Soho bachelor Congressman.

Thirteen men and three women were arrested.

Three women and three men were injured.

Mayor Herron missed the opportunity of a lifetime to enjoy a bottle-hurling, shillelah-swinging entertainment by departing before the festivities began.

But Police Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide's son, young Franklin, Jr., apparently missed nothing. In fact, he was taken into custody by the Mt. Lebanon police, but, for some reason or other, was later discharged.

Congressman Muldowney was mildly indignant today at the suggestion that the rioters were constituents of his. He hinted that the trouble was caused by troublemakers outside his own congressional district.

However, he added:

"I paid a buck and missed the show."

The Congressman said that he had left in the afternoon.

All of the prisoners were charged with inciting to riot and six of them, unable to obtain bail, spent the night in the county jail.

Nobody seems to know what started the riot.

GOOD SAMARITAN

Supt. McQuaide said his son had only acted as a Good Samaritan in taking an injured man to a hospital. Police had no desire to hold him, the superintendent asserted.

Political satellites were there in bunches, their outstretched hands

TRIES TO BURN BOY AT STAKE

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 26.—A posse is combing the hills of Luzerne Township for a stranger accused of attempting to burn at the stake Paul Barber, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barber.

Paul's screams attracted the attention of his mother who found him bound to a log with a rope and chain and a fire started near him. The lad was not injured.

Paul said he and a younger brother had been playing cowboy when a stranger appeared, seized him, tied him up and told him he would kill him if he made any outcry. He described the man as having a part of his nose missing, dark complexion and wearing poor clothing.

Alfonso Forgives Son for Marrying

EVIANS-LES-BAINS, France, June 26.—(AP.)—Former King Alfonso, of Spain, has forgiven his eldest son for marrying a Cuban commoner, and so the Count and Countess Cavadonga today continued their five-days-old honeymoon in complete happiness.

A message from the former monarch also expressed parental affection for the son, who was married last week at Lausanne despite a letter from Alfonso expressing deep regret.

Banking Plot On Ford Charged

DETROIT, June 26.—(AP.)—Herbert R. Wilkin, Detroit banker, told the one-man grand jury investigating the closing of two national banks here today that "the sole reason for the closing of the banks, was, in my opinion, to 'get' Henry Ford."

Wilkin, former executive vice president of the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc., holding company for a number of banks, declared he was of the opinion that "Wall Street believed it had a chance, by tying up Ford's deposits in the banks, to so deplete his working capital that he must deal with them or go broke."

Ford, he said, had more than $65,000,000 on deposit in Detroit banks at that time.

Just before he made the statement regarding Ford, Wilkin had startled the open grand jury session by declaring more than $4,000,000 had been cleared through the Detroit Clearing House between the time of the actual declaration of the state banking holiday, Tuesday, February 14, and the following Thursday.

Withdrawals, he said, were made on behalf of Mrs. James Couzens, wife of the Michigan Senator, and the Second National Bank of Houston, Tex.

Pirates Kept Idle; 2 Games Tomorrow

NEW YORK, June 26.—Rain prevented the opening battle of the three-game series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants here today.

In announcing the postponement, the Giants' management stated that two games will be played tomorrow.

STOCKS ROCKET WITH WHEAT

NEW YORK, June 26.—(INS.)—Skyrocketing values for grains and cotton today sent stocks booming 1 to 6 points to a test of the highs for the year.

The bulls threw big orders into leading stocks such as United States Steel and American Telephone and the utilities as the market again hesitated at the old barrier of the year's highs in an effort to drive the list through. Heavy profit-taking had to be absorbed, and leadership was rotated from group to group until this was out of the way.

With wheat at its peak, up 4 cents a bushel, and cotton $2.50 a bale, bullish sentiment was again dominated and was translated into a heavy demand for stocks.

Tax Suit Fought by Mellon

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—Attorneys for Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury, and a group of other former Treasury officials, asked the District of Columbia Supreme Court today to dismiss a $220,000,000 suit against them charging they defrauded the government in the settlement of foreign steamship company taxes.

The suit, brought by David A. Olson, former investigator for a special Senate committee, named as defendants, in addition to Mellon, Ogden L. Mills, also a former Treasury Secretary; Arthur A. Ballantine, former undersecretary; David H. Blair, former Internal Revenue Commissioner, and Alexander W. Gregg, former Treasury solocitor.

J. Harry Covington, defense counsel, in arguing for dismissal of the suit before Justice James F. Proctor, said Olson's complaint was "fanciful in the extreme" and "conceived in malice."

Charles A. Russell, former counsel for the Federal Power Commission, who is Olson's attorney, answered Covington's attack by maintaining the suit was well-founded.

Olson on June 14 filed suit for more than $4,000,000 in Federal Court here against W. L. Mellon, president of the Gulf Oil Corporation, charging he dodged taxes of more than $2,000,000.

MICHAEL J. MULDOWNEY

PROBERS HEAR MULDOWNEY

Congressman M. J. Muldowney, whose election is being contested, testified before the federal grand jury probing alleged vote frauds today.

After five minutes he emerged unperturbed. Asked if he had been subjected to embarrassing questions, he replied:

"Oh, no! They just wanted to know how I spent election day. I told them at home except to vote around the corner. I said I was in touch with political leaders at times, but didn't recall just now which ones."

Muldowney's election in the Thirty-second Congressional District on the Republican ticket is disputed by Mrs. Anne E. Felix, Democratic nominee. Her charges of fraud were largely responsible for the federal inquiry.

William H. Coleman, Republican county chairman, was before the grand jury 20 minutes, presumably to tell what he knew of conferences and telephone conversations in the William Penn Hotel on election day last November.

Among those listed to testify this afternoon were Dr. Joseph G. Steedle, of McKees Rocks, assemblyman from the Twelfth Legislative District; Edward Labowitz, secretary of the Republican County Committee, and Justice of the Peace James J. Westwood, of McKees Rocks.

Borah Operated on At Johns Hopkins

BALTIMORE, June 26.—(AP.)—United States Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, underwent an operation on the prostate gland in Johns Hopkins Hospital here today.

Mrs. Borah was in the hospital at the time the operation was performed. She said physicians told her the operation had been "very much of a success."

Bank Cashier Slain As Four Loot Bank

LACROSSE, Ind., June 26.—(INS.)—Cashier W. E. Tennell, 42, was killed ruthlessly by one of four heavily armed gunmen who robbed the Lacrosse State Bank of less than $500 here today.

The leader of the bandit gang fired a bullet into Tennell's heart, shooting through the glass cage, although the cashier had obeyed the order to put up his hands.

Anne to Help Lindy Blaze Ocean Trail on Flight

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh is going sky-trail blazing this summer with her husband; to Greenland, and perhaps to Iceland and Denmark.

Col. Lindbergh's job will be to determine for Pan American Airways whether an America-to-Europe route by way of Greenland is feasible. His wife, who accompanied him on the flight to the Orient and more recently across the continent, will assist. She is a pilot, a navigator and radio operator.

The flight is planned to start some time in July. Col. Lindbergh will survey the route for landing places and to determine what type of plane is best suited for such flights, provided it is decided to inaugurate regular trans-ocean passenger and mail schedules.

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—(AP.)—The tramp Danish steamship Jelling, which is scheduled to act as a mothership for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's aerial survey of a far-northern route to Europe, will leave here late tomorrow with airplanes and gasoline.

Expert to Tell How to Borrow To Save Homes

Are you in danger of losing your home? Do you own a mortgage on which you cannot collect your payments? The federal government has made a credit of $2,300,000,000 available to protect home owners.

Just how this credit may be used by the individual will be explained by George Snyder, business editor, in a series of articles on the Home Owners' Act of 1933, starting in the Sun-Telegraph tomorrow.

Tin Horns for Judges Gift of Park Aides

District Attorney Andrew T. Park and his staff gave away a lot of gifts today, but they gave 'em with a sarcastic smile.

It was the annual gift lunch of the District Attorney's office, attended by 500 lawyers and politicians in the William Penn Hotel.

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern was absent, but Park, toastmaster, announced the presentation of a tin medal for the outspoken Independent. The medal was from and for McGovern, it seems.

For Park himself there was a live donkey which he was instructed to ride in an effort to keep up with the "night riders" at the September primary.

The judicial candidates were presented with tin horns for obvious reasons.

In the name of Mayor Herron Park presented James F. Malone mayoralty candidate, with a symbol which represented a seat in Council.

ADJUST WORLD DEBT STRUCTURE, COUZENS DEMANDS

SENATOR STIRS PARLEY AT LONDON

Urges World Action To Boost Price of Commodities

LONDON, June 26.—(AP.)—Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, American delegate, stirred the world economic conference today by declaring in a speech that the world's debt structure must be adjusted.

He emphasized the necessity of organizing creditors throughout the world and of establishing some form of permanent body to act in an advisory capacity between organized creditors and organized debtors.

DEBTS IN GENERAL

The Republican Senator did not mention war debts but referred to indebtedness in general. He warned that "this is in no sense to be construed as an invitation to debtors able to pay to scale down their obligations." He said:

"Certainly it is not an invitation to default."

He urged worldwide action to raise prices and to increase the demand for raw materials in his address, made before the sub-commission on immediate measures for financial reconstruction.

The Senator asserted he did not believe "that prices can be raised by monetary means alone."

He asserted that at the same time the purchasing power must be increased by such measures as public works and that the burden of debt "must be lightened." He cited measures already taken by the United States in these directions.

INCREASED DEMAND

Senator Couzens declared an increased demand for raw materials, as contemplated by the American program, offers in his opinion "far more hope for world recovery than can possibly be expected merely from a reduction in tariff duties on a number of manufactured articles which are highly competitive between nations."

The lone Republican in the American delegation spoke in elaboration of the resolution the Americans have introduced on expansion of credit and synchronized programs of public works to again start the wheels of industry. In direct fashion the Senator expressed the belief that debate has reached a point where various views can be drafted into concrete resolutions for adoption.

India Supports U. S. Stand on Silver

LONDON, June 26.—(INS.)—Prospects of a silver agreement arising from the deliberations of the World Economic Conference were enhanced today when India threw her influence behind the American silver remonitization scheme.

The Indian representative, Sir George Schuster, told the silver sub-committee India is prepared to co-operate in the silver plan introduced last week by Senator Key Pittman, of the American delegation, for a graduated absorption of the Indian silver surplus by silver producing countries.

HOARDERS SOON TO BE EXPOSED

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—Names of gold-hoarders who refuse to return the metal in compliance with President Roosevelt's order soon will be published by the Department of Justice.

Attorney General Cummings said today prosecution would follow the publication of the names and the only thing that was causing delay was that the department desired to have all its evidence completed before presenting a case to court. He declared:

"Most emphatically there will be prosecution of gold hoarders. The data against what you might call deliberate offenders is being assembled and they will be prosecuted. Before we reach the prosecution stage, however, I intend to publish the names of those persons known to be holding gold in defiance of the President's orders."

Cummings said 185 persons holding $1,141,819 of gold on June 24 had defied the government by refusing to return it. It is this list he plans to publish.

CAPITAL GAINS PLAN FAVORED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Retention of the capital gains and loss provisions of the federal income tax laws—which helped J. P. Morgan to escape income tax in this country while paying in England—has been recommended to the House ways and means investigating sub-committee by tax experts.

Although the committee believes it can close many loopholes which lightened the tax burden of Morgan, Charles E. Mitchell and others, its experts have reported that repeal of the capital gains and loss provision would aid the rich instead of the government.

Under this provision, an increase in capital assets as distinguished from ordinary income is taxable. Likewise, if there is a capital loss, such as selling stock or real estate at less than cost, it may be deducted in making income tax returns.

The capital gains and loss provision, according to experts, is one reason for income taxes rising to extraordinary amounts during the stock market boom period and then sinking almost to nothing during the depression.

PECORA READY FOR PROBE OF KUHN, LOEB

Quiz Opens Tomorrow; Norman H. Davis Involved

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The great private banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., only rival of J. P. Morgan & Co. in the realm of international finance, today faced a sweeping Senate inquiry into its financial operations during the boom years.

The inquiry will get under way tomorrow under the direction of Ferdinad Pecora, brilliant New York attorney. It will reveal a deadly parallel between the operations of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the revelation of the Morgan firm's control of industries through the financing of holding corporations.

The story will come from the lips of Otto Kahn, suave millionaire banker. Several other members of the firm may be heard later.

DAVIS SECRETS

A few more business secrets from the private life of Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's special ambassador to Europe, may furnish the highlights. The Senate investigators were in possession of evidence showing Davis accepted a $25,000 fee from Kuhn, Loeb & Co. for negotiating a Chilean potash loan in 1930. The loan was defaulted later.

The incident will show Davis as a businessman and attorney closely associated with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. in an ill-fated South American venture. The Morgan inquiry revealed him as one of the "favored clients" of that great banking firm, allowed to purchase choice securities at sub-market values. The new angle on his operations may precipitate his resignation as Roosevelt's private ambassador to Europe.

Meanwhile, studies made by Attorney General Cummings of the Senatorial investigation of the Morgan house indicated the necessity for remedial legislation by Congress, it was stated at the Department of Justice today.

MITCHELL ACQUITTED

The acquittal of Charles E. Charles E. Mitchell, former head of the National City Bank, of New York, on charges of tax evasion, does not preclude civil proceedings against the banker, Cummings said.

There has been no civil proceedings so far filed against Mitchell. Cummings said none is contemplated until the Treasury Department requests action. He said he understood the Treasury would proceed in the regular way.

This was taken to mean the Treasury was studying the case to determine whether a deficiency tax assessment would be levied against Mitchell. The taxpayer would be notified of the deficiency and then, no doubt, would petition the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals for relief.

MERCY ORDER LEADER DIES

Mother Aquinas, mother bursar of the Sisters of Mercy and former mother superior of the order, died today in Mercy Hospital. As mother bursar, she had charge of all finances of the Sisters of Mercy in this district.

She had actively discharged her duties until she became ill two weeks ago. She was a school teacher for many years, and held numerous offices of trust in the order.

TAKES BLAME IN HARRIMAN CASE DELAY

Former U. S. Official Admits Holding Up Prosecution

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—Nugent Dodds, former Assistant U. S. Attorney General in charge of the criminal division, told a Senate sub-committee today that he had ordered the delay in the prosecution of alleged irregularities in the conduct of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company.

Dodds, now an attorney in private practice in Washington, D. C., told the committee he had "complete control and charge of the Harriman matter," and said that he alone was responsible for the delay.

MEDALIE TESTIFIES

The former Assistant U. S. Attorney General was called as a witness after U. S. Attorney George Z. Medalie had testified that he had followed "the suggestion or direction" of the Department of Justice in delaying prosecution in the case.

While Medalie was testifying, Federal Judge William Bondy adjourned until Wednesday the fixing of a trial date for Joseph W. Harriman, former head of the bank, who is now under indictment charging him with causing false entries to be made in the books of the bank.

Medalie testified that December 23, 1932, he was informed by L. K. Roberts, chief bank examiner, that Elton Bisbee, a representative of the New York Clearing House Association, "intended to take up with the Department of Justice the matter of withholding from prosecution certain matters in connection with the Harriman National Bank."

RECEIVED LETTER

The United States Attorney said he left that evening for a vacation cruise and when he returned a day or two after New Year's, his chief assistant, Thomas E. Dewey, told him a letter regarding the Harriman case had been received.

Medalie said the letter, sent by the Treasury Department, was dated July 9, 1932, but was not mailed until December 23 and was received the following day.

Medalie continued:

"Mr. Dewey also said that he had received a telephone call from Nugent Dodds, then Assistant Attorney General in charge of the criminal division, the substance of which was that he had been visited by certain persons, including Mr. Bisbee, and had been in touch with responsible officials of the Treasury Department, and that on account of the delicate banking conditions in New York and throughout the country Mr. Dodds was of the opinion that we should accede to the request that prosecution be temporarily withheld."

Medalie said it was pointed out to him that the statute of limitations would not prevent prosecution later and that the persons against whom charges were made could be proceeded against "when the air cleared."

Medalie declared:

"I followed the suggestion or direction of the Department of Justice."

Fire Razes Hotel At Hammondsville

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., June 26.—As J. D. Lawrence celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday with a family reunion and dinner, flames swept the 85-year-old Lawrence Hotel at Hammondsville, of which he is the owner.

The 26-room frame structure was doomed when Wellsville firemen arrived after a 16-mile run. The loss was $10,000. The other owner, his daughter, Mrs. Ella Wilson, her family, and guests escaped unharmed.

MOLLY PICON, able young Jewish actress, returning from Russia, where anti-semitism no longer exists, describes the Soviet republic as a "land of actors and tractors, all with a red flag." Russia, she says, has the finest theaters in the world and wonderful actors, but all plays are based on "red propaganda."

"You have the feeling that, however the play started, it would certainly wind up waving a red flag."

Miss Picon found in Palestine a new "melting pot" developing a new culture.

DEBTORS PLAN SILVER OFFER

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(Universal.)—The debt revision "proposals" which debtor nations are preparing to offer the United States at the pending audiences in late July and August will be for a settlement at approximately 10 cents on the dollar, and that in silver, Universal Service learns.

The six partial payment nations, Great Britain, Rumania, Italy, Czechoslovakia, Latvia and Lithuania, who are to be received by the administration for readjustment discussions, have agreed to this figure among themselves, and will maintain the attitude that America accept this or nothing, according to reports in high official circles.

Meanwhile, the six defaulting nations have decided to make no further efforts toward obtaining debt conferences with this country.

Three of them, Estonia, Hungary and Jugoslavia, probably could not make any payments if they wished. The other three, France, Belgium and Poland, easily could make partial payments, but, under the leadership of France, have refused.

NAZI CHANGES LORD'S PRAYER

BERLIN, June 26.—(AP.)—Protestant church services in Germany will be short and snappy with martial music if Dr. Ludwig Mueller should become Reichs bishop and takes as a form for divine services the service he himself conducted yesterday.

Preaching in the ancient Koenigsberg Schlosskirche, built in 1257, Dr. Mueller limited his sermon to only 15 minutes, during which he described the Nazi revolution as God's hour for the German people.

In dismissing the congregation he pronounced a new form of apostolic blessing and also changed the Lord's Prayer in several respects.

A uniformed storm troopers' band played martial tunes. The entire service took less than an hour.

(Twenty-nine Protestant groups elected Dr. Friedrich von Bodelschwingh, a non-political candidate, to the post of bishop last May 27. The German Christians, a Nazi group, sought the election of Dr. Mueller and refused to accept the vote. Dr. von Bodelschwingh has returned his commission because of the Nazi government's appointment of a church commissioner.)

HITLER FORCES ARREST 600

BERLIN, June 26.—(INS.)—Adolf Hitler's government forces staged a nation-wide clean-up of die-hard political opponents today, making more than 600 arrests, most of which were labeled "protective" in the interests of the national government.

Those seized included many deputies in both the Reichstag and provincial Diets and many former government officials.

A total of 560 Social Democrat (Socialist) and Communist functionaries were arresetd in Magdeburg, Senftleben, Hamburg, Frankfort and Bremen.

In Munich, birthplace of the Nazi party, but also stronghold of the Bavarian People's party, an ally of the Catholic Centrist party, 49 peoplists were arrested, all members of either the Richstag or the Bavarian Diet. These men all were charged with sabotage.

RIOT BREAKS UP MULDOWNEY PICNIC

eagerly shaking the hands of the voters.

Among the notables at the picnic was Thomas (Goose) Goslin.

According to the Mt. Lebanon police, the first report of the riot came from two of the picnickers, themselves, John A. Gould, 55, of Reddour street, and W. J. Robertson, of 406 Boulevard of the Allies.

While Gould and Robertson were reporting the fight, Robert Muldowney, 24, of 2536 Charles street, and Frank Lehy, 24, of Fransworth street, entered the station, demanding to be sworn in as officers to stop the fight that was being reported.

Fireman W. J. Richey threw them out. A few minutes later they ran their automobile into a beacon in Sunset drive. Muldowney was charged with driving under the influence of liquor and Lehy with disorderly conduct.

POLICE RUSH TO SCENE

Once, twice three times the Mt. Lebanon police car rushed to the picnic grounds, loaded the "wagon" with prisoners and hurried away but the riot seemed to run its own course without benefit of the law.

Police Chief William J. Kane disturbed from his slumbers, ordered the entire night force of six policemen to the picnic.

The officers said the fighting was terrific. Men and women, they said, were wielding beer bottles, mugs, beer cans and anything else handy. Many others, they said, just used their fists.

The fighting began, police said, in the grounds in a small sort of way and grew into a riot when an automobile driven, police say, by John J. McCormick, 40, of 329 Fingal street, was hit by another driven by Chester Basial, 26, of 2037 DeRaud street. Basial's car upset.

The injured were McCormick, Mary Ellis, 45, of 250 Pride street; Anna Jones, 46, of 1213 Sycamore street; Thomas Murray, 52, of 1862 Greenleaf street; Mrs. Nellie McCormick, 38, wife of the driver, and Lawrence Markey, 25, of 463 Beelen street. They, too, were arrested.

M'QUAIDE ARRESTED

Under the name of James Connors, the son of Police Supt. McQuaide was taken with the others to Mt. Lebanon station, police said. Justice of the Peace Weitzel and Chief Kane went into a huddle and "Connors" was permitted to depart.

Asked why "Connors" was permitted to go, the squire said:

"Why should I hold him? There's no blood on him like there is on the others? He's not mussed up. Why he was just lying on the road sleeping with Miller."

Harold Miller, 25, of 225 Sweetbriar street, had been arrested with "Connors." However, Miller went to the county jail on a charge of inciting a riot. He couldn't get bail.

Squire Weitzel admitted later that he had knocked "Connors'" hand down when the latter is said to have attempted to snatch a revolver from the holster of Patrolman P. L. Hazley.

BROTHERS ARRIVE

Into the police station after the riot came City Detective Edward Muldowney and John M. Muldowney, brothers of the Congressman.

Just out of bed, John, in bedroom slippers, posted bail for a half dozen.

Also aroused from sleep was elderly Mrs. Sarah Gould, of Reddour street, who borrowed the justice's glasses, then signed bond for three.

Others arrested included Edward McCue, 44, of 26 Dendar street; John Magerl, 27, of 2018 Forbes street Hubert Carlin, 28, 341 Hasting street; Pat Killeen, 26, 2035 Ellicott street; John Gaiden, 29, of 49 Kirkpatrick street; Edward Manion, 35, of 24 Kirkpatrick street; Ray Butterback, 29, of Fingal street.

They will be given hearings Thursday night in Squire Weitzel's Dormont office. The informations were made by County Detective Frank Ritz, who had been summoned by Mt. Lebanon police.

All those arrested were admitted to bond with the exception of Miller, Manion, Gaider, Carl McQue and Magerl. They were lodged in the County Jail.

RUSSIA SEEKS BRITISH TRUCE

LONDON, June 26.—(AP.)—The foreign ministers of Great Britain and Soviet Russia today started negotiations looking toward the resumption of trade between the two nations, which was broken off as the result of the controversy growing out of the trial in Moscow last April of a group of British engineers charged with espionage and sabotage.

The negotiations took place at the British foreign office, where Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, called on Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon.

Litvinoff emerged several hours later. He said:

"We made clear to one another the position of our respective governments and the present obstacles to renewal of Anglo-Soviet trading negotiations."

Moley to Complete London Trip by Air

LONDON, June 26.—(AP.)—Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley, whose arrival from the United States is awaited with tense interest by World Economic Conference delegates from many countries, will fly here tomorrow from Cobh, Irish Free State.

President Roosevelt's special envoy will depart from the steamship Manhattan at Cobh and take an airplane direct to Croydon Field.

DAVIS TO VISIT ROOSEVELT

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service.

LAKEMAN BAY, Roque Island, Me., June 26.—Within easy sail of his goal—Campobello Island—President Roosevelt today prepared to leave this snug cove, where the Amberjack II dropped anchor last night, to continue his leisurely cruise up the northeastern coast.

Some time tomorrow the President will take aboard his schooner Norman H. Davis, American Ambassador-at-Large to Europe, for a discussion of the World Disarmament Conference, from which Davis has just returned.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., June 26.—(AP.)—The big United States cruiser Indianapolis nosed out of Provincetown harbor today in a dense fog, en route for Eastport, Me., where President Roosevelt will be taken aboard.

According to present plans, the cruiser will carry the President to the mouth of the Potomac where another vessel will meet the Indianapolis and take the President to Washington.

For several days the Indianapolis had been anchored at Provincetown while preparations were made for taking the President aboard.

Davis Starts Trip To Visit Roosevelt

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—Norman H. Davis, United States ambassador-at-large, left his home today for Boston, from where he will go to the yacht Amberjack II to confer with President Roosevelt.

Toy Dog's Bark Helps Swindle, Pair Jailed

Two men, arrested by city detectives downtown last night in connection with what the sleuths say is an old short change racket with a new twist, were to be arraigned in Central Police Court today.

They said they were Robert Parker, of Griffen, Ga., and Clifford Swisher, of Danville, Ill. With the use of a toy dog, which barks when a button is touched, the suspects were able to distract store clerks when they were making change for them, detectives said.

It works in the following manner, police explained: A $10 bill is presented to cashier for small purchase. After receiving change another $5 is presented for change to cashier. The dog barks, cashier is confused, and the purchaser changes his mind and asks for the $10 back. Still confused by the bark, the victim usually turns over the $10 instead of the $5.

German Women to Quit Business for Home

BERLIN, June 26.—(Universal.)—The Nazi frau and fraulein of the "New Germany" is to have one year compulsory labor service and then devote himself to "children, kitchen and church."

The plan for the new German woman, as approved by a women's congress, meeting at Eisenach, provides for the removal of all women from vocational life, as far as this is possible, and their replacement by married men.

The women are to be induced to marry and give up their wages by receipt of a government "dowery," provisional upon agreement not to accept employment again, and a bonus for every child born.

Also to increase the birth rate, illegitimate children, according to the plan, are to receive the name of their father.

The congress proposals include "purification" of gay night life by limitation of the sale of alcoholic drinks and through propaganda organizations to be established at colleges and other educational institutions attended by women.

Frau Paula Siber has been appointed by Minister of the Interior Frick to begin reorganization of woman's life in Germany, freed of many taboos during the early years of the republic, and to unite all feminine organizations into a single national "bund," just as the Nazi regime has treated labor and the church.

Textile manufacturers have expressing fear that, if the plan is carried out, it will deprive them of many of their most valuable women employes and prove a serious blow to the fashion industry.

HUTTON FEARS NEW HOAX, IGNORES CALL TO JOIN AIMEE

RESENTS WIRES SENT HIM BY 'OUTSIDERS'

Evangelist Not to Ask Paris Divorce, Says Attorney

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—(AP.)—David Hutton, baritone husband of Angelus Temple's roving evangelist, gave his announced suspicions of men and motive's free play today while he awaited further word from Paris regarding the condition of his wife.

He had been fooled once, the wary singer said, to the extent of cabling to confirm a report that he was a father, and he wouldn't be fooled again. Summoned to France to be at the bedside of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, he said he would go only when and if she herself asked him to.

Some pique, too, was evident in his public statement that if Mrs. McPherson-Hutton needed him, "no cables to outsiders would be necessary." A message yesterday, "Imperative David come," was addressed to Temple headquarters. He said:

"The cable requesting my presence may be the same sort of hoax as the one concerning the alleged baby."

The message was signed "Middleton," presumably the evangelist's nurse, Miss Bernice Middleton.

Adding to his suspicions was information from Paris purporting to explain the cable about the baby. This quoted the evangelist's doctor as saying he sent it at her direction to discover the "leak" to the press on important private messages addressed to the million-dollar evangelistic edifice beside swan-graced Echo Park Lake.

Meanwhile, a cablegram to the Temple said Mrs. McPherson-Hutton's condition was good after an operation. She signed it.

Another denial of reports that she planned to divorce Hutton in Paris was issued by his attorney, Fairfax Cosby, at San Francisco.

GUNMEN KIDNAP CORBETT, WIFE

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP.)—Young Corbett, former welterweight boxing champion, and his wife were adbucted and robbed yesterday as they started to drive from Chicago to their home in Fresno, Cal.

The fighter, who lost his title to Jimmy McLarnin on May 20, had spent a week here at the world's fair.

The boxer and his wife were driven through a West Side park while they and their luggage was searched. After taking $225 in cash from Corbett and two diamond rings, valued at $500 from his wife, the gunmen abandoned the couple in their car, throwing away the keys.

Corbett said he tried to identify himself to the holdup men, but their spokesmen apparently was unimpressed. He quoted their leader as saying:

"Where do you get that stuff? Corbett's dead."

GEORGE HEARST MARRIES

HEARST RANCH, SAN SIMEON, Cal., June 26.—(Universal.)—George Hearst, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, and Mrs. Lorna Velie, of Beverly Hills, were married here yesterday afternoon.

The wedding took place in the large assembly room of the castle at La Cuesta Encantada, the beautiful estate of the bridegroom's father, before an altar erected at the south end of the room, which was banked with roses and gardenias and flanked with old Spanish torcheres that illuminated the walls lined with rare tapestries above beautifully carved Gothic stalls.

The Rev. Harold E. Baker, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church in San Luis Obispo, officiated.

Gov. James Rolph, Jr., friend of the young couple, gave the bride away. He flew up here yesterday morning from Los Angeles in a specially provided plane.

Charles H. Mayer, of San Francisco, was best man and Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, of Beverly Hills, matron of honor.

The bride wore a gown of blue organza and a hat of the same material with a small tulle veil and shoes of blue to match the gown. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias.

Mrs. Williams' gown was of peach organza. She also wore a velvet hat of the same hue with brown bows, and brown satin slippers. In her arms was a bouquet of talisman roses.

After the wedding ceremony, 60 guests sat down to dinner.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Burns Pratt, of Bremerton, Wash.

George Hearst, now in charge of the radio facilities and development of the Hearst newspapers and affiliated organizations, is a member of Gov. Rolph's official staff and commodore of the California Naval Militia.

Honeymoon plans include a motor trip through the Northwest and Canadian lakes.

Boy Hurt in Fall From Tree Dies

A fall from a cherry tree proved fatal today to 7-year-old Robert L. Fouchet, of the Mifflin Hotel, Mifflin Township. Twenty-four hours after he had fallen from the tree Robert complained of a pain in the stomach. He died of internal injuries five minutes after being taken to Homestead Hospital.

DAMAGE SLIGHT IN WESTERN QUAKE ZONE

Reno Near Shock Hub; Sumatra Temblor Kills 67

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—(AP.)—Mother Earth was back to normal stolidity today after gently quivering over a wide area of California and Nevada.

The tremors, which at some places joggled crockery off shelves and rattled windows, occurred shortly after noon Sunday. Sacramento, Lake Tahoe and Reno and Fallon, Nev., reported slight damage. In San Francisco, the quake was so light it passed unnoticed by many persons.

Two later quakes in Southern California, which appeared to miss the mid-day jiggles, were reported from Santa Barbara at 10:30 p. m. No damage was reported.

LIGHT AT BERKELEY

The seismograph at the University of California at Berkeley recorded the shocks starting at 12:46 p. m. and continuing until 1:50 p. m. Prof. Perry Byerly described them as of "moderately large intensity" and probably "quite severe" at the epicenter which he estimated was from 110 to 150 miles east of Berkeley.

At the University of Nevada at Reno, the seismograph needle was thrown off the drum of the instrument. Officials at the university described the movement as a series of light shocks lasting about 45 seconds. They estimated the epicenter as within five miles of Reno.

Slight damage was caused to a theater at Fallon, 40 miles east of Reno. At Tahoe, some walls were cracked.

QUAKE KILLS 67

BATAVIA, Java, June 26.—(AP.)—Sixty-seven persons were killed today in a severe earthquake which struck South Bencoolen, a seaport on the west coast of Sumatra. Most of the inhabitants of the district are Malayans.

New England Towns Have Quake Scare

STAMFORD, Conn., June 26.—(INS.)—Residents of this city and other towns to the west were startled this morning by what appeared to be an earth tremor that shattered windows and dishes and sent scores of persons running from their homes.

The shock occurred about 9:15 a. m. and lasted about 15 seconds, accompanied by a rumble like that of a muffled explosion. Downtown buildings' shook, but there was no damage reported.

The shock was felt along the Long Island Sound shore, a check-up revealed, as well as inland two or three miles.

The supposed earth tremor was reported felt in Greenwich and in Rye and White Plains, N. Y.

Reward Spurs Hunt For Missing Fliers

MEXICO, D. F., June 26.—(AP.)—Rewards totaling $8,000 to persons finding Capt. Mariano Barberan and Lieut. Joaquin Collar, Spanish trans-Atlantic fliers, missing since last Tuesday on a flight from Havana to Mexico, were announced today.

The Governor of Puebla State and Spanish chambers of commerce, in offering the rewards, said they hoped to stimulate an already widespread search for the Spaniards.

ASK 'SOLUTION' IN TUB DEATH

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 26.—(Universal.)—The demand that Louis O'Neil, San Jose attorney and political power, produce his "solution of the Lamson bathtub murder mystery" and turn over to the district attorney the names of all witnesses who figure in the "solution" was to be made today by Chief Deputy District Attorney John P. Fitzgerald.

O'Neal declared last week that he would not be associated with the defense of David A. Lamson, accused of bludgeoning to death his pretty wife, Allene Thorpe Lamson, in the bathroom of their Stanford campus home the morning of Memorial Day.

O'Neal added that he has "solved" the murder mystery, that Lamson is entireely innocent of the crime, and that he, O'Neal, has the names and address of witnesses who will absolutely exonerate Lamson.

Dean Inge to Quit St. Paul's Next Year

LONDON, June 26.—(AP.)—Dr. William R. Inge, dean of St. Paul's since 1911, has announced his intention to resign the position next summer on account of advancing years. He is 73.

Dean Inge intends to spend his retirement in the neighborhood of Oxford, where he is understood to be negotiating for a house.

HEAT BROKEN, ONE DEAD

Showers today brought slight relief from the recurring heat wave that caused one death over the week-end and sent sweltering residents to swimming pools and parks.

Scattered showers fell last night and early today in the tri-state territory, ranging from a sprinkle in downtown Pittsburgh to 1.16 inches in Coraopolis and moderate downpours in other districts.

Yesterday's maximum temperature was 90.

Contrasting with May, the wettest on record, June has been unusually dry. To date only .77 of an inch of rain has fallen, 2.39 inches below the average.

Mrs. Mary Lauth, 34, of 708 Bucyrus street, collapsed in her home from a heart attack blamed on the heat and died in Mercy Hospital, the Coroner reported.

Thomas Werbanic, 17, of 1722 Branchport street, suffered head lacerations when he struck a stone as he dived into the Ohio River from a platform on Brunots Island.

LIBBY'S BABY GUARDED BY SMALL ARMY

14 Officers, Huge Dog Between Kidnapers, Child Millionaire

International News Service.

WATCH HILL, R. I., June 26.—Six armed sentinels, the eight-man police force of Westerly and a Great Dane, as large as a pony, were guarding Libby Holman's millionaire baby today in his summer citadel of the elite.

The one-time Broadway torch singer who married into the Reynolds tobacco fortune only to have her 20-year-old husband slain in a mysterious shooting, is taking no chances with kidnapers.

Zachary Smith Reynolds, victim of the tragic gunplay, left an estimated $20,000,000.

When the courts finally decide what is what, Libby's son, Smith Reynolds II, born in a Philadelphia hospital January 10, will have a sizeable slice of that wealth.

FUSS OVER BABY

Tiny Rhode Island hasn't witnessed such a fuss over one youngster since 30 years ago, when, at nearby Newport, John Nicholas Brown, known as "the world's richest baby," was cloistered by barbed wire and Pinkerton detectives.

Until Libby secretly moved into Watch Hill a fortnight ago, the story of "the world's richest baby" had been almost forgotten.

Each morning the train from Boston brings a special consignment of milk for Smith Reynolds II, who has added quite a few pounds since he emerged from his Philadelphia incubator.

Libby's own car waits at the Westerly Station, six miles from here, to dash home with Baby Reynolds' breakfast.

DU PONT KIN CHUM

With her chum, Mrs. Louisa du Pont Carpenter Jenney, one of the Wilmington du Ponts, the former Broadway warbler slipped unobstrusively into Watch Hill.

Her villa was rented from Carl Sturhahn, wealthy Hartford, Conn., insurance man. It is a spacious 25-room, cream and white mansion, perched at the edge of the Atlantic.

Shortly after Libby arrived a $5,000 speedboat was delivered at the yacht club. With Libby at the controls, it has been seen frequently leaving the blue waters of the harbor.

Lights glow until the early morning hours at Rim Rock, long after Libby's neighbors—among them R. B. Mellon, brother of the former Secretary of the Treasury, have sought their beds.

Bicycling is one of Libby's pastimes.

BUCK STARTS 24-YEAR TERM

BARNSTABLE, Mass., June 26.—(AP.)—Prison doors at Boston opened today for Kenneth Buck, under sentence of 24 years for the kidnaping of Margaret (Peggy) McMath.

Kenneth was convicted Saturday night. The same jury that found him guilty returned an acquittal for his brother, Cyril, who had been tried on a similar charge. The state had charged Cyril was the contact man in the negotiations between the parents of the kidnaped girl and her abductors.

Counsel for Kenneth Buck indicated an appeal might be taken on the basis of newly found evidence which, he said, came into his possession shortly before the jury returned its verdict.

SLAYER DIES IN CHAIR

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, Bellefonte, Pa., June 26.—(INS.)—The second Pennsylvania murderer this year to pay with his life for his crime against society, Joseph Kurutz, 47, Northampton County slayer, today was electrocuted here for the killing of his stepson, Joseph Posch, 15.

Kurutz was calm throughout the brief proceedings. He walked from his cell to the death chair unaided, accompanied by Father McReesh, who chanted at litany.

Kurutz was convicted of killing his youthful stepson because the boy refused to stay at work on his step-father's farm near Bethlehem, joining other boys at play instead.

Young Doug Fights for His Life

NEW YORK, June 26.—(INS.)—Critically ill with pneumonia, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is fighting for life in Doctor's Hospital today.

His divorced wife, Joan Crawford, is being kept informed of his condition by telephone to the coast and his mother, Mrs. Jack Whiting, is at his bedside. Miss Crawford first called the hospital Saturday night.

The Whiting home reported:

"His temperature is down a bit. He is holding his own."

Mrs. Whiting had maintained an all-night vigil at her son's bedside, returned home for a change of clothing and went back to the hospital.

Fairbanks returned from Europe on the Bremen Friday and was admitted to the hospital Saturday. He had caught cold during the trip over and his condition grew much worse soon after he landed.

From London, Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., telephoned and held himself in readiness to leave for New York.

SEIZE SPANIARD FOR VATICAN BOMBING

Revenge Plot Charged In Blast Imperiling Pope, Injuring 4

VATICAN CITY, June 26.—(AP.)—The bomb which exploded yesterday in the portico of St. Peter's was manufactured in Spain and brought here by Demetrio Solamon, who carried a Spanish passport, the police declared today, after they had arrested Solamon, charging him with planting the explosive.

The authorities asserted the explosion was the result of the present strained relations between the Vatican and Spain following the Pope's encyclical of June 3 and the latae sententiae excommunications of members of the Spanish government.

The bomb caused a panic in a crowd of Holy Year pilgrims. Four persons were injured but there was little property damage.

BOMB PLANTED

Solamon was born at Alexandria, Egypt, later became a Greek citizen and finally a Spaniard. He left Spain, the police said, on Thursday night and came directly to Rome, arriving yesterday morning. He went straight to St. Peter's where he deposited the bomb, the authorities asserted, in a heavy cardboard package.

Police related that Solamon stood in the middle of St. Peter's Square near the ancient Egyptian Obelisk until the bomb exploded, whereupon he began to run away.

A Fascist militia officer in civilian clothes started after him. He had passed the huge fountain to the left of the piazza when he put his hand inside his coat and threw something into one of the fountains and then dashed on, eluding the pursuer.

FINDS PASSPORT

The officer, thinking of the object tossed into the fountain, returned to the square and fished out a water-soaked Spanish passport which he turned over to the police.

The police presented the passport to Giovanni Secchi, a checking booth attendant, who identified the photograph as that of the man who had deposited the bomb package with him an hour before the explosion.

A check of outgoing trains failed to reveal Solamon and the police then searched the hotels. The arrest was made early this morning.

The Pope was in his private library at the time of the explosion, and, thinking that it was the cannons which are fired daily to announce the noon hour, he went on with his work.

As a result of the explosion persons entering the Vatican today for audiences with the Pope were closely scrutinized by attendants before being admitted into the Pontiff's presence.

The outrage happened at 12:15 p. m. just after the conclusion of the last mass, when many pilgrims, including a number of Americans, were passing in and out of the main doors.

WOMAN SLAIN, GIRL, MAN CUT

GREENSBURG, June 26.—(AP.)—Told by his landlady he must pack up and leave, George Frye, 21, pulled out a hunting knife and fatally stabbed the woman, slashed her 17-year-old sister, then turned the knife on himself. He probably will die.

Mrs. George Clemens, 25, wife of a taxi driver, died at a hospital shortly after the stabbing. Her sister, Olive Davis, is in a hospital with four deep cuts on her head and body.

Police said Frye raced upstairs after cutting Mrs. Clemens, meeting the girl on the stairway, then fled to his room and inflicted seven deep wounds in his own body.

Clemens, informed of his wife's condition, raced to the hospital in his cab, carrying a passenger. En route he wrecked his machine, injuring himself and his fare.

Zionist Leader, 'Broke,' To Build New City

ZION, Ill., June 26.—(AP.)—Wilbur Glenn Voliva says he is going to strike out anew, and build another colony elsewhere.

The religious overseer of Zion, who contends the earth is flat, and against whom a petition in bankruptcy was filed last May, made this announcement last night. He said:

"With 50 cents in the palm of my hand to start with, in 12 months' time I'll build a bigger and better Zion City than ever before."

His remark recalled the statement he made back in 1907, after he succeeded Alexander Dowie as head of the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church. It was then that he told a court that his assets were exactly 33 cents. He predicted:

"The day will come when I will own every foot, inch and pinch of Zion."

Under his leadership the Zion industries, founded by Dowie as a co-operative venture, grew until the financial empire he predicted came true. His followers baked cookies, ran cement factories, paved roads and engaged in other lines of endeavor. Financial storms were weathered until about two years ago. Since then his flock and factory workers have not received regular pay checks.

The bankruptcy petition against Voliva, filed in behalf of J. B. Leech, Robert Stowe and Albert W. Tarbotte, of Zion, charged he owed more than $500,000. Another suit brought by the trio alleged the Zion Corporation had been bankrupt for four months.

Voliva said that only the faithful could join him in his new undertaking, the scene of which he did not reveal.

Brisbane Opens Series Of Radio Talks

NEW YORK, June 26.—(Universal.)—A series of Sunday night talks entitled "This Week" was inaugurated last night by Arthur Brisbane, noted editor of the Hearst newspapers, over a National Broadcasting Company network.

Patterned after his widely-read column, "Today," Mr. Brisbane's broadcast contained comment on a wide range of current affairs.

After saying he had stopped in the city room of the New York American to get the day's latest news on his way to the studio, Mr. Brisbane first commented on the bomb explosion that injured four in St. Peter's, Rome, at noon yesterday.

Turning to domestic affairs, he related that, in preparation for his broadcast, he had asked William Randolph Hearst what he considered the most important news of the week. He then read the reply he received.

The answer, which declared nothing can happen at the World Economic Conference to benefit America and expressed condemnation of the United States income tax law, appears in Brisbane's column "Today" in today's Sun-Telegraph.

Discussing the national and international monetary situation, Mr. Brisbane declared:

"The important thing is that this nation should not allow Europe, at present defaulting on war debts of ten billions plus interest, to tell the United States what to do about its money, its national defense, or anything else that is the business of the United States."

The impending flight of Gen. Balbo and 25 planes from Italy to Chicago was touched on with this comment:

"The arrival of that fleet should remind us of what might happen on some less peaceful occasion with planes sent from other nations. Americans should ask their government to give them adequate air protection."

INDUSTRY CZAR SET TO BAN PROFITEERS

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—The administration wants to mold public opinion into a prod for big industries that seem a little slow about agreeing on how they shall increase wages and purchasing power.

That same weapon will be used to see that these industries do not stray toward any "wild-cat price lifting" schemes.

Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, inaugurated the direct appeal campaign because he was slightly ruffled at the fact that the rest of the 10 big industries apparently are waiting to see what happens to the cotton textile trade agreement before presenting their own.

URGES WIDE SUPPORT

His thesis in the plea to the people, and to business, was that the program "can succeed only if the whole nation gets behind it with both zeal and determination—every man and woman."

Already he has received proposed codes of fair competition from around 30 small industries, but except for cotton textiles the other big ones haven't come through. One reason, he said, was "ill-informed conjecture" that labor first should organize or that industry should form company unions to cut off labor organizations. He summarized:

"Both savings are wrong and very harmful."

FORESTALLS GOUGERS

To forestall possible "peace profiteering," he added:

"This is a deadly serious matter—this danger of run-away prices. There are still about 12,000,000 unemployed in this country and even those who still have jobs are largely on much reduced incomes.

"Any wild cat price lifting will have its first bearing directly on the very creature necessities of these unfortunates—their means to keep out hunger, thirst and cold.

"This administration will not stand for that and we do not expect to have any trouble about it."

COTTON OUTPUT CUT ASSURED

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—Farm act administrators predicted to newspapermen today that cotton farmers would exceed all expectations in agreeing to curtail production as a week-long campaign to that end was launched throughout the South.

Meanwhile, plans were announced for a companion effort to start the proposed wheat reduction drive by July 1.

Chester Davis, cotton production director, said the cotton plan provides "the most generous offer ever made the American farmer," and asserted that advance indications of the response of farmers point to success.

C. A. Cobb, cotton production chief, contended the campaign is "better organized" than the wartime Liberty Loan drives and that 20,000 workers will be in the field during the week to hold meetings with farmers.

Farmers have their choice of two plans, either to offer from 25 to 50 per cent of their cotton acreage for cash payments ranging from $7 to $20 an acre or an option-benefit plan under which payments will range from $6 to $12 an acre with growers to receive in additon options on government-held cotton at 6 cents a pound.

TRADE LEADERS MAP PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(INS.)—America's high-power anti-depression committee composed of leading business men of the country, met with Secretary of Commerce Roper today to lay out its program of action.

This organization of 46 men will make plans for the conduct of business and industry on a long term basis and will co-operate with the industrial control recovery administration.

Among the leaders of the business world in the membership are Walter C. Teagle, of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey; Gerard Swope of the General Electric Company; Henry I. Harriman, head of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Alexander Legge, of the International Harvester Company; Alfred P. Sloan, of the General Motors Corporation; Pierre du Pont, of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company; Walter Gifford, of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago banker.

U. S. TO CREATE VET BOARDS

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—A decision by Veterans Administrator Hines to set special boards of five members in the areas of the regional offices to review presumptive disability cases was disclosed today in letters from Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans affairs, to members of Congress.

Hines said it had been decided to ask governors, senators and the Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce in each state to submit nominations for three of the five members to be appointed by the President.

The other two will be veterans' administration agents.

The three civilian members will be paid $15 per day while serving, plus $5 per diem for subsistence.

The reviewing boards, provided for in the veterans compromise enacted in the closing hours of Congress, will go over the cases of veterans whose compensation is being paid on the presumption their ailments resulted from service.

LIVING COSTS MOVE UPWARD

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—Up—says the National Industrial Conference Board—goes the cost of living.

The board's monthly index showed today that living costs for May were 0.8 per cent higher than in April. The figures are based on data from 172 representative cities.

The purchasing power of the dollar, the index showed, was 138.7 in May as compared with 139.9 in April, the 1923 dollar being taken as 100.

Despite the rise of the month, living costs were still 7.4 per cent lower than in May of last year.

Rentals, the board's figures showed, declined 0.8 per cent in May, but food prices were up 3.6 per cent. Clothing prices showed no appreciable change.

STORES DRAFT WAGE CODE

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—A code calling for minimum wage rates of $10 to $18 a week for experienced workers has been drafted by the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

The code has been approved by the association's board of directors and is being sent for approval and comment to 4,000 department stores, dry goods stores, mail order houses and specialty shops which are members of the association.

In 1932 these members did a business estimated at close to $3,500,000,000.

Lew Hahn, association president, said the code is tentative and has not yet been forwarded to Gen. Hugh Johnson, administrator of national recovery. It is the hope of the association Hahn said, that when it is complete it will represent the entire retail craft covering stores in the drug, hardware, grocery, jewelry, furniture, shoe and men's clothing fields.

FEUD OVER COAL CODE ENDED

tions of the eastern bituminous coal industry into two groups—one in the North and one in the South. Further co-ordination appears unlikely, in the opinion of coal men, because of the lower wages paid in southern fields and the effect that any national wage scale would have on the redistribution of markets.

WORK ON DETAILS

A name was to be chosen for the new organization and details of operation were to be decided at a meeting called at the William Penn Hotel this afternoon.

The "captive" mines in this district have not yet made known their intentions in regard to the new association. These mines are owned by steel companies and public utilities which consume all their production. These mines may either join with the other coal operators in forming a code or they may adopt a code of their own which would be a part of the codes of their parent industries. Since these mines do not compete commercially, it is not of vital importance to the coal industry which policy they adopt.

MINERS' UNION CLAIMS GAINS

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 26.—A strong affiliation of miners in Greene County with the United Mine Workers of America was claimed by union officials today following a meeting at Nemacolin yesterday. Union officials said they had 100 per cent at Mather, Crucible and Nemacolin, and 85 per cent at the Bobtown mine of the Shannopin Coal Company.

The meeting yesterday was attended by approximately two thousand miners. The action of State Senator C. W. Parkinson, of Waynesburg, representing Greene and Washington counties in opposing old age pension legislation was assailed.

Miners Returning At Fredericktown

FREDERICKOWN, Pa., June 26.—(AP.)—The 1,000 miners of the W. J. Rainey Coay Company, who walked out last Tuesday morning after lamps were refused to two miners, were to return to work today.

Company officials announced they have agreed to recognize a committee representing the men from the pit, adding that this did not mean recognition of a union.

Relief Costs Drop First Time Since '32

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—The first decrease in relief expenditures since June, 1932, was reported today for April by the children's bureau of the Labor Department.

The bureau added that while statistics from 120 cities showed a 9 per cent decrease from March, the month's expenditures were still 54 per cent higher than the total for April a year ago.

ENVOY WELLES HELD CUBA'S 'ONLY HOPE'

Karl Decker, veteran newspaperman, soldier of fortune and participant in Cuban and Latin-American uprisings, has returned to the United States after making a tour of the three eastern provinces of Cuba. In the following article written exclusively for Universal Service, he tells why he believes the time has not yet come for a successful uprising against the government of President Machado.

By KARL DECKER,
Veteran Newspaperman and Soldier of Fortune.
(Copyright, 1933, Universal Service, Inc.)

Cuba's sole hope of salvation today seems to lie in Ambassador Sumner Welles. The dictatorship of Machado through eight years, crushing out all hope of revolt through the ballot, taxing the people of the island into abject poverty, and building up a well trained and drilled army and rural guard has left the country without hope of success through armed revolution in the field.

The revolution in Cuba today is an urban revolution unlike any ever known in any Latin American country, a war conducted almost alone by the young men of the universities and schools and with the single purpose of eliminating the enemies of Cuba, now in power, by individual killings.

For nearly a month I traveled through the three eastern provinces of Cuba investigating from every angle the possibilities of success and have found what every Cuban in that section of the country is willing to admit, that armed revolution at this time is futile. I covered the country by train, motor car, airplane and horseback and found that the forces in the field today are fewer than a month ago and growing smaller daily.

ARMS LACKING

There are today thousands of Cubans who would be in the field tomorrow if they could only get rifles and ammunition, but there is apparently no hope of military supplies at this time. Rifles and ammunition cost heavy money and the Cubans have no money.

If hatred could blast and kill Machado would be swept into obscurity and left merely a detested name in Cuban history. His boast that a plebiscite would retain him in power is false. In all the eastern part of Cuba I found no trace of loyalty to Machado except among the rural guard who depend upon him for food and shelter. The officers of the national army are opposed to him in such numbers that their defection would make the revolution a success, but there has been no attempt made to organize the anti-Machado feeling in the army.

Here lies Cuba's great chance. Within a short time a revolt of the army could be brought about if it were not for the thousands of spies who report to Machado constantly. The officer who is suspected of affiliation with the opposition is severely treated. Several years ago the force in Cabanas was ready to turn the guns of the fortress upon Havana and drive Machado from power, but the spies of the President kept him informed of every move and the colonel in command was arrested and sent to the Isle of Pines and trusted men sent to replace those who had been under his command. That colonel is today one of the exiles in Miami.

CHANGE HAILED

At 10 o'clock in the evening of June 7 Editor Walfredo Rodriguez startled Camaguey with an extra. One sheet, printed on one side only, the extra stated that Machado had called for a change in the constitution by which Cuba would restore the vice presidency.

The significance of this move on Machado's part was not lost by the Cubans of Camaguey. It meant to them the retirement of Machado from the presidency and Camaguey went crazy. Copies of the extra of "El Camagueyana" kept rolling from the press and were grabbed at the press-room door by the thousands waiting avidly for this confirmation of their hopes and reading and being assured that they were at last to be freed of the terror of Machado's domination they swung through the streets in all directions, shouting, swearing and cursing Machado.

Opposition leaders who had not dared be seen talking together in years gathered joyously and openly in the cafes, shouting, laughing, some weeping at the hope of emancipation. A group of the young revolutionists raced to the belfrey of the cathedral, ringing not only the chimes but the great fire tocsin while another group broke into the Liberal Club and tore Machado's picture from the wall and strewed fragments of it along the street.

But most significant of all was the action of a group of Machado's officers in his army. Swinging openly and unafraid into the crowded lobby of the Hotel Plaza they called out their congratulations to the opposition leaders gathered there.

If the army comes over, Machado's chances will be dimmer than those of a small black boy swimming in a swamp filled with alligators.

Tubes With Germs Found in Garden

BERLIN, June 26.—(AP.)—The newspaper Montagspost said today that 60 tubes containing bacilli were found in a garden in the residential district.

The newspaper said that malaria, cholera and anthrax germs were in labeled tubes, but that a score of tubes bore no labels. It added that several of the tubes were broken when found. The entire lot was burned.

Ex-Dickinson Head Recalled 2nd Time

CARLISLE, June 26.—(AP.)—For the second time since his resignation in 1928, Dr. James Henry Morgan is to serve as president of Dickinson College until a successor is named to Dr. Karl T. Wauch.

Dr. Wauch resigned without giving any reason.

Dr. Morgan, president from 1914 to 1928, again was called upon to serve. He rendered a similiar service after the death of his successor, Dr. Mervin G. Filler.

THUGS KIDNAP GAS ATTENDANT

Police today were looking for an armed thief who kidnaped W. S. Ice, gasoline attendant, at 348 South Highland avenue, and robbed him of $11. He was forced into an automobile Saturday night and driven to a dump in Blessing street, police were told.

Three youths are reported to have snatched a purse from Mrs. Marie Hanlon, of 831 Western avenue, in Ravenna street, Saturday night.

Walter Jaraman, of 320 Helen street, McKees Rocks, reported to police that pickpockets stole $12 from him at a carnival on the North Side.

In the midst of traffic in Maryland and College avenues an armed man leaped on the running board of a car driven by Mrs. E. K. Sawyer, of 367 Lehigh street, and took $2 from her, according to a police report.

Beer Barrel Blast Kills Cafe Patron

PATERSON, N. J., June 25.—(AP.)—The head of a barrel of beer blew off and killed Frank De Porter, 50, parcel post carrier, last night in a cafe here. The explosion ripped a hole in the ceiling.

Abe Bartholf, bartender, was arrested as a material witness. Bartholf said he had had trouble with the vacuum compression tank when the barrel was being tapped.

Safe on North Side Rifled by Thieves

Yeggs rifled the safe in Donahoe's North Side store, 730 East Ohio street, last night and obtained $242, according to a report to police. The robbers jimmied a rear window, carried the 200-pound safe into the cellar and knocked off the combination.

2 STATES VOTE ON REPEAL TOMORROW

Associated Press.

The old "get-out-the-vote" plea today wound up campaigning in the two states—California and West Virginia—which will decide tomorrow what they want done about the prohibition amendment.

For once the wets and drys claimed a common objective. In an argument over whether heavier votes would have changed the results in the 14 states that already have indorsed repeal, their leaders agreed, in Washington, that everybody should ballot in tomorrow's elections.

Said F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League:

"Returns so far in elections on repeal show that the dry vote is strong enough to win every remaining state if the drys succeed in getting out as large a proportion of dry voters as the wets have gotten out in states that voted for repeal."

SHOUSE REPLIES

Replied Jouett Shouse, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment:

"Cheerfully we welcome (Dr. McBride's) appeal for a larger popular participation in prohibition repeal elections. Out of every 1,000 additional votes Dr. McBride helps us get to the the polls, 60 to 80 per cent will be cast for repeal."

Because of that campaign, and numerous state issues, California officials predicted a heavy vote. In West Virginia, drys said wets would not profit because of stay-at-homes.

Both states, though, were looked upon as only a sort of warmup for what is considered a more crucial test on July 18 when Alabama and Arkansas become the first southern commonwealths to act on the Twenty-first Amendment.

Today also was the day for Indiana's 329 delegates in convention to express formally their state's decision, recorded in the June 6 election. Two hundred and forty-six delegates were pledged to vote for repeal, 83 against.

RATIFY REPEAL

Massachusetts, through a constitutional convention, today ratified the amendment repealing the Eighteenth Amendment, becoming the seventh state to take such action. The vote was unanimous as the 45 delegates were elected on their pledge to vote for ratification.

James Roosevelt, son of the President and one of the repeal-pledged delegates, left the presidential yacht Amberjack II yesterday, to be on hand to cast his vote.

Repeal By Christmas Predicted by Farley

DETROIT, June 26.—(AP.)—Postmaster General James A. Farley, here for a brief visit with state Democratic leaders, predicted today that prohibition will be "out of the Constitution by Christmas." He said:

"Within a few weeks, Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee will vote on the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. I firmly believe that every one of them will go wet, and, if they do, it will break the back of the prohibition cause. It will mean that the South, long believed by the drys to be their Gibraltar, has deserted them."

Farley said he was confident the President's construction program will be in full swing within 60 days, and said reports of business gains are pouring in from all over the country. He said he believes America "has its feet on the road to economic recovery." He said:

"I don't believe people give enough credit to beer. Beer has put hundreds of thousands of people to work, growing the grain, making the beer, transporting it, and selling it."

BOY RETRACTS DEATH STORY

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—(AP.)—Trembling after a night alone in a cell in the Lansdowne Police Station, Richard Ragone, 16, held in connection with the death of William A. Reilly, Jr., 9, declared today he did not kill the boy and did not know why he said he did.

A confession, alleged by the police to have been signed by Ragone, is in the hands of William B. McClenachan, of Delaware County.

"I did not do it; I did not do it," exclaimed the boy as he was taken from the cell today.

The Reilly boy was found Saturday night in a lonely section of Mt. Moriah Cemetery. There were 42 stab wounds on Reilly's body.

The boy yesterday implicated Stachis Katopodis, an ice cream vendor.

Seeks to Divorce 'Wife in Name Only'

William H. Johnston, of Turtle Creek, today asked Judge Ralph H. Smith for a divorce because, he said, his wife has never lived with him. He declared she wouldn't move into the house he selected with her and told him, he testified, she didn't think she'd like married life.

His wife, Mrs. Gladys Johnston, lives in Pitcairn. She didn't contest the suit.

Fire Damages House In Aylesboro Ave.

Fire damaged the second floor of the home of Richard Cannon, 5545 Aylesboro avenue, last night. Capt. George Nave, of No. 34 Engine Company, estimated the damage at $250.

TWICE INDICTED IN U. S. PROBES

JAMES PHILIP O'CONNOR

Mr. Diulus, 25, judge of election in the Tenth District, Fourth Ward, during the last elections, pictured with his attorney after he had been twice indicted in the U. S. probe of congressional elections. The charges: intimidating government witnesses, falsifying returns. One ballot box he oversaw was found empty, the government charges. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

OBITUARY

Miller Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie M. Miller, 84, will be held in the Second United Presbyterian Church tomorrow afternoon. She died at her home, 610 Trope street, North Side, Saturday.

Mrs. Miller was born in Germany and came to Pittsburgh 75 years ago. She had been a member of the Second Church 30 years, and was also a member of the Fraternal Aid Union and Glendora Rebecca Lodge.

She leaves a son, George Ruppert, and three daughters, Mrs. Amelia Zeber and Mrs. Mary Dorr, both of Wooster, O., and Mrs. Florence Zippler, of the North Side.

Mattheis Funeral

Funeral services for Henry Mattheis, who died Friday at his home, 135 Forty-second street, were to be held from the Henninger funeral home, Butler street, at 2 p. m. today.

Mr. Mattheis was the oldest employe of the Pittsburgh Rolls Corporation, where he had worked for 51 years. He was born in Essen, Germany. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Fredericka Schroeck Mattheis; four sons, Arthur, Albert, William and Sylvester Mattheis, and five daughters, Mrs. C. R. Crassland, Mrs. C. A. Jenkins, Mrs. P. Fuske, Mrs. W. Fahle and Miss Laura Mattheis.

Davis Funeral.

Funeral services for Clyde Davis, former proprietor of Pittsburgh Dairy Lunch, who died Sunday in Philadelphia, will be held tomorrow afternoon in Samson's funeral home, 537 Neville street. He formerly resided in Bellevue.

For the last 13 years he had operated a hotel in St. Petersburg, Fla., spending his summers in Pittsburgh. He was a member of Emory Methodist Episcopal Church and various Masonic orders.

He leaves his widow, two sons, Clyde II and Ralph, and his father, John Davis.

Smith Funeral.

Funeral services for Prof. William Leslie Smith, retired principal of Allegheny High School, will be held in his home, 2807 Bergman street, Sheraden, tonight at 8 o'clock. Mr. Smith served as principal of the school 30 years.

He was a member of the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church and the Phi Betta Kappa fraternity. He leaves his widow, two brothers, Rufus C. and Howard D. Smith, and a sister, Mrs. Charles L. Gaver, all of Springfield, O.

Sitterley Services.

Funeral services for John H. Sitterley, 66, will be held tomorrow at 8 p. m. in his home, 98 Oakwood avenue, West View. He had been a retail hat merchant 25 years, with a store in downtown Pittsburgh.

The body will be taken to Marysville, Pa., his birthplace, for services Wednesday afternoon in the Marysville Lutheran Church. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Anna Jamison, of West View.

3RD WAVE CASE SUSPECT HELD

The Better Business Bureau's investigation of permanent wave certificates resulted today in a third person held for court under $1,000 bail, charged with misdemeanor.

Joseph Devine, 25, of 222 Meyran avenue, was held following a hearing in Central Police Court today. He was arrested Saturday, after arrests of Marie Cooper, 39, of 5237 Gertrude street, and Wilbur Freeman, 24, of the Meyran avenue address. They were held for court Saturday.

About a dozen women's complaints that, for 25 cents they bought a National Beauty Syndicate certificate supposed to be good for one permanent wave at the Lady Fair Beauty Salon, Wood street and Oliver avenue, which made an additional charge for services, despite the certificate, police testified brought the arrests of the trio.

'EYE' INVENTED FOR TELEVISION

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP.)—An electric camera, believed by its inventor to solve one of the major problems of television, was announced today after 10 years of research work, before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

It is believed to place the television of outdoor scenes in the realm of practicability.

The new device, called an "iconoscope" by its designer, Dr. Vladimar Zworykin, of the RCA laboratories at Camden, N. J., was described as having a "sensitivity approximately equal to that of a photographic film operating at the speed of a motion picture camera with the same optical or lens system."

Dr. Zworykin declared it opens new prospects for high grade television transmission and at the same time "offers wide possibilities in its application in many fields as a substitute for the human eye, or for the observation of phenomena at present completely hidden from the eye, as in the case of the ultra-violet microscope."

Zeppo Marx Fined For Auto Speeding

HOLLYWOOD, June 26.—(INS.)—Two members of Hollywood's film colony today had paid fines for alleged violations of traffic ordinances.

Zeppo Marx, comedian, was fined $25 for speeding; Genevieve Tobin $2 for passing a boulevard stop sign.

SNELL STARTS G. O. P. DRIVE

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—The Republican effort to win back control of the federal government is officially under way.

It was initiated yesterday by Representative Snell, of New York, a Republican leader, and indicated a decision to start now, during what usually are the political dog days, instead of waiting to see the effect of the Roosevelt program.

Primarily, it will be based on charges that the Democrats just went on a "spending spree," that they use "tricky bookkeeping" to justify their acts, that "instead of reducing federal expenditures 25 per cent, the Democratic administration in 100 days more than doubled them."

That was Snell's summation of the special session. It followed by two days his prediction that in the November, 1934 Congressional elections the Republicans "will regain between 50 and 70 normal Republican seats" . . . and "have an equal fighting chance of winning enough to seize control."

Kiwanis Head Sees U. S. in World Affairs

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—(AP.)—Belief the United States and Canada cannot keep out of world affairs was expressed by Carl E. Endicott, of Huntington, Ind., in his opening presidential address to the annual convention of Kiwanis International here today. He said:

"There need not be a surrender of national sovereignty by these two nations, nor need there be a release of what we consider to be rights and duties, but there will be and is an obligation."

Powder...

cleans teeth as nothing else can

Doubly Efficient At Only Half The Cost

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dull Teeth Become White

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used. It cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

No Grit—No Pumice

Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel, as years of constant use have shown.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums, freedom rom pyorrhea and the least possible .ooth decay.

Lasts Longer—Costs Less

Once you use Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, you will never be satisfied to use anything else. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

Dr. LYON'S TOOTH POWDER

Names you should know

YOU like to know names that everybody knows—name of the man who tied lightning to a kite; name of the man who watched a teakettle and went out and made an engine. Just knowing such names gives you pleasure.

Yet there are names that thousands of people know that can give you much more pleasure in a much more personal way. Names that stand for the best things to eat, to wear, to sleep on. Names that, if connected with the salad dressing, hat, fountain pen you select—or any other desirable thing—mean it is most desirable. Names written large in ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements tell why those are wise names for you to know. Why such names greet you in the best grocery, department and hardware stores. Why those names are in the buying vocabulary of thousands . . . are believed in by thousands . . . justify belief!

Read the advertisements. Don't ask vaguely in a store for "cold cream," "a skillet," "a vacuum cleaner." Ask for So-and-So's Cold Cream, So-and-So's Skillet, So-and-So's Vacuum Cleaner. Use the names you have learned through advertisements, that stand for the product that means most to you and most to everybody.

LEHMAN MAPS JEWISH AID CAMPAIGN

Plans to aid destitute Jews in Germany were announced today by Leo Lehman, chairman of the Pittsburgh division in the national drive to raise $2,000,000 in relief funds.

The campaign will open July 16, Lehman said:

"Rabbi Jonah B. Wise, of the Joint Distribution Committee, New York, has effected contacts in Germany whereby distribution of the money is absolutely guaranteed to reach those in greatest need throughout Germany.

"Those in distress in Germany need funds immediately. However, they are not asking for a gift. They consider money that those in America and England send them as a loan. 'If we can't repay that loan ourselves, our children can,' they declare."

Funds raised throughout the United States will be used to feed, clothe and nurse destitute Jews and for the rehabilitation and transportation of Jews to Palestine and other havens of refuge.

Lehman continued:

"Men prominent in the civic and industrial life of Pittsburgh are deeply stirred by the conditions in Germany whereby restrictive measures prevent Jews from exercising their skill and training."

Assisting Lehman as vice chairman of the campaign's executive committee are Marcus Aaron, Leon Falk, Jr., Eugene Herzog, Abraham Oseroff and Louis Caplan. A. Leo Weil heads the general committee. William B. Klee is chairman of the special gifts committee; Mrs. Saul Lavine, chairman of the woman's committee; Mrs. Joseph M. Jackson, of the dinner committee; Charles H. Joseph, publicity chairman; Morris Neaman, chairman of the Western Pennsylvania committee, and Leonard S. Levin, speakers' committee chairman.

RABBIS URGE UNIFICATION

MILWAUKEE, June 26.—(AP.)—The Central Conference of American Rabbis in session today was advised by its committee on a world Jewish congress to refrain from calling a world meeting on Jewish problems until American Jewry is unified. The committee, after studying various proposals many months held that Jews of America were working at cross purposes and that a world congress now would start under a handicap so serious that there would be doubt of worthwhile accomplishment.

The report was prepared by Dr. William Rosenau, of Baltimore, chairman of the committee. He was unable to attend the conference, however, and the committee findings were presented by Rabbi H. C. Enelow, New York; S. H. Goldenson, Pittsburgh; Abram Simon, Washington; Jonah B. Wise, New York, and Jacob R. Marcus, Cincinnati.

Dr. Goldenson was elected president by the conference.

LIQUOR SEEKER SLAIN, 2 HELD

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 26.—Two miners at the bunk house of the Washington Gas Coal Compar resented being awakened by a companion seeking a drink of moonshine and, according to police, killed him with a miner's pick and an iron pipe.

The victim, Paul E. Wilson, 47, of Lone Pine, near here, died, police said, after he had been beaten early yesterday by Andy Menhert, 49, and Andy Zikor, 37, both of Lincoln Hill. More than a score of men who slept in the bunk house witnessed the slaying, police said.

Menhert and Zikor were held on murder charges.

Police said Wilson returned to the bunkhouse after being out on a drinking party and awoke the two men, demanding liquor, the fight following.

Civil Engineer Here Going to Native India

K. R. JADEJA

Opposed to Gandhi's Traditional Belief In Hand Labor

With a purpose opposing that of his famous fellow countryman, Mahatma Gandhi, a Pittsburgh trained civil engineer, K. R. Jadeja, will return to India next month to aid in its mechanization.

Gandhi believes in the traditional hand labor. Jadeja, recently appointed state engineer, advocates mechanization to a limited extent—transportation, heat, light and the like. He believes complete industrialism would cause demoralization and unemployment in agricultural India.

Jadeja refused to discuss Gandhi's ideas on the ground of inadequate information, but ventured the statement that Gandhi had broken the back of the caste system.

Two farewell celebrations will be given in honor of Jadeja, who came here 15 years ago from India. A party, sponsored by the Verita Sketch Club, will be held in the Fort Pitt Hotel tomorrow night. A testimonial dinner will be offered by business acquaintances in the Wesley Foundation Thursday. A graduate of Carnegie Tech, Jadeja also attended the Tri-State College of Engineering.

OFFICER FIRES ON SUSPECT

After Patrolman George Franz testified he had fired five shots at him, John Murphy, 32, no home, was sentenced to 90 days in the workhouse yesterday in South Side Police Court by Magistrate John J. Sweeney.

Police testified Murphy was caught as he fled from the home of Dr. H. A. Shaw, 2223 Carson street, where a window had been broken and clothing taken. The clothing was found later in the yard of the Shaw home, police said.

Two Seized in Raid Are Held for Court

After Capt. Edward Moser testified they had been arrested in a raid at 373 East Agnew avenue, Leo Tuberly, 24, of 225 Suncrest street, and Eugene Polisiak, 22, of 2631 Josephine street, were held for court in $2,500 bail each by Magistrate John J. Sweeney, in South Side Police Court yesterday.

Police said a 150-gallon still, moonshine and equipment were confiscated.

U. S. TO WAGE WAR UPON RACKETS

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(INS.)—Racketeering and other organized crime has developed to an efficiency where the federal government must step in and take "swift and decisive action," Attorney General Cummings declared today. He asserted:

"Racketeering has reached a point in this country when the federal government, as such, must take a stand to stamp out this underworld army which is waging war on civilization.

"There are many of them and they are fighting against and preying on an unorganized public. This has been true for many years, but it is increasingly apparent that the state authorities have not the equipment or the co-ordination to meet the problem, which has become one of national scope."

HIGHERUPS LINKED

NEW YORK, June 26.—(INS.)—Startling revelations of the grip of the racketeer on American business and the identity of many persons linked with racketeering were indicated today as United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, (Dem.), of New York opened his inquiry into aspects of the problem in the metropolitan area.

Copeland is one of a Senate sub-committee of three members named to investigate the hold of the racketeer on business and industry in the nation. The other members, Senator Vandenburg, (Rep.), of Michigan, will conduct the inquiry in the Detroit area, and Senator Louis Murphy, (Dem.), of Iowa, in the Chicago region.

The inquiry in New York was slated to start with a conference of Department of Justice agents in this section at the local investigation office, where Copeland opened committee headquarters this morning. He said:

"It is startling to learn how deeply entrenched the racketeers are in labor, business and even in the work of producing and distributing food, clothing and other necessities of life.

HUGE TOLL TAKEN

"The average citizen doesn't realize that rackets extort at least twice as much money each year than it takes to run the federal government. Nor does he sense the number of politicians who the evidence seems to indicate are part of rackets that cost the citizen thousands of dollars."

Copeland's inquiry, he said, will deal particularly with kidnaping, "a form of racket that has grown tremendously since the legalization of beer."

Aides close to the Senator said it will "be a shock" to many communities to learn the identities of some of those who have been financing rackets and others who have actually joined underworld "mobs."

Woman Takes Poison, Husband, Sister Held

Goldie Hughes, 28, of 206 West Stockton avenue, was in the Allegheny Hospital today, suffering from poison police said she swallowed at her home Saturday night.

Elmer Hughes, 28, and Ida Richards, 21, of Fairmont, W. Va., her husband and sister, were held by police on disorderly conduct charges.

Man Beaten, Robbed Of $24 on Bridge

George Schattner, of 1844 Howard street, North Side, reported to the police that three men threw a cover over his face, hit him on the head and took $24 and his $47 watch on the Sixth Street Bridge early today.

Alien Influence In Voting Scored

The proposed "Stop Alien Representation" amendment was explained by Dr. William H. Anderson yesterday at the First Christian Church, North Side. He is the founder and general secretary of the American Christian Alliance and proposed the amendment.

Dr. Anderson said that representation in Congress depends not on citizenship, but on mere population. The result has been that for 20 years something like 7,500,000 unnaturalized foreigners have been enumerated for district representation in Congress and for delegates to the national nominating convention, but have had no part in electing Congresmen or delegates, he said.

HUSBAND SLAIN, WIFE ARRESTED

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., June 26.—(AP.)—Police Chief C. H. Waters announced that police are holding Mrs. Ida May Shaw, widow of Arthur A. Shaw, 49, railroad machinist, in connection with Shaw's slaying in front of his garage as he returned from a theater Tuesday night.

He said they are also holding Harley Lemon, whom police suspect of having shot Shaw in what he described as a plot against his life.

Mrs. Shaw, he said, was employed as Shaw's housekeeper after the death of his first wife. They were married a few months ago.

All Cigarettes are not Alike

Different Kinds of Tobaccos Make a Difference in Taste and Aroma

. . . Take Chesterfields, for Instance

SOME cigarettes are made out of only one kind of tobacco...while others are made from several different kinds.

And everyone can understand that different tobaccos make a difference in taste and aroma. Chesterfields are a good example of this difference.

You see it's not easy to make Chesterfield's milder taste. It takes three distinct kinds of Domestic tobaccos. Then these must be seasoned with the right amount of Turkish. And they must be blended and cross-blended until their flavors are welded together...to make a cigarette that has character and yet is not too strong...to make a cigarette that's milder, a cigarette that tastes better.

Wherever you buy Chesterfields, you get them just as fresh as if you came by our factory door

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

A charming young girl who really "belongs" to Pittsburgh, although she lives with her mother in Berwyn, Pa., one of the most attractive near-Philadelphia places, will make her bow to society this afternoon.

She's Alexandra Mellon Grange, daughter of Mrs. George Sharpe Hasbrouck, Jr., of Berwyn, Pa., and granddaughter of James Ross Mellon, of North Negley avenue. I might add that she's a niece of Andrew W. Mellon and of Richard Beatty Mellon.

Her mother and grandfather will present her at a tea this afternoon in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. And there'll be a dinner and dance there this evening for the debutantes of the past winter and of the coming season.

The young debutante will wear a youthfully simple gown of white net with a hat to match, and will carry gift bouquets. And pouring at the tea table will be Mrs. W. L. Mellon and Mrs. R. B. Mellon, aunts of the young deb.

Buds to Be Aides

Alexandra will have a group of debutantes of the coming season as aides. They'll be Gwendolen Holmes, Margaretta Oliver, Althea Robinson, Peggy Robinson, Virginia Evans, Fredericka Holdship, Mathilda Reed, Marjorie Hillman and Anne Hamilton. Anne is the only one of the aides whose parents haven't decided definitely on a debut either this summer or in the fall.

Models Named

Now I have some more news about the West Penn woman's committee benefit Wednesday at Fox Chapel Golf Club. Added to the models are Louise Reed, Mrs. W. McCook Reed, Mrs. Shirley Austin, Mrs. Harvey Childs III, Patsy Mellon, Mrs. Raymond Ford Moreland, Mrs. J. Porter Gillespie and Jane Keally.

And added to the list of fair bar-maids are Mrs. Clarence A. Stanley, Mrs. John Crossan Hays, Mrs. Thomas Hilliard, Dorothy Blaxter, Elizabeth Shaw, Mrs. Grant McCargo, Mrs. J. Henry O'Neill, Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Jr., and Mrs. George H. Love.

* * *

And I'll just mention that there's a notable wedding today—that of tall, brunette Clara Dorothea Jenkins, the T. Clifton Jenkinses' younger daughter, and Edwin M. Rhea, son of Mrs. Andrew L. Ralston. The hour is 5:30 this afternoon, and the place, the Church of the Ascension.

Party To Sail

Mrs. George P. Hogg, of Shady avenue, and her sister, Mrs. M. L. Buchwalter, of Ohio, sail on Friday taking a group of girls to France. The Pittsburghers sailing with them include Jane Jenkins and Jane Dauler, daughters of the Harvey Daulers; Betty Frost, daughter of the Frank Frosts; Margaret Yates, daughter of Henry Yates, and Elinor Stineman, niece of Mrs. Howard Noble.

They will spend a week in Paris and then take up headquarters on the coast of Normandy at Villerville-sur-mer.

"Mellgran" is the name of the Berwyn, Pa., place of Mrs. George Sharpe Hasbrouck, Jr., and her daughter, Alexandra Mellon Grange, house guests of their father and grandfather, James Ross Mellon. It's a combination of the two family names—Mellon and Grange.

Mrs. Hasbrouck has been away from Pittsburgh—of course, with the exception of visits to her family here—for 23 years.

One of the most charming, and prettiest children I've ever seen is smiling, blonde and curly-haired little Phyllis Johnson, granddaughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Frank Orr Johnson.

At the beach one day, little Phyllis started running toward the water. Her grandfather called for her to come back, but she explained as she kept on running.

"I'm going to walk on the water as the Bible says."

Ligonier Club Ends Work For Year

After a luncheon in the new Garden Inn, on Saturday the Ligonier Women's Club went to the Ligonier Country Club for its closing meeting. Reports from committee heads showed the usual amount of community service—the kindergarten, tree planting at the cemetery, sleeping garments made for the Children's Home in Greensburg and 329 quarts of milk furnished daily in the township schools, as well as other worthwhile activities.

For program a playlet was directed by Mrs. Joseph P. Gochnour and given with realism and naturalness by Mrs. Mynor Ewing, Miss Eliza Peterson, Mrs. Emil Lindquist and Mrs. James M. Mull.

The club's officers for next year include Mrs. Henry W. Rhody, who has succeeded Mrs. George A. Freeman in the president's chair; Mrs. John D. Updegraff, vice president; Mrs. Gochnour, recording secretary; Mrs. Walter A. Saling, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. T. O. Seaton, treasurer.

Ruth Elizabeth Myers Marries Frank W. Rugh

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Myers, of Coolidge avenue, Mt. Lebanon, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ruth Elizabeth Myers, to Frank W. Rugh, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Rugh, of Pitcairn.

The ceremony took place January 4, but was just recently announced. Both Mr. and Mrs. Rugh are graduates of Grove City College. They will be at home in East End avenue, Wilkinsburg.

Mrs. C. L. Reizenstein To Give Personnel Tea

Mrs. Charles L. Reizenstein, of South Aiken avenue, will entertain tomorrow with a personnel tea for the new members of Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Women.

The personnel work of council was organized a year ago by Mrs. Reizenstein to ascertain what type of work each member preferred.

East End Girl Is Married In Home

At a lovely ceremony in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Thomas, of Spahr street, East End, on Thursday afternoon, their daughter, Miss Dorothea Elizabeth Thomas, became the bride of Ward Means White, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. White, of the East End. Officiating was the Rev. William L. McEwan, pastor emeritus of the Third Presbyterian Church.

The marriage took place beneath a bower of roses, and roses decorated the rest of the home. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white embroidered organza and carried white roses and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor was Miss Dorothy A. White, sister of the bridegroom, who wore an Alice blue organza frock with a pale pink taffeta sash and accessories and carried pink roses and blue snapdragons. The little flower girl was Nancy Jane Thomas, niece of the bride, who wore pink embroidered silk crepe and carried a basket of pink and white roses.

Charles McCormick White was his brother's best man. The bride's brother, Roy Thomas, sang, accompanied by Mrs. J. B. White, sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore pastel flowered chiffon with a corsage of roses and lilies of the valley, and the mother of the bridegroom chose blue and yellow flowered chiffon with a blue straw hat and a corsage of summer flowers.

There was a buffet supper for the guests after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. White left by motor for the East and upon their return will be at home in Spahr street, East End.

Vivian Crawford Married to Dr. Clark

Miss Vivian L. Crawford, daughter of Mrs. Iva M. Crawford, of the East End, and Dr. Walter Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Clark, of Aspinwall, were married Wednesday evening in the parsonage of the First Evangelical Church with the Rev. N. C. Milliron officiating.

Miss Mildred Clark, the bridegroom's sister, was the only attendant. Dr. and Mrs. Clark will be at home in Center avenue. Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of the University of Pittsburgh, and she is a member of Delta Zeta sorority, and he of Delta Sigma Delta.

Pittsburgh Man Weds Girl From Los Angeles

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Lena Shuken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Shuken, of Los Angeles, to Gilbert Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Klein, of Pittsburgh, which was solemnized on June 11, in the Shuken home. Rabbi S. M. Neches and Rabbi Gershon Epstein officiated.

The bride wore blue net with lace and taffeta with touches of pink for accent and a turban of matching tulle with pink rosebuds, and carried roses and lilies of the valley.

Delta Phi Epsilon To Install Officers

Installation of officers of Delta Phi Epsilon, Jewish social fraternity of the University of Pittsburgh, will take place tomorrow evening at the home of Yetta Middleman.

Ethel Silverblatt is the new regina; Nellie Jonas, vice regina; Esther Simons, correspondence secretary; Sara Hochhauser, recording secretary; Rose Honig, treasurer; Anne Glosser, social chairman; Ruth Lazirovitz, welfare chairman.

Carnegie Woman's Club To Circle Globe in Study Next Year

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Mrs. John W. Gilbert, twenty-seventh president of the Carnegie Woman's Club, will take office when the club holds its president's day on September 29.

Starting from Los Angeles on October 13, the members will take a trip around the world in their study next season, touching at Hawaii and Japan, then on to South Africa, Egypt, Italy, Spain, France, the Netherlands, the British Isles and home by way of New York.

They will see Hawaii through the eyes of George A. Bryan, who will speak on October 27. Personal impressions of Japan will be given by various members and Graham Bright will show them "The Mining and Game Sections of South Africa." The club will spend Christmas in the Holy Land and will visit Italy with the Rev. L. O. Burry as guide.

The annual luncheon will take place January 26 and during the latter half of the year will come a talk on Spain by Mrs. Maria G. Corriols, of the Grace Martin School, an evening with the juniors, a talk by William L. Woodall, drama and music days and the closing meeting on May 25.

Mrs. Gilbert's staff for the year includes Mrs. Floyd Wallace and Miss Harriett Lenfesty, vice presidents; Mrs. Florence Abbott, recording, and Mrs. Frank Terry, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. H. Nixon, treasurer; Mrs. C. C. Fulton and Mrs. R. M. Chilton, auditors, and Mrs. Frank E. Herriott, custodian.

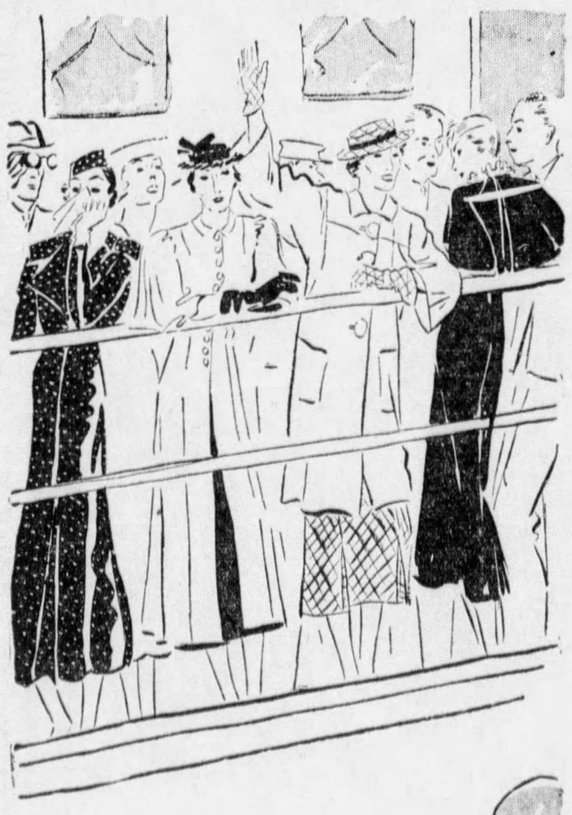
Ryland was chairman of the luncheon and Mrs. R. W. Johnston chairman of program. A paper on Benjamin Franklin was read by Miss Marguerite Elder.

The officers elected for two years are: Regent, Mrs. Elliott Thomas; vice regent, Mrs. Frank Sumney; recording secretary, Mrs. T. C. Jones, Jr.; corresponding secretary, Miss Susan Shaw; treasurer, Mrs. J. Reed Anderson; historian, Mrs. W. T. Larimer. The state regent is Mrs. R. W. Johnston.

INCOMING LINER TRAVELERS NOTE IMPORTANCE OF LINEN



WATCHING A huge liner being gently tugged into port is a great sight. Later, when she's docked, the scene is exciting, colorful, even chaotic. Smart women, their orchids, stiff little sailors and trim tailored clothes are refreshing to the eye. Middy-clad porters carrying luggage dart among the crowd, customs officials scatter everywhere—the kaleidoscope is very gay.

* * *

FOR HAPPY landings, there's a definite clothes formula to follow—and it doesn't include picture hats, trailing chiffons, or three-inch heels. (One slip on the gangplank and one would be in the water—besides, it just isn't correct!) All the ladies up at the rail in the accompanying sketch are sublime examples of what smart women wear. . . the sort of cool spectator clothes that take you over the jumps from a luncheon in town, to the races and tennis matches in the country.

* * *

LINEN SUITS are indispensable. At the farthest right, the black dress is relieved by an amusing white Elizabethan ruff of organdy. With it is worn an abbreviated cape with inverted pleat in back. There's a young air about the girl next in line. Her jacket is of natural linen, loose, full-sleeved and carefree. It's equally appropriate to wear over linens, sheers or prints, or with simple evening things after dark. In the center is a rough string-colored linen duster, in the best 1900 manner. Notice the neat row of buttons, demure turned down collar and smartly incongruous gathered sleeves. Any woman could count on the simple two-piece suit at the extreme left, to wear in town or out. It's tie silk, spotted with an old-fashioned calico design. The jacket has exaggerated revers.

* * *

AMONG the spectators peering up at the arrivals, the artist sketched a few smart hats. First, one giving a new use for leather—a straight little red sailor. Then a panama, always good. Likewise, a white pique hat, worn with sheer gray tweed, and last, a tiny linen cap, with white grosgrain over the eyes in front. . . . .THE hat for the linen suits.

FAMED JURIST CITES PERIL TO U. S. IN PACT

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, June 26.—In a sweeping condemnation of what he terms "the new psychology" in international relations, Judge John Bassett Moore, in an article published today, sharply attacks the international conceptions of President Wilson and Secretaries Stimson and Kellogg.

Writing in the July issue of Foreign Affairs, he characterizes the foreign policies of these men as "somnobulistic," "visionary," "reckless" and "savoring of monomania."

Judge Moore, an outstanding authority on international law, is a former judge of the Court of International Justice and was counselor to the State Department for many years.

He is particularly critical of assertions that the law of neutrality had disappeared with the advent of the Kellogg Pact, and that sanctions, boycotts, arms embargoes and outlawries are measures tending toward peace rather than toward war. The facts, he declares in his article, are to the contrary.

SEES PACT MENACE

He terms a consultative pact "a danger involving our very independence," and brands as "futile" the recent attempt of Norman H. Davis, on behalf of America, to define an aggressor as "one whose armed forces are found on alien soil in violation of treaties." Judge Moore writes:

"Probably it would be unfair to surmise that the persistent effort, after a decade of ghost dancing, to define the 'aggressor' always reflects the desire by means of some formula readily to obtain the military co-operation of the United States nominally in the righteous cause of peace.

"The thought of restraining aggressors is very ancient; but the attempt to define aggression for practical purposes has always failed, because it is impossible to specify beforehand the objective criteria on which the decision whether an act was overt would necessarily depend."

BLOW AT INDEPENDENCE

Of consultative pacts, he writes:

"A commitment more contrary to the vital interests of the United States as heretofore understood could not be conceived of. It would destroy the last vestige of the power to control our own destiny that has heretofore been the most cherished part of our birthright."

Asserting the law of neutrality "merely applies the rule of common honesty," Judge Moore's article says:

"Parties to an armed conflict are entitled to know who are in it and who are not. No matter how it is viewed, the demand the law of neutrality shall be considered obsolete is so visionary, so confused, so somnabulistic that no concession to it can rationally be made."

UPHOLDS FOUNDERS

He writes with particular severity of the "callow striplings" who consider the warnings against entangling alliances of Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton and Adams as outmoded. His article says:

"This is an essential postulate of the shallow dupes who, prating of our having lately become a 'world power,' urge that we blindly don an imported livery of 'world service,' to be paid for, on demand, in unestimated instalments of blood and treasure.

"It is a sad day when the children of a nation are taught to prattle ignorant and perverted slights of the men who, with steady and skillful hands, laid the foundations of its greatness and prosperity."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Postmaster Job Lost to Family After 52 Years

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., June 26.—(AP.)—After 52 years in the Daniel family, the Numidia postoffice changes hands this week.

Ralph Lindenmuth has been appointed postmaster, succeeding Lester Daniel, who resigned after holding the job 18 years.

His mother, Mrs. Charlotte Daniel, held the office nine years before him, and his father preced her for 25 years.

Fall From Bleacher Kills Erie Mother

ERIE, Pa., June 26.—(AP.)—With her two small children, Mrs. Anna Steinhoff, 41, of Albion, climbed to the top of a bleacher at Waldameer Park diamond to show them a motorcycle stunt exhibition.

She fell 12 feet to the ground and died of a broken back.

COX PILGRIMS TO LEAVE

Father Cox leaves for Rome tomorrow night leading his annual pilgrimage of Pittsburghers to the Holy City. The party will depart from the Pennsylvania Station at 10 o'clock, daylight saving time, and sail from New York at noon Wednesday, on the S. S. Roosevelt. They will be gone approximately six weeks, visiting Rome, Lourdes in France, Vienna and Interlacken, Switzerland.

In his last Sunday appearance in the pulpit of Old St. Patrick's, until the middle of August, broadcasting over WJAS, Father Cox again thanked the Sun-Telegraph for its assistance, saying:

"My work among the poor would have had to come to an absolute stop if it had not been for the aid of this newspaper. The Sun-Telegraph not only sent me a welcome check every Saturday, but also printed the appeals that brought me tons of food and big supplies of clothing and furniture for the hundreds of destitute that come under my care.

"The Sun-Telegraph has been nearly my sole support in this work. Even though I am not going to be here I have the assurance that this newspaper will continue to assist in the charity work at Old St. Patrick's. This is why I am earnestly asking you to subscribe for the Sun-Telegraph."

Father Cox will make his farewell talk on WJAS tomorrow morning.

In the meantime arrangements have been made for another big food benefit for his needy. It will take place at West View Park Monday, July 3, when each person donating 30 cents worth of food will be given a strip of eight tickets for rides and attractions in this big amusement park. The Sun-Telegraph arranged the affair and expects to obtain several tons of food to be distributed by Father Cox's assistants to needy families.

JAPAN, RUSSIA OPEN PARLEY

TOKIO, June 26.—(AP.)—The Soviet government's proposal to sell the "North Manchuria Railway" was made with full appreciation "of the new state of affairs in the Far East and with the far-sighted purpose of furthering peaceful relations between Japan and Manchukuo," Foreign Minister Count Yasuya Uchida declared today.

This statement was made in a welcoming address opening the Soviet-Manchukuo parley at the Foreign Office.

The purpose of the parley is to arrange for the sale by the Moscow government of the Chinese Eastern Railway, originally a joint enterprise of the Czarist and Chinese empires. The Japanese now refer to the railway as the "North Manchuria."

Count Uchida expressed the hope that the delegates of Russia and Manchukuo would make it possible for a speedy transfer of the Chinese Eastern to be effected.

BOY DROWNED IN CREEK

Harry Noiegott, 20, of Castle Shannon, was drowned in Slippery Rock Creek, near New Castle, last night, while his Pittsburgh outing companions were unaware of his death.

He is believed to have slipped and struck his head while climbing a boulder and to have fallen into a deep pool. He was missed half an hour later. Companions dived and recovered his body. New Castle policemen hurried to the scene with an inhalator, but their efforts to revive the youth were futile.

BILLION DEFICIT SEEN DESPITE ECONOMY

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Despite an amazing reduction of more than $1,000,000,000 in the cost of the American government during the current fiscal year, Uncle Sam was coasting on downward to a deficit of approximately $1,790,000,000 on June 30.

Treasury figures today revealed that the combined deficits of the depression years have been $5,482,700,000. In these three years the public debt has been boosted to the highest figure since 1922.

It now becomes apparent that the reconstruction program will result in the increase of the debt to the highest figure on record, surpassing even the terrific total of $26,000,000,000 on August 31, 1919. The government eventually will have spent about $10,000,000,000 to beat the depression. The war cost the United States about $50,000,000,000, not including future expenditures incident thereto.

OUTLOOK FOR 1933

The cost of government for the 1933 fiscal year will be approximately $3,859,000,000 and the receipts $2,068,000,000, the latter showing an increase of $62,000,000 over last year as a result of new taxes written into the 1932 revenue act, the approximent payment of $97,000,000 on the war debts, and during the closing months of the year new revenue resulting from the recovery of business.

While expenditures as reflected in the regular budget showed a decrease of $1,026,000,000 the government invested $1,249,692,000 securities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, so that the actual outgo was greater than last year. The deficit also would be greater if these items were taken into consideration. The R. F. C. investments are considered self-liquidating.

Income taxes for the year will amount to about $744,000,000, a drop of $313,000,000 from 1932. The high rates of the 1932 revenue act, virtually double those of the 1928 act, failed to produce the anticipated revenue. On the other hand the sales taxes proved highly productive while in the last two months the tax on beer has become an important item.

SALES TAX YIELD

Miscellaneous internal revenue, which includes the sales, beer and tobacco taxes, will yield about $885,800,000 for the year, an increase of $382,485,000 compared to 1932. Beer taxes for June were coming in at the rate of $150,000,000 annually, while current figures indicate total miscellaneous internal revenue for the month of about $104,459,000.

Customs receipts have been stimulated this month by the low quotations of the dollar abroad and have shown the first increase over the same month of the preceding year since the depression. They will amount to about $327,752,000 for the entire year, a drop of $78,752,000 from 1932.

The reduction in expenditures was due chiefly to the fact that certain extraordinary costs of 1932 were not repeated this year, such as purchase of stock in the R. F. C. and the Home Loan banks and a cessation of loans by the Federal Farm Board. Economies resulted in a saving of $226,000,000.

John Zanner, of 214 Arbuckle way, was fined $25 with the alternative of 30 days in the workhouse, by Magistrate Ray Schneider after Precinct Detective John Scanlon testified Zanner had picked his pockets on the North Side Saturday night.

Pattern 2430

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

Smart women choose these simple, chic lines for frocks in which they'll be sure to create a sensation at tea, bridge, matinee and other informal affairs. You'll be captivated with the flared sleeves that broaden the shoulders, and the waistline molded with pointed seaming to emphasize slimness. Dainty printed sheers, in silk or the ever-popular cottons, would make up beautifully.

Pattern 2430 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with pattern.

LEGION HEAD AT TRI-STATE MEET

CHESTER, W. Va., June 26.—(AP.)—An attack on "goldbrickers" among former soldiers on the veterans' list by Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, marked the fourth annual Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania reunion of Legionnaires.

Johnson said the Legion stands dedicated to keep them off the rolls so that the "truly disabled men will be respected." He attacked extravagance in government and said "the greatest crime of the World War was issuance by our federal government of tax-exempt securities."

Five thousand former soldiers marched in a two-mile parade accompanied by 16 drum and bugle corps and three bands.

Rumanian Prince Flies to Poland

WARSAW, June 26.—(AP.)—Prince Nicholas of Rumania arrived here yesterday by air for a four days' visit as part of his plan to study developments in European aviation. He was greeted and entertained by government officials. The prince will return to Bucharest Wednesday.

Bolt Kills Golfer On Detroit Course

DETROIT, June 26.—(AP.)—Struck by a bolt of lightning while playing golf at the Middle Belt Golf Course yesterday, Harry H. Jackson, 42, of Detroit, was killed. So severe was the shock that Jackson's shoes were torn from his feet and buried in the ground.

South Sider Hurt In Fall on Stairs

Peter Nugent, 49, of 2829 Harcums way, suffered a probable fractured skull when he tripped and fell down the cellar steps of his home. Police took him to the South Side Hospital.

EVANGELIZING AIMS FAIL

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—A report made public by the Institute of Social and Religious Research said Protestant mission work among Catholic immigrants "has failed to accomplish to any significant degree the evangelization of Catholic immigrants and their descendants, and it has not achieved the control that it sought of directing the process of their adaptation to American life."

The findings followed a survey made for the institute by Prof. Theodore Abel, of Columbia University. Among the reasons for the inquiry, the report said, "is the fact that many ecclesiastical leaders, as well as many laymen, have in recent years been raising again the question of the wisdom and legitimacy of this entire realm of effort."

Robber Suspect Captured in Chase

David Brown, 32, of 1119 Burns street, Wilkinsburg, picked the wrong moment to leave a chain store at 132 Swissvale avenue, he is accused of robbing, according to Wilkinsburg police.

Patrolman Enos Dorr, passing by on his way home early yesterday, gave chase. He reported that Brown threw a bag containing $67 under the porch of an apartment house, then rolled under an automobile. He will be given a hearing tonight before Justice of the Peace George B. Shields. He is charged with being a suspicious person.

Army Men Here Get Promotions

The Ninety-Ninth Division headquarters announced one reappointment and three promotions in the Officers Reserve today for the Pittsburgh district.

First Lieut. Edwin N. Montague, of the bureau of business research at the University of Pittsburgh was reappointed to the infantry.

Promotions include:

First Lieut. Karl D. Kutchke, Oakmont, medical corps, to captain; First Lieut. Joseph A. Gilmartin, 1209 Grandview avenue, medical corps, to captain, and Second Lieut. John L. Wilkes, 931 Clarissa street, infantry, to first lieutenant.

FLIRTING TRAPS KIDNAP SUSPECT

NEW YORK, June 26.—(INS.)—Detectives from Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del., today were expected here to question Mike (Mush) Cohen, of Philadelphia, sought for more than a year as a suspect in the kidnaping of Hilda Brodsky, 9-year-old daughter of a wealthy Wilmington merchant.

Cohen came to grief when his unsuccessful ogling of pretty girls on a Broadway street corner, and his wise-cracking remarks at passing young women aroused the ire of two detectives standing nearby.

The girl was snatched into an automobile near her home by a man and a woman in April, 1932. For 50 hours she was held captive, then delivered unharmed to a Philadelphia priest. Whether her parents paid ransom for her return was never definitely established.

MARINE LEADS IN TEXAS VOTE

GALVESTON, Tex., June 26.—(AP.)—Clark W. Thompson liked Galveston so well when he was sent here as a marine during the World War, he returned later to reside.

Successful in business, he appeared today to have won the Congressional seat from the Seventh Texas District, left vacant by the death of Representative Clay Stone Briggs. Thompson is a Democrat, as was Briggs.

Indications were that final tabulation of Saturday's votes would give the 36-year-old native of La Crosse, Wis., a lead of more than 1,000 votes over Thomas D. Pickett, of Palestine, his closest opponent.

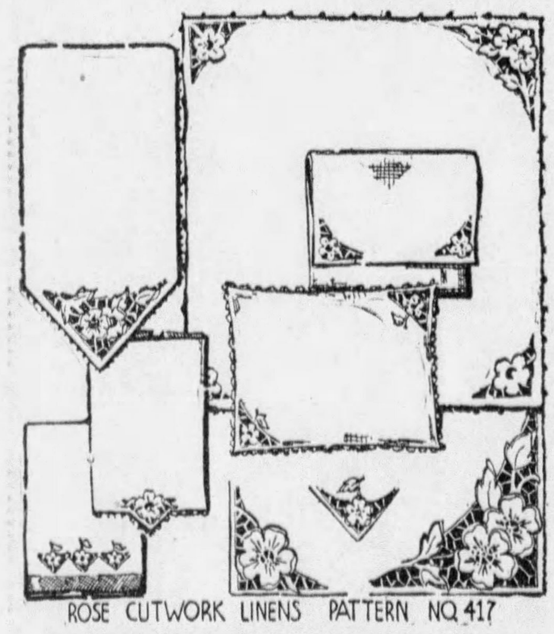
CUTWORK ENHANCES LINENS



ROSE CUTWORK LINENS PATTERN NO. 417

By LAURA WHEELER

Cutwork has always been considered a handsome decoration for linens. It not only is an interesting form of embroidery to do, but a type that is always in style because of the beauty of the finished work. In this pattern the three sizes of motifs lend themselves to a variety of linens. Here is an opportunity of making a lovely collection of linens for the bride to be or just for gifts, all from one pattern. Teacloths, scarfs, pillow cases, towels, baby pillows, handkerchiefs or lingerie cases are a few of the things that this pattern lends itself to. It includes two 8½-inch corners, three 4½-inch corners and six 3-inch corners. The design can be worked in outline and running stitch instead of cutwork.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

FRANK & SEDER—FIFTH FLOOR

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

From a New Yorker in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.: Among other legends that broke here last night was that Winfield Sheehan, most affable of executives on the Fox lot, would wed Janet Gaynor and honeymoon by July 15 . . . It belongs among the rumors to be dismissed, to hear town talk, for Miss Gaynor's recent divorce wouldn't permit a rewelding until another 10 months . . . Sheehan is linked with some doll for marriage every month —perhaps because he is one of two bachelors with a sweet major studio post . . . Jackie Cooper, just knifed by surgeons, says he feels fine "all over—except my operation." poor kid . . . Eddie Cantor's movie, "Whoopee," recently reissued (since the musical cycle was revived) gives him 10 per cent of the gross!

Did most of the Fox Films sector yesterday watching Warner Baxter and Janet Gaynor emote . . . Will Rogers keeps them chuckling with asides during the making of "Life's Worth Living," based on the book "The Last Adam" . . . Between camera focussing Rogers gabbed of old vaudeville days, and he was surprised to learn that Gene Buck's articles on Ziegfeld robbed the showman of any credit in Rogers' career in the legit . . . Rogers credited Ziegfeld with much of his later success and praised his sense of humor, which others said Flo didn't have . . . As a matter of record, according to Winnie Sheehan, the chap who brought Rogers to Ziegfeld was an excellent newspaperman, Jack Francis, who once covered the Tenderloin for the Telegraph . . . In the same flicker is Mike Donlin, whose home runs used to thrill me. He aspires to a job on the air broadcasting baseball games.

Rogers, by the way, said in one line what editorial writers said in lengthy editorial page blasts about the rich American gels welding the Mdvanis . . . If those so-called princes, said Will, would marry poor girls, they'd be Princes! Like in the fairy tales, etc. . . . The Mary Eaton chorus job report was among the imaginations. She spurned a soubrette role in "Dancing Lady" . . . Abe Lyman says his New York pals phoned him about the talk that he is unhappy here, his intimates suspecting he was flopping, which is not so, he's big here . . . Mr. Lyman is unhappy for several reasons, two are blondes.

They try to explain Garbo's shyness from people and her conduct on the lot or anywhere . . . They try to make you believe that all Swedes are like that! . . . Timid, glum and undemonstrative . . . I know three Swedish chorus girls on Broadway who aren't . . . Interesting person, this Darryl Zanuck, who shelved $5,000 per week (with 3 years to go) from Warners . . . The lowdown is that the quarrel preceding his resignation was over his argument to pay the players their full wages when the huge cuts were plotted . . . After the committee found that Warners weren't broke or near it, Zanuck demanded the wages not be sliced . . . "You talk as if you were the Warner Brothers," he was told. "Well, you're not. We are" . . . "I gave my word to those actors," thundered the tiny man with the big noodle, and the resignation followed.

The terrific heat wave news in the East and Mid-West is big news of California . . . Storms of any sort, cyclones and tornadoes are given huge spreads—to remind locals that earthquakes are trivial in comparison . . . Their pet quake tale is the one about the barber who, during the first quivers, stranded his patron, and ran to the station and took the first train home to Kentucky or Tennessee. "And," so goes the story here, "the day he arrived there, a cyclone smashed his home and killed his family, etc."

The man who murdered his sweetheart and was trapped, but shot himself and died in L. A., was the fifth or sixth murder in a fortnight here and the first to be arrested! . . . He was told by pals last week he acted crazy. He growled: "I am a vegetarian and when I eat meat then you'll know I'm crazy." . . . He ate meat for the first time last Saturday and on Monday killed his girl.

There are few things left to lift these eyebrows, but Stanley Barwin, of No. 89 Sixteenth street, Brooklyn, might like to know that the letter he sent to us in Hollywood (with merely a magazine photo of us on it) arrived with no other markings and without delay. Fency thet! . . . Allan Rivkin, an author here, told me he is grateful . . . Because, he said, a year ago, he was a nobody at nothing a week and wrote "Is My Face Red?" one of the cycle of columnist movies. Today he rates $450 per week and collabed on Joan Crawford's "Dancing Lady," a full-fledged writer! . . . Mr. Rivkin is grateful to me, he admitted. But did you see his conception of a Broadway itemgatherer? Ouch! . . . Vincent Lawrence, the playwright, wants to answer that query: "How would you like to die?" . . . He would like to die being crushed to death by crowds trying to get into one of his shows.

Mr. DeMille Picks Up Speed

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 26.—Leisurely production methods are no more. Cecil B. De Mille, who used to take months in preparation for a story, will start shooting "Four Frightened People" within five weeks. Before he sailed Saturday on a brief yachting trip, the director fixed upon two important members of his cast. They will be Claudette Colbert, who recently worked for him in "The Sign of the Cross," and Mary Boland.

This leaves only two principals to be cast—both men.

In "Four Frightened People," De Mille has a story slightly reminiscent of his old success, "Male and Female." Both deal with a group of city-dwellers suddenly thrown upon their own resources amidst primitive surroundings. Only there is no "Admirable Crighton" to inject the element of class distinction into the new story.

Miss Colbert

"Four Frightened People" was written by E. Arnot Robertson, whose earlier novel, "Three Came Unarmed," is scheduled for production at RKO.

It happened, relates Sammy Finn, in a little fur shop in Hollywood boulevard. The proprietor was trying to sell a cheap neckpiece to a stout lady—and he was meeting with plenty of resistance.

Finally, when the sale was just about put over, she exclaimed:

"Well, suppose I get caught in the rain. What will happen to the fur?"

"Listen, lady," came the weary reply, "did you ever see a fox carrying an umbrella?"

John Barrymore, that tireless angler, has left Dolores Costello and the babies in Yosemite and is packing into the high Sierras, accompanied by the park's head ranger, in an effort to reach streams never fished before. He's also issued orders for the yacht Infanta to await him in a Washington port in about 103 days. Armed with special equipment, he plans to visit Alaska and the Aleutian Islands and to bring back a live Kadiak bear.

Mr. Barrymore

If you can believe Edgar Allen Woolf, those battle scars he carried are the work of a Beverly Hills policeman, who caught him trying to break into his own house . . . The level-headed (especially about girls) Joel McCrea is showing signs of interest in pretty Frances Dee. And Frances has one zealous admirer in Joseph Mankiewicz, the writer.

Wonder if Adolphe Menjou knows that a downtown men's clothing store has a window-dummy which looks — and it must have been deliberate — just like him? Evidently, Douglas Fairbanks is reconciled to abandoning his Chinese story. His advisers are now trying to discourage him from making a combination of "The Mark of Zorro" and "Don Q," with young Doug also in the cast.

Mr. Menjou

Fulton to Change Bill On Screen Tuesday

"Self Defense" will close on the Fulton screen with the last showing tonight. Beginning tomorrow, the feature in that theater will be a comedy, "Made On Broadway," the leading roles in which are played by Sally Eilers, Robert Montgomery and Madge Evans.

Joint Meeting Set By Kiwanis Clubs

FRANKLIN, Pa., June 26.—Kiwanis clubs of the Northwestern Pennsylvania district will meet with the Franklin and Oil City clubs at Wanango Country Club tonight. C. Hale Sipe, Butler attorney, will deliver a historical address.

Clubs joining in the meeting include Clarion, Meadville, Titusville, Grove City, Corry, Erie, Greenville, Sharon and Warren.

Benefit Card Party To Aid New Park

A card party and entertainment to raise funds for an opening day celebration at the new Hyde Park, St. Clair, wil be held in Lyman Hall, 2218 Spring street, tonight.

The affair is sponsored by the Hyde Park Ball Club. Forty unemployed men are constructing the new playground. Opening day ceremonies, with fireworks, are set for July 4.

Independence Day Program Arranged

Members of the Soho Community Association are planning their annual Independence Day celebration. The program will begin with a parade through the neighborhood to the Soho Playground, Soho and Emmett streets, at 11 a. m. A street dance will climax the celebration.

Best Shooter To Direct

HOLLYWOOD, June 26.—(AP.)—The growing group of movie fans who notice the way a motion picture is photographed will find interest in the news that Lee Garmes, academy prize winner, is going to be a director.

His new contract as such, however, will not take him from the camera immediately, nor will it, in fact, when he actually begins his first directorial job.

"As a director," he explains, "I'll have even more opportunity to work for beautiful effects on the screen. A director sits in on story conferences, and in the planning of the picture I can add my voice both as photographer and as director.

"We are given opportunity on the set to attend to the photographic needs of productions, but I think their consideration from the beginning will be ideal."

Garmes, active in pictures for 17 years, ever since he left school in Denver and came to Hollywood to find work, rose from assistant property boy to a leading position among cinematographers, and won the academy award for outstanding photography with "Shanghai Express."

PLAYS AND PLAYERS — By William J. Lewis

For the first time in several months Pittsburgh will be served tonight by two stages—both suburban. The Pittsburgh Summer Theater will present the Benn W. Levy comedy, "Springtime for Henry," in Shady Side Academy, Fox Chapel, and the Stage Guild will repeat "Another Language" at The Willows, Oakmont. Two plays in one night is something we have not experienced since the Edwin Vail (later George Sharp) Players curled up in the Pitt. Curtain at Fox Chapel will be at 8:50 p. m., daily, the comedy, never presented here, to be given six nights in succession. It will be the first of a series of six subscription plays, to be presented in alternate weeks during July and August. The succeeding play will be S. N. Behrman's "The Second Man," the week of July 10. In the cast of "Springtime for Henry" will be Helen Wayne, J. Donald Gallagher, Gilbert Milton and Polly Rowles. Arnold Berk is the director.

* * *

Harry Brown telephoned anxiously—even avidly, one might say—to learn if Bill Wilken were, or had been in town. As Bill is one of several advance men for the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined Circus (here July 3 and 4, advt.), this left two surmises open to me, an adept surmiser. One that Harry, who hands out passes liberally himself (but only if the play is a flop, and he wants to "paper" the house), desired to get fixed up for a couple of comps, or certificates of free admission that are sometimes extended to persons in Mr. Brown's position, as a matter of profes-sional courtesy. Another guess was that he might be looking to book Lindy Nixon Brown as a featured attraction with the big show. L. N. B., a smart Boston terrier, is the successor of the well-known Shimmy Nixon, another dog of the same breed that was killed by a police dog a year or more ago. Incidentally, Mr. Brown advised that he was just back from New York, where he conferred with theatrical biggies, and that the prospect looks bright for the Nixon next season, what with the new deal and everything. Also that subscriptions for plays of the Theater Guild and other producers are in a satisfactory state.

A summer theater engagement will be the means of introducing Betty Bronson of the movies to the stage. She will make her debut next month in the John Drew Memorial Theater, Guild Hall, East Hampton, Long Island, in "East River Romance," by Edwin Gilbert. Vivienne Osborne will return from the movies to the footlights, via the same medium, that is, the summer stage. She will have the lead in "The Scarlet Woman," new play by Zelda Sears, in Stamford, Con. Another hot-weather dramatic center, Pelham Manor, N. Y., will witness the premiere of a new play July 3, when Peggy Wood will be seen in "Jordan," by Mrs. Deems Taylor, wife of the composer, who has written incidental music for the production.

Lola Lane, Pittsburgh actress, has arrived in Chicago to appear in "Headline Hunters," to be filmed at Hollywood-at-the-Fair . . . Helen Broderick, popular stage comedienne, has been signed for four pictures, the first two to be "Flying Down to Rio," and "Aggie Applyby, Maker of Men."

Pegging the Dollar

THIS column has nothing to do with Broadway, which will probably be welcome news to you. I've been watching the headlines lately, and I see where the dollar has replaced the murder story on the front page. Foreign nations have been watching the drop of the dollar with plenty of concern, while those of us who have traveled recently have been watching it with glee. For it simply means that these foreign powers are finally getting a dose of their own medicine.

I'm pretty certain that this dollar business is all Greek to the man on the street. He cannot understand how the decrease of the dollar in relation to foreign currency is anything but a rap at Uncle Sam. What he fails to realize is that it's not his dollar that is greatly affected; it's the dollar that is expended abroad.

Permit me an attempt to explain the situation in very simple terms:

For a long time it has been the policy of all foreign powers—some, of course, to a greater extent than others—to gather in all the United States currency it was possible to get. Their own currency had little to back it up; its value could be raised or lowered whenever the country felt in the mood.

But Uncle Sam's dough was a horse in a different garage. Our government, ridiculously egotistical in its attempt to carry the rest of the world on its none-too-competent shoulders, refused to see the light even when it was shining in its eyes. So our dollar, instead of being on an equal basis with other currencies, remained far in the lead of the pack. And other nations, printing money that meant nothing, gobbled it up with gusto.

Suppose, for example, that you and I took control of a mythical island in the Pacific. It's a nice island, we grow plenty of cocoanuts for export and we attract a goodly number of tourists. But when we get there, we find that the island is broke. There are cocoanuts on the trees, but none in the treasury. If we could only get our hands on some good, old American bucks—ah, how sweet that would be.

So we begin to print our own money. We call our money beezers," let's say, and we set a rate of 10 beezers to a dollar. We can give 50 beezers for a dollar, or 500 if we're in the mood. Our printing press is well oiled, and we can turn out millions of beezers a day without the slightest difficulty. But 10 beezers for a dollar sounds more important. So we make it 10.

Whereupon every American dollar that comes in is just so much gravy. No other nation wants beezers, but with the American dollar we can buy the monies of any nation. We'll give you all the beezers you want for your dollar—but just you try and get us to give you some American dollars for any beezers you might have. What a chance! . . .

In Budapest, Hungary, just six months ago, I registered at my hotel and went to a bank to get some money. They deal in pengos there—and the rate of exchange throughout Hungary that day was 5.7 pengos for one dollar. I secured what Hungarian money I needed and returned to my hotel.

It wasn't an hour later that I was called a first-class chump by several Hungarians of my acquaintance. And chump, in Hungarian, is no mean word. Why did I take 5.7 pengos for my American dollar, they wanted to know, when they could have got me as high as 7.2?

I didn't believe that rates could be that phony; rates, that is, that were quoted by government banks. A fraction of a point, yes—but not to that extent. To satisfy myself, I sent out to exchange a few more dollars for pengos through the bootleg sources. I received 6.8 pengos for each American dollar—or 1.1 more than the bank would pay!

I do not mean to single out Hungary as being the only offender in that respect. Greece gave me 184 drachmas for my American dollar, and you can get 210—or more—if you know where to look. Germany was no sweet-smelling banking proposition, and in Austria, an Austrian subject can be arrested for hoarding American dollars! If the government wants to hoard them, that's another story.

I was in Singapore and Java during the days that the banks were closed throughout this country. No rates were being quoted, and you should have seen the worried looks on the faces of some of those birds who had been loading American dollars for some time. I remember one mug in Java telling me that he was ruined.

"America's going off the gold standard," he cried. "You know what that will mean in the exchange? Terrible things! Why, I've been putting my money into American dollars for years. I could have held Dutch guilders—but I traded for American dollars."

I couldn't bring myself to feel terribly sorry for him.

"Seems to me," I said, "that it's your own fault. Why didn't you hold the money of the country in which you lived?"

"Bah!" he exploded. "Who wanted guilders when dollars could be had? Did anybody think the United States would double-cross us by going off the gold standard? It's a pretty low trick!"

I guess it's all in the point of view. . . .

The dropping of the dollar means little to those of us who live in and are a direct part of the United States. The dollar has been slipping for more than three months, yet the price of things today are the cheapest they have been in many, many years. And all this in spite of the alarmists who had prices rising to the skies.

By the common sense policies of the new administration we are now in a position in which we should have been years ago. We will hardly notice the difference in exchange, while the other nations will feel it plenty. And it's about time that they did.

The American traveler, of course, will feel the pressure—but governments cannot be run for the traveler. If I were to start my world trip again tomorrow it would cost at least a third again as much as it did before. So I don't think I'll start again—tomorrow.

France, I think, is getting more of a wallop out of the dollar drop than any other nation at the moment, and I call that an expert piece of justice. The French bought our dollars with cheap francs until they were fairly stuffed with them. And now, with the dollar dropping and dropping, they are yelping with indignation. The thrust in the pocketbook has wounded them deeply.

Lafayette, we are happy! . . .

No, I wouldn't worry about the falling of the dollar in the foreign markets if I were you. It can only benefit us in the long run. And it's a grand sock in the nose for those who thought the United States was going to play the fool until the entire country collapsed.

SOCIETY ELECTS DR. SPEARS

Dr. Mary S. Spears, who was superintendent of nurses at the Presbyterian Hospital here from 1909 to 1916 when she resigned to study medicine, has become the first woman member of the American Proctologic Society, according to a Philadelphia report.

Dr. Spears is now professor of gastro-enterology at the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania, and is an instructor in proctology at the graduate school of medicine, University of Pennsylvania. She was elected to an associate fellowship in the society at its recent meeting in Milwaukee, Wis.

Mackrell to Give Diplomas to Class

Joseph N. Mackrell will present diplomas tomorrow night at the Eleventh United Presbyterian Church to the graduating class of John Morrow School. Several song numbers and speeches by members of the class will be heard.

Cleveland Electric Official to Speak

J. E. North, president of the Electrical League of Cleveland, will speak tomorrow at the mid-summer outing of the Electric League of Pittsburgh at the St. Clair Country Club. The subject of his speech will be "The Electric League and Its Place in the Industry." It will follow a golf tournament and dinner.

Trolley, Auto Crash At Monongahela

A minor collision of a Charleroi-Pittsburgh trolley car and an automobile at Monongahela today was reported by the Pittsburgh Railways Company. The report said the street car was moving slowly out of a loop at 7:55 a. m., and no one was injured.

BOYS' 'Y' CAMP OPENS TODAY

Camp Buddy, a Y. M. C. A. recreation resort near Uniontown, opened today for boys from the Pittsburgh district.

Located in the Farmington Valley section of the Allegheny Mountains, the camp is one of the official Y. M. C. A. recreation places for the Western Pennsylvania area. It has more than 150 acres of ground adjoining Lake Lynn and the Cheat River Dam.

The boys' camp will close August 7, and the grounds will be open then for two weeks for girls. The boys' camp is directed by W. J. Montgomery, executive secretary of the Pittsburgh Y. M. C. A. Miss Henrietta Dixon, of the faculty of Indiana State Teachers' College, directs the girls' activities.

Pennsylvania Tires

You get more safety and longer non-skid mileage for the same money from Pennsylvanias. Why? The answer is easy — no costly freight or handling, no high selling costs. The factory is almost at our door at Jeannette.

That's why our prices are lower and quality higher. These prices on Pennsylvania Balloons include mounting at home or on the road.

POTASH, PERLMUTTER -:- Montague Glass Presents Famous 'Abe and Mawruss' -:- ON THE AIR TONIGHT

'Washboard' Band Radio Novelty

Having achieved international success in no less than six plays, three films and countless short stories, Potash and Perlmutter break into the radio picture on a thrice-weekly schedule via KDKA at 8:30 tonight.

Montague Glass, who as a law clerk 25 years ago conceived the Potash-Perlmutter idea, is to launch "Abe" and "Mawruss" on their microphonic careers with a resume of their history.

Joseph Greenwald, featured in "Abie's Irish Rose," and Lou Welch, who played the role of Perlmutter on the stage for years, will do the portrayals.

Tribute to Fliers

"Hollywood on the Air" pays tribute to the National Air Races over WCAE at midnight with Cliff Henderson, director of the event, and Maj. Udet, German war ace, as guest speakers. Paul Lukas and John Monk Saunders head the bill.

Another novelty—a follow-up to last week's skillet symphony—is plotted by the KDKA Minstrels for their 9 p. m. bill. It's a "washboard band," combining a washboard, a tin whistle, a "sweet potato" (ocarina) and a piece of garden hose.

Mildred Bailey adds another broadcast to her weekly schedule tonight, annexing the Monday CBS-WJAS "star spot," 7 p. m.

Phil Duey returns for another Melody Moments guest appearance at 9:30 over KDKA.

On the same station at 10:30, the Consolidated Chorus of Chicago Glee Clubs, composed of 110 voices, is billed.

Tony Wons Coming Back To Radio

By AIRCASTER

Are ya listenin'?

Well, we won our bet. Tony Wons is not through with radio and is coming back to the Columbia airwaves, August 15, having signed for 52 weeks.

Furthermore, the philosophising broadcaster will have the assistance of those two red-haired music-makers, Peggy Keenan and Sandra Phillips, with their two-piano melodies.

So we know you'll be listenin'.

'Rubsody in Blue'

Ethel Waters, the dusky blues singer, who is the first femme of her race to go climbing up the golden networks, is all thrilled at her success. At her show place two nights ago, she had to turn from the mike and go into a floor act, to sing what is known colloquially as a "Rubsody," during which she simulates the motions of washing clothes in a tub.

After the act, a director complained that she didn't use the proper gestures for scrubbing clothes, and back she snapped:

"Don't try to tell me anything about working over a washboard. I scrubbed clothes for three years before anybody would believe I could sing."

* * *

Noiseless Sound

The radio showmen are sticklers for realism. And this particular production man, who was broadcasting to advertise milk, wanted to dramatize a dairy scene, in which a cream separator was used.

He discovered that the sound effects men could imitate a separator, but he wanted the real thing. So he sent West for a machine.

It was freighted to New York; eight truckmen carried it to the studio. The broadcast went on. An effects man took his cue, and started the machine at the right moment. But nothing happened. The show proceeded after an awkward pause.

When the broadcast ended and the excitement died down, the director discovered a legend stamped on the separator which read:

"This machine is guaranteed to be absolutely noiseless."

* * *

Lum and Abner

They're a couple of lads who started in with a bit of radio patter back in '31 at KTHS, Hot Springs, under the homely title of Lum and Abner. They clicked and went to Chicago to bat for Gene and Glenn. Still later, they ambled to Cleveland, took up the exploitation of flivvers for local dealers, and clicked again.

It is this team which will do a radio "sociable" for an enlarged group of dealers, on an NBC network, shortly, covering 16 states. And this is the news which started the talk about Henry Ford going for radio.

The fact is that if Lum and Abner register for the widely-scattered dealers, Henry Ford may join in the sponsorship.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

From all the letters received it begins to look like the Globe Trotter will go down in history as a benefactor of the human race if he is successful in effectively preventing annoyances from moth millers.

"Unscreened porch bridge players claim that their partners give them all the annoyance they can stand. The flying moth around the bridge lamp is too much. One shrieking lady dropped her hand altogether when the fluttering wings brushed unexpectedly against her face.

Until a complete cure is found you might get relief by using a light of much greater candle power than your bridge lamp and attaching it at the other end of the porch from the card table. The millers will be attracted to the brighter light.

Anna M. Kennedy, of Mt. Lebanon, takes two square cake pans and covers the bottom of the pan with carbon oil. She places them in a market basket to which the porch light is attached. The millers fly around the light, then fall in the oil.

Mrs. Stephen Gyurovics, of Glenwood avenue, is fond of her pet chickens. You might find her in the yard, stooping down to talk to her feathered friends. The other day she missed her beautiful diamond earring and after hunting high and low remembered that one of the birds pecked at her ear.

Mrs. Gyurovics has her earring back and the family enjoyed the soup.

FIVE INJURED AS POLICE EMERGENCY CAR CRASHES

SUSPECT HELD IN SLAYING OF GIRL

Note Leads to Arrest Of Man Living Near Death Scene

A note which detectives claimed is proof that Hilda Lindberg, a domestic, had a rendezvous with John Davis, 62, Negro, on the night she was slain, led to questioning of Davis by District Attorney Andrew T. Park today.

Davis was turned over to the District Attorney after a hearing before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court. Three friends of the girl, two women and a man, also appeared at Park's office. Their names were not disclosed.

Public Safcty Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr., was present during questioning of the women and man.

Detectives said the note was found in the girl's coat. They said the note read:

"If anything happens to me tonight, I'm going to meet J. D."

Detectives said the message also contained Davis' telephone number. Detectives Frank Ferris and Frank Morgan asserted they had learned the girl gave Davis money on his promise to obtain more for her. Davis lived in North Highland avenue, near where the girl's body was found last April, detectives said.

PLOT TO BOMB AUTO CHARGED BY COYNE FOE

Prowler Driven Off, Says Bailey, Council Candidate

What James P. Bailey, Tenth Ward councilmanic candidate, described as a plot to bomb his automobile was being investigated by police today. Bailey attributed the alleged plot to his campaign activities.

Four men who were prowling around his automobile, parked in front of his mother's home, 525 Carnegie street, were scared away by the cries of neighbor women, early yesterday, Bailey told police.

ONE DEFIES WARNING

Two men, he said, remained in a sedan, while the other two attempted to raise the hood of the candidate's car. They struck matches to examine the license plates, Bailey said.

When the women sounded an alarm, three of the men fled, but the fourth stood his ground, inviting the women to "come on down."

He fled before police, who had been summoned, arrived.

FIGHTS CITY REGIME

Bailey said he thought they planned to attach a bomb to the ignition. The candidate, who lives at 5258 Dresden way, had left the car for his brother to take his mother to church.

Unless further developments warrant it, Bailey said he would not ask for police protection.

In his platform of "Anti-Coyne-Anti-Coyneism" Bailey has made repeated attacks on Senator James J. Coyne and the city administration.

TWO OFFICERS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Turtle Creek Driver Arrested Following Brushton Collision

Five persons, including two patrolmen, were suffering today from injuries received when their autos collided at Brushton avenue and Kelly street.

Patrolmen Charles Nixon, 32, and H. J. Sormato, 33, were in a police emergency car answering a call when their auto collided with one driven by Garino Agilieppi, 18, of Turtle Creek, the police reported. The police car turned over.

Nixon, with a fractured ankle, and Sormato, two ribs and a leg broken, were in Mercy Hospital. Agilieppi and his two companions, Thomas Murray, 19, and Louis Conley, 20, of Turtle Creek, all of whom escaped with lacerations, were taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

A charge of reckless driving was brought against Agilieppi.

AUTOS INJURE BOY, 2 MEN

Nick Romano, 5, of 111 Ninth street, Braddock, was injured yesterday when struck by an automobile in Braddock avenue near Hutchison street, police said. Vincent Lizzio, of 170 Main street, took the boy to Braddock General Hospital.

Gabriel Mastrononoco, 65, of 7521 Susquehanna street, was injured by an automobile in South Braddock avenue Saturday night. A police report said the car was driven by John W. Whitlaw, 36, of 132 River road, Whitaker.

Lawrence May, 71, of 6317 St. Marie street, was injured in Heberton street by an automobile police said was driven by William Palmer, Negro, of 8115 Franks-town avenue, who was arrested.

BOYS ACCUSED OF SLAYING KIN

BUTLER, Pa., June 26.—(AP.)—Readily admitting, police say, that he killed his father, Steve Uhing, Paul Uhing, 21, of Vandergrift, spent yesterday quietly at the state police barracks awaiting filing of charges.

The elder Uhing, a truckman and father of nine children, was shot Saturday while standing by a fish pond near his home.

The youth signed a statement asserting that he killed his parent because of alleged abuse to his mother.

NEW BLOOMFIELD, Pa., June 26.—(AP.)—A coroner's jury has held Richard Harp, 21, of Duncannon, responsible for the death of his grandfather, Harry Wantz, 73, also of Duncannon.

Jurges to Marry Beauty Shop Girl

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 26.—(INS.)—Bill Jurges, young shortstop of the Chicago Cubs, and Miss Mary Huyette, 23, of Reading, Pa., will be married here tomorrow, it was disclosed when plans for the wedding were completed today. Miss Huyette works in a beauty shop.

Jurges broke into the headlines last summer when he was shot by Violet Vallia Popovich because he refused the girl's attentions.

Houseboat Occupant Finds Body in River

The body of a man with "J. D. 1871" tattooed on the left forearm was found floating in the Allegheny River between Sixth and Seventh Street bridges today. It was discovered by John Harrison, occupant of a houseboat. Morgue attaches said it had been in the water a day or two.

MOTHER KILLED, 'POSSUMS SAVED

Rescued as they clung to their dead mother, two baby opossums are growing happy and fat on a milk diet today at the home of Mrs. Richard Wilcox, 1145 Jancey street.

Mrs. Wilcox discovered the mother possum, evidently run over by a car, on the street before her home. The two little ones were about four weeks old.

Although she has received many offers of adoption, Mrs. Wilcox has decided to let the little 'possums loose in the woods when they're old enough to take care of themselves. Another 'possum was found dead on Jancey street not long ago. It is believed that they live in Highland Park hollow.

ARTHUR TO RUN IN M'KEESPORT

Dr. H. S. Arthur today announced his candidacy for Mayor of McKeesport in a letter mailed to 10,000 taxpayers of the city.

Arthur's platform is based on the principle that improvement of public service can be effected while a reduction is made in the cost of government.

Outlining his program, Arthur says:

"My program includes improved public service, reduction of taxes, revaluation of property assessments more equitably, adoption of improved budget methods, centralized purchasing system, business-like reorganization of departments, emergency unemployment relief, elimination of rackets and racketeers, constructive future planning."

Of the racketeer, he says:

"The rackets and the racketeers must go. It is sufficient for me to say that there will be no alliance between rackets and politics in my administration."

Mass Hop to U. S. Postponed Again

ORBETELLO, Italy, June 26.—(Universal)—Take-off of the 25 seaplanes Gen. Italo Balbo will lead across the Atlantic to the Chicago Century of Progress exposition has been definitely postponed until unfavorable weather conditions clear, which is not expected before Wednesday.

Gen. Balbo said that weather bulletins indicate rainstorms and poor visibility over the Alps on the direct route to Amsterdam, first port of call, and over the alternative route through France.

PLANT GUARDED IN STRIKE

JEANNETTE, Pa., June 26.—Six deputy sheriffs were guarding the plant of the Jeannette Glass Company today as a result of a strike of 300 men and 40 women employes. They walked out Thursday when the company refused demands for a wage increase.

The men ask an increase from 30 to 60 cents an hour. The women ask 36 cents an hour. They have been receiving 18 cents.

At a conference of company officials and a strikers' committee yesterday, the company agreed to recognize the shop committee and to improve sanitary conditions, but no progress was reported toward settlement of wage differences.

OFFERS TO 'FIX' CASE CHARGED

Anthony Bodnar's offer to "fix" a reckless driving case against an out-of-town motorist for a price had him in jail today, according to police.

William Skirball, of 5511 Avondale place, told police Bodnar, 29, of 1335 Oakhill street, approached him last night in the North Side Police Station and said he could "fix" a reckless driving charge against Skirball's friend, Jacob Lubkoff, of Buffalo, N. Y., for $15.

Lubkoff had been arrested after Thomas Davidson, 60, of 107 Carrington avenue, was knocked down by an automobile. Davidson was treated at Presbyterian Hospital.

Bodnar was locked up on a suspicious person charge and Lubkoff was released on a $50 forfeit.

'Copenhagen' Vies For North Side Favor Again

The old game of "Copenhagen," piece de resistance of old North Side festivals, will again reign supreme at the Old-Fashioned Jubilee in West Park, Wednesday.

"Copenhagen" is dear to the hearts of old North Siders. It's a kissing game.

A circle is formed, preferably with the aid of a rope. A boy in the center slaps a girl's hand, she breaks through the ring, he chases her and gets a kiss.

Though it doesn't seem so clear with old timers disagreeing on technicalities—anyway, the boy gets the kiss.

In spite of the game's give and take spirit, there's nothing promiscuous about it, old timers emphasize. Circles were formed by invitation. A homely stranger had no chance of crashing one of the enchanted rings.

It's how grand-dad, and dad, too, enjoyed themselves on the North Side. And in the day-long jubilee jollity, they're going to show the youngsters how to have a good time without these new fangled amusements. They're going to teach them to—"Copenhagen."

Rheumatism Device Electrocutes Man

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—A home-made machine for treatment of rheumatism electrocuted John Rozane, 43.

Coroner William Baker said Rozane, wet with perspiration and seated on an iron bed, had applied two metal plates charged with 110 volts to his back.

Rozane had treated himself with the machine for four years.

Old-Time Kissing Game Staging Comeback

AIR LINE HERE ADDS SERVICE

Additional airplane passenger service, beginning July 1, was announced today by Transcontinental and Western Air, operating mail, passenger and expres planes from New York through Pittsburgh to the West Coast.

The new service provides ove. night schedules from Pittsburgh to the coast. Leaving Pittsburgh at 2:15 p. m. the air traveler will arrive in Los Angeles at 10:38 a. m. the following day and in San Francisco at 2:05 p. m.

Another feature of the new service will be a stopover at Chicago for persons wishing to visit A Century of Progress exposition at no extra cost.

The rearranged schedules also make it possible for connections out of Pittsburgh for Atlantic City, leaving here at 8:36 a. m. and and 3:15 p. m., and arriving in Atlantic City at 1 p. m. and 7 p. m.

Mistaken Identity In Auto Holdup

Because she formerly lived in Oakland, Mrs. Anna Belle Barnett, who resides with her daughter, Mrs. James E. Munion, at 702 N. Dallas avenue, has been mistaken by her friends for a woman with a similar name who was robbed last week by an unidentified motorist. Mrs. Barnett has not lived in the Oakland district for 2 years.

WOMAN SLAIN ON PORCH

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP.)—The slaying of a woman from a passing automobile as she sat on her front porch talking to her 19-year-old son provided police with a baffling mystery.

The victim was Mrs. Mary Morrison, 36, and she was killed yesterday shortly after returning from church services when a man, accompanied by a small boy, drove slowly by her residence and fired five bullets. Four of them entered her body.

Her son said he saw the man distinctly and even could identify him at a distance. He said he was a ranger and other members of Mrs. Morrison's family said they knew of no reason for the killing.

She had been married three times and police said they would like to question the third husband, Clyde C. Morrison, believed living in Indiana, from

3 GIVEN TERMS IN TRUCK THEFT

Three men who pleaded guilty to highway robbery in the theft of Merchandise from trucks in the Lincoln and William Penn highways, were sentenced today by Judge S. H. Gardner.

Patsy Tierno, 30, of New Alexandria, was sentenced from 5 to 10 years in the workhouse; his brother, Raymond, 20, from 18 months to 5 years, and Joseph Hanlon, 20, of Oakland, to an indefinite period in Huntingdon Reformatory. The elder Tierno turned state's evidence, resulting in conviction of a group charged with receiving stolen goods, whom she was separated.

NORMA ARRIVES MINUS DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—(AP.)—Norma Talmadge, the actress, is back in Southern California with George Jessel, a pet fox and an answer to queries about divorce, which suggests a yawn.

With Jessel, who teamed with her on a recent vaudeville tour, she walked down the gang-plank from a steamer just arrived from New York yesterday. Jessel towed a fox, purchased in Mexico.

Miss Talmadge said:

"Divorce? If I got one, I'd get it in California. I believe in patronizing home industries."

Well, she admitted on second thought, she was going to get a divorce from Joseph Schenck, film executive, in Paris, but she just didn't get around to it.

As for screen plans—she hasn't produced a picture in more than two years—oh, she might have some later.

'ANGEL' STOLEN FROM GRAVE

The marble figure of an angel was stolen from South Side Cemetery during the week-end.

The statue was taken from the lot of John Koehnlein in the cemetery on Brownsville road, Catherine Lowe, superintendent, reported to police today.

The theft apparently was premeditated, according to the police, since it was necessary to saw off iron bolts that held the figure to a marble base.

The police said it was unlikely that the thief had carried the statue off in his arms, because it was two feet high and heavy.

The cemetery superintendent valued the carving at $125.

WAR FLIER TRAINING HERE

German Balloonist Ready for Solo Test in Plane

A balloonist for almost 20 years and a lieutenant in the German Observation Corps during the World War, Ernst Wahl, 35, of Dusseldorf, Germany, is now training at the County airport for his solo test in an airplane.

Wahl, German representative of the Blawnox Steel Company, has been here several months, studying the firm's methods. In his spare time, he has been a student of an aviation school. He expects to remain here until the end of the year.

If possible, Wahl intends to enter balloon races in Chicago as a representative of Germany. He is a member of the Federal Aeronatic International, No. 286, which is equivalent to a license to fly a balloon in any country.

When the war started, Wahl was a civil engineering student at a German university. Because of his knowledge of surveying and maps, he was ordered to the observation corps. The balloons in which he was stationed were shot down several times, but not until he had escaped in a parachute.

Balloons in Germany are used much more than in America, according to Wahl. But with airplanes it is different. He said:

"Airplanes are more practical here because of the long trips they make. In Germany, the trips are shorter, consequently the plane's time is little better than that of a train."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., June 26.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

You talk about an earthquake hitting California, that was kindergarten stuff compared to the news that some nut sent over the cables that Sister Aimee had a baby. It looked like a case of maternity by remote control. Science is so marvelous it is being confused with miracles, and it looked like birth control by electrical transcription. But now that the facts are all in, we find the visit to the hospital was to beautify the present generation, and not to perpetuate the future. Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

Good Attorney Can Beat Aces By Handfuls

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Investigations are simmering down and the midgets can take a rest.

They taught us one thing. Put everything in your wife's name. And don't let her change it.

Public seemed to be delighted at the sight of the lambs chasing the wolves past the judge's stand.

However, it is all over for the summer and nobody seems to have been badly shell-shocked.

We don't know the whats from the wherefore of legal procedure. We do not know whether or not right has triumphed.

But there is one thing that we do know. A good lawyer is better far than costly rainment and priceless jewels. When it comes to the showdown he is even better than aces.

Watch Loses Fight As 9th Ward Judge

C. D. McCarthy retained his right to be judge of elections in the Ninth District, Ninth Ward, today when he won a legal battle over Robert Walch, who had been ousted because of his removal from the ward.

Walch contended while his family had moved into the Tenth Ward his residence had remained in the Ninth. He had petitioned to remove McCarthy. Judge S. H. Gardner upheld McCarthy's right to his post.

Garbo to Return Home in Two Years

STOCKHOLM, June 26.—(AP.)—Greta Garbo will definitely return to Stockholm at the end of her two-year Hollywood film contract, Dagens Nyheter said today.

The newspaper added that the actress recently purchased property near her birthplace here and will completely modernize it.

LOUIS VOLPE HELD OVER IN BAN BOX BOMB INQUIRY

MENU CONTEST PRIZES SPUR NEW ENTRIES

Yesterday's announcement of the names of the winners in the first week's Sun-Telegraph-Prudence Penny Prize Dinner Menu Contest has spurred the housewives of Pittsburgh and vicinity to greater efforts for Contest No. 2 and No. 3.

The Sun-Telegraph is awarding $100 in weekly cash prizes for the best dinner menus based on the question:

"Can four persons be served a well-balanced, appetizing dinner menu at a cost not to exceed $1.50?"

Entries for Contest No. 2 will be received by Prudence Penny up to and including midnight tomorrow night. Entries for Contest No. 3 are not due until next Monday night. Housewives may send in as many entries as they wish. The prize list for each week totals $100, the first prize being $25.

From day to day the Sun-Telegraph will print the prize winning menus and many others that seem particularly attractive to the judges.

If other women can win these liberal cash prizes, why can't you? It, at least, only takes a few moments of your time. On this page of today's Sun-Telegraph there is an entry blank and the complete rules for the contest. If additional entry blanks are desired, they may be obtained at any one of these stores:

Triangle, Krogers, Clover Farm Stores, Butler's, Donahoe's or McCann's.

MINORITY STOCK CHAMPION DIES

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—Clarence Herbert Venner, 77, who became known as the minority stockholder extraordinary through his numerous lawsuits against great corporations, died at his Park avenue home yesterday after a four days' illness of pneumonia.

Venner was president of the Continental Securities Company, the C. H. Venner Company, the General Investment Company and the New York Central Securities Company, and before 1892 he had been a member of the New York, Boston and Chicago stock exchanges.

He gained most prominence, however, through his almost constant litigation, warring in the courts with such corporations as the Interbrough Rapid Transit Company, the United States Steel Corporation, the New York Central Railroad, the New York Life Insurance Company, Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and a score of others.

He once said:

"I have investments to protect and it is a bad thing to permit large corporations to jam through plans involving millions."

John Wayne Weds Consul's Daughter

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—(AP.)—John Wayne, a former football player who became a film actor, and Miss Josephine Saenz, 22, daughter of the consul for Panama in Los Angeles, were married Saturday at the home of Loretta Young, motion picture actress.

Wayne, who played football at the University of Southern California under his true name, Marion Morrison, and Miss Saenz, daughter of Dr. Jose S. Saenz, announced their engagement last Christmas. They met at a house party five years ago.

Public Holds Success Of Recovery Program

Housewives to Aid Government Drive For Prosperity

(This is the last of a series of articles on the aims, principles and operation of the momentous $3,300,000,000 Public Works-Industrial Control Act on which the administration is relying to accelerate economic recovery.)

By WILLIAM H. DOHERTY.
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Will the Industries Control Act work? Can it be enforced?

These are questions the administrators would like to have answered. They frankly admit success or failure of the plan is up to the public, and are making every effort to "sell" the country on the necessity for co-operation.

Housewives observed "gasless Sundays" and "wheatless Tuesdays," during the World War, they point out. Today the emergency is just as great.

The problem of how to fit labor unions into the picture is a difficult one. Non-unionists point to the guaranty of collective bargaining and say there is no reason why workers should pay dues to unions. The organized workers explain organization will be needed more than ever to see that labor gets a square deal.

But the greatest difficulty probably will be presented by manufacturing plants that have geared up production through paying starvation wages and attempt by devious means to continue this practice and destroy industries which live up to the codes.

To meet this the President may specify that licenses are necessary to do business, and may refuse to license business operating in interstate commerce that pay destructive wages or indulge in price-cutting.

Admitting the penalty provisions of six months in jail and $500 fine, or both, may be enforced, the objective of creating jobs is to keep plants open and not to close them. The cure would kill, in such cases.

State co-operation will be necessary, too, as some businesses are of a purely intrastate character. Here the industries board hopes public sentiment will respond. They expect the public to boycott non-co-operating plants.

The administrators are optimistic. Tehy feel the remedy, though drastic, is justified by the emergency. One of them said:

"It may be true we have a bear by the tail, that we are afraid to hold on to and don't dare let go, but it also is true that this administration has a strong arm and a tight grip."

U. P.'S TO MARK ANNIVERSARY

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the United Presbyterian Church will be celebrated with ceremonies starting tomorrow night in the First Church, Fifth avenue and Thackeray street.

The main speaker at the opening conference will be the Rev. Dr. Robert E. Speer, of Philadelphia. Dr. Speer is secretary of the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A.

Seven parochial schools were holding their picnic at Kennywood Park today. They were St. Catherine's, St. Basil's, St. Lawrence's, St. Raphael's, St. Mary's, St. Agnes' and Epiphany.

STEUBENVILLE CLEANUP ON

STEUBENVILLE, O., June 26.—(AP.)—Mayor James C. McMaster ordered a drive against "public enemies" after the police department was exonerated of charges of collusion with the underworld.

Both city and county officials participated in the investigation of the police department ordered by the mayor as a result of charges made by a 19-year-old girl against Phil Davis, 40, claiming he had held her in a disorderly house six months against her will.

The girl's charge also implied that the police department had been derelict in investigating the matter when it was reported. Davis is in the county jail awaiting trial early next month on a grand jury indictment. The investigators held the charge of dereliction against the police department was unsound.

Immediately following the mayor's orders to clean up the city, three men were taken to the city jail on vagrancy charges.

PLANE CRASH VICTIMS FOUND

LANGLEY FIELD, Va., June 26.—(INS.)—The bodies of four Langley Field fliers were discovered last night in their bombing plane which had crashed Saturday in the James River near Rushmere. Because of physical conditions the recovery of the bodies were postponed until today, pending the arrival of equipment.

Those aboard the ship when it left Baltimore Saturday for the Navy flying field were Lieut. Lewis Horvah, Jr., 24, Elkhorn, Wis.; Lieut. Howard MacKelcan, Baltimore; Mechanic Albert C. Oliver, 33, Smithfield, N. C., and Mechanic Charles C. Sayre, 22, Philadelphia.

Residents of Rushmere reported they saw an explosion in midair about 10 p. m. Saturday night, and when the bomber failed to put in an appearance yesterday a search was begun which resulted in the tragic discovery.

M-G-M TO MAKE 46 FEATURE PICTURES

Universal Service.

DETROIT, June 26.—Forty-six feature productions in addition to the largest short subjects program in the history of the organization, will comprise the product lineup of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the 1933-34 season. Announcement of this great program was made yesterday at the annual sales convention now in session.

Significant in the announcement is the appearance of the name of Greta Garbo, who has begun work at the studio following her recent European trip. Likewise the return from abroad of Norma Shearer and her husband, Irving G. Thalberg, signifies the resumption of their activities.

The list of new productions is headed by six specials. Several of these will have multi-star casts. In this group are the adventure epic, "Dark to Dawn," with a cast including John and Lionel Barrymore, Helen Hayes, Robert Montgomery, Myrna Loy and Clark Gable; "The Hollywood Party," a musical production by Edmund Goulding and Howard Dietz, with a cast including Jean Harlow, Joan Crawford, Lupe Velez, Marie Dressler, Jimmy Durante, Lee Tracy, Nils Asther, Charles Butterworth, Jean Hersholt and Jack Pearl; "Soviet," a drama of Russia, "Two Thieves" and "Tarzan and His Mate."

CO-STAR PRODUCTIONS

Three special co-starring productions are announced, one for Joan Crawford and Clark Gable, one for Jean Harlow and Gable and one for Wallace Beery and Gable. Starring vehicles include three each for Jean Harlow and Lee Tracy, two each for Greta Garbo, Joan Crawford and Helen Hayes. Jimmy Durante with Stuart Irwin will be seen in two pictures, and there will be individual starring pictures for Marion Davies, Norma Shearer, John Barrymore, Lionel Barrymore, Clark Gable, Ramon Novarro, Wallace Beery, Robert Montgomery, Ed Wynn and Jack Pearl. Two road show specials, not yet announced for release pending completion at the studios, are "Dinner at Eight," all-star adaptation of the George S. Kaufman-Edna Ferber stage play, which has been in production a year in the Arctic with a native cast.

The listing of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new season films includes also four from Cosmopolitan Productions, following such Comopolitan successes as "Gabriel Over the White House," "When Ladies Meet" and "Looking Forward." Among the plays and novels from which next season's program will be assembled are "Biography," "The Road to Rome," "The Barrets of Wimpole Street," "The Late Christopher Bean," "The Cat and the Fiddle," "The Good Earth," "The Fountain," "The Old Maid," "Laughing Boy," "The Garden of Allah," "The Painted Veil" and Stefan Zweig's "Marie Antoinette."

RECORD SHORT PROGRAM

The record-size short subjects program includes in addition to the regular 104 issues of Hearst Metrotone News, six groups of Hal Roach comedies, six "Our Gang" films, eight Charley Chase comedies, six Laurel-Hardy comedies, eight Thelma Todd-Patsy Kelly comedies, eight Hal Roach all-star comedies, and six Hal Roach miniature musical comedies.

These comedy releases will be supplemented by five groups of short features produced on the M-G-M lot, together with 12 James F. Fitzpatrick traveltalks and 13 Willie Whopper cartoon comedies.

The short subjects produced at the M-G-M studios include 12 one-reel oddities, six two-reel musicals presenting stage and screen personalities, six "Macap Movies," in one reel each, six one-reel musical revues and eight two-reel subjects titled "Crime Doesn't Pay," produced in co-operation with the United States Department of Justice.

Rotarians Gather For 14th Convention

BOSTON, June 26.—(AP.)—Thousands of Rotarians poured into the city to add their numbers to the 10,000 already here for the fourteenth annual convention of Rotary International.

Special trains brought delegates from the Far and Middle West to attend the sessions opening this afternoon and chartered steamers brought parties from Baltimore, Philadelphia and Savannah.

KILLERS HUNTED IN BULGARIA

SOFIA, June 26.—(AP.)—Strict military surveillance of suspected hoodlums continued today as an aftermath of a period of martial law invoked to rid Bulgaria of Macedonian gunmen.

So thorough was the military action taken yesterday that even diplomats were compelled to stay off the streets and tourists were practically prisoners in their hotels. Traffic ceased for several hours.

All buildings were searched for weapons and suspected assassins. Nearly 120 persons not possessing identification papers were detained and many weapons confiscated.

Similar raids were conducted through Bulgaria as a sequel to a new parliamentary measure providing the death penalty for political assassinations ordered by any organization.

4 MYSTERY MEN INVOLVED BY NEW CLUE

Louis Volpe, of the Wilmerding Volpe clan, and three other men were held over for further investigation today in connection with the bombing of the Ban Box, East End cabaret.

Detective Lieut. Edward Harkins asked they be held until July 10, when he said four others would be arraigned.

Harkins said "new developments" had appeared in the investigation. He did not disclose the identity of the "four other men."

After holding Volpe, Jack and James Terenzio, brothers, of 134 Shetland avenue, and Mike Walker, 5825 Harvard street, Magistrate Leo Rothenberg discharged Joseph Lester and Thomas Friendly, both of 5824 Harvard street.

Tom Condas, known as "Tom the Greek," appeared at the hearing and in response to a question from Rothenberg, said he no longer operates the Ban Box.

WILLIAM POTTS AGENT VERYL D. JOHNSON

TREATMENT FOR ONE OF VICTIMS OF NIGHT-RAIDERS—DOGS

Nightly Raids Made On Flocks in West Elizabeth

A dog hunt is on in the West Elizabeth district, according to Veryl D. Johnson, dog law enforcement agent of the State Bureau of Agriculture, as sheep herds in that neighborhood have been threatened.

Dogs that last year killed more than 100 sheep are continuing their nightly raids. They attacked a herd of 14 belonging to William Potts, killing four, wounding seven so badly that they had to be shot and leaving three slightly wounded.

Having tasted a kill, they are expected to make nightly pilgrimages after prey, and will probably include chickens and other small animals, Johnson said. He intends to keep a sharp lookout and announced that all stray dogs found at night will be shot. Any licensed dogs found will be held and their owners traced.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—In a wedding which surprised many of their friends, Miss Margaret Byrd Mansfield, daughter of Representative and Mrs. J. J. Mansfield, of Texas, was married Saturday in New York to Richard Porter Dorsey, of Baltimore.

The couple was wedded at the Little Church Around the Corner.

Youth Dies in Fall Off Lake Boardwalk

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 26.—(AP.)—Falling off a boardwalk into seven feet of water in Cheat Lake last night, Roger Diamond, 19, of Woodside, Pa., drowned.

He was unable to swim. His brother, Nathan Diamond, recovered the body, which was removed to Masontown, Pa.

Fumes Rout Diners In Downtown Cafe

Breakfast in the Grill, 339 Fifth avenue, was interrupted today when an ammonia tank burst.

Several office workers and restaurant employes scurried into the street when the fumes spread through the large dining room. Police said no one was injured and that damage was slight.

HERE ARE THE RULES:

1. For the most satisfying dinner menu for four persons, not to exceed $1.50 in cost, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will pay $100.00 in cash prizes each week as follows:

1st Prize	$25.00	2 Prizes of	$7.50	each	$15.00
2nd "	15.00	4 " "	5.00	"	20.00
3rd "	10.00	5 " "	2.00	"	10.00
		5 " "	1.00	"	5.00

A Total of 19 Cash Prizes—$100.00

2. Contestants must give their menus, listing the names of the food products served. After each item state the amount paid for same. You need not include the cost of minor items, such as salt, pepper, sugar, etc.

3. Judges of the dinner menu will be Prudence Penny, Home Economics Editor of The Sun-Telegraph, and her assistants. Contestants agree to accept her decision as final. Menus will be judged on the basis of appetite appeal and economy in buying. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

4. All menus for the third week of the contest should be in The Sun-Telegraph office not later than Monday night, July 3rd. Winners will be announced the following Friday. You may write your menu on a sheet of plain paper or on the blank supplied here. Anyone may participate, except employes of The Sun-Telegraph and their relatives. Address all entries to the Prudence Penny Prize Dinner Menu Contest, The Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

NOTE—Readers have until midnight tomorrow (Tuesday) to submit their menus for the second week's awards.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!

All entries for Contest No. 2 must be submitted before midnight tomorrow night.

Unhappiness Faced by Girl Who Weds Jealous Man

Does it flatter you to have the Big Boy jealous?

Are you just "thrilled to fits," when he looks daggers at every admiring friend?

Then listen, while Christy makes her moan.

She was like that once, when Big Bully Brent was a very new and exciting Hero, but now—

Read on!

Dear Elsie:

I want to ask you a serious question, because I think you will make a straight answer.

Would you marry a jealous man?

I am engaged to one. At first, it thrilled me when he had a fit if I talked to another man. I thought, "My! How he does love me! He just can't bear to have me look at anyone else!" And I thought it was just great. I thought he acted that way because he valued me so highly, and I felt terribly flattered by it.

But now I'm beginning to do a good deal of wondering, because, since we've been engaged, his jealousy gets worse instead of better, as I thought it would as soon as he was "sure of me."

Honestly, sometimes I feel as if I were in prison. I live in an apartment in a nice, quiet apartment house, and I never go any place except with him, or have any callers except him and a girl friend or two. But he is always suspicious of me.

DEMAND TRUST

If I don't see him for an evening, he questions me about what I did. Not just the casual, good-natured "What did you do without me last night?" or anything of the kind. His questions are insistent, and he looks at me as if he were sure I lied to him if I say that I just read a little and went to bed, or sewed, or whatever I did do.

If I visit a girl friend, he will spend a whole evening cross-examining me about what men callers were there. And the worst of it is that no matter what I say, or how minutely, I explain every move we made, he doesn't believe me. I can see it in his eyes.

This is getting my goat. Sometimes I feel that Brent—that's his name—is killing my love for him. I know he is giving me a terrible inferiority complex. We have been expecting to get married soon, but—Well, I don't know. What do you think? Shall I marry him? CHRISTY.

DOESN'T BELIEVE HER

Shall you marry him, the way he is?

Not unless you're a glutton for punishment, sister.

Then what will you do?

Tell him, frankly, as you have told me, just how you feel about his sneers and suspicions, and warn him that if he can't stop insulting you, and treat you as a self-respecting woman expects to be treated, you're through!

Then stick to it!

He'll probably wail that he acts like that "because he loves you so;" and maybe, for the 4,896,239th time, you'll fall for that line. For of course you'll want to fall for it. (We all do, youngster). The loneliness in you will hunger to believe it. The vanity in you will grab at the "compliment."

But use your brain, Christy. Don't fall for the stale bait on that ancient trap.

He isn't jealous because he loves you. He is jealous because he loves himself—wants to own things for himself—is afraid that someone may steal, or even enjoy, something which he owns.

So he is trying to build a fence around you—and he doesn't care a hoot how you feel about it.

Don't let him get away with it! Be honest and fair with him, and force him to be honest and fair with you. Make him either trust you—or you give him up.

Life with a jealous man is plain hell, Christy, and nothing else but.

World Must Return to Decent Principles, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

It will take more than the return of prosperity to lift the world out of its present depression. There must be a return to decent principles.

We need a mental as well as a monetary readjustment.

Nothing is so uplifting and sustaining as the inspiration that comes from enthusiastic admiration for something worthy. Never has there been less to admire.

To be disgusted, depresses one. The whole world is in the doldrums of disgust. In every direction we see corruption, injustice and imposition. Graft, rackets and "crooks" excelling in high as well as low life.

The world is becalmed on a sea of scum. This must be skimmed off that integrity may rise again and set the world in proper motion.

Don't lose faith!

Heart of a Wife

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Decides to Pilot Back the Gyro—Alone!

As Dicky's lithe figure strode away into the darkness, without a word of farewell to me, an involuntary moan tore from my lips. It surely was not possible that he was still cherishing anger against me for breaking my pledge to him not to leave the hotel and join the expedition to rescue Marion. Yet there seemed to be no other answer possible in the face of this cruel ignoring of me, this omission to say goodby to me when he was starting on a flight, which, we all knew, held distinct hazards.

Hugh touched my shoulder.

"Don't! Don't!" he whispered. "You know he doesn't really mean it. Look at the way he broke out just now. He was wild with the desire for revenge on that beast who hurt you, and his last injunction was about your ankle. And you know he was right about the auto-gyro. I can't handle it the way he can. He really had to go. You'll see when he comes down that he'll have gotten it all out of his system and be all right again. Please don't worry any more. It kills me."

The last words seemed to be torn from him, and with a swift comparison of his attitude and Dicky's, I put out my hand and laid it on his.

"I won't worry any more," I whispered. "And thank you—for everything."

His hand turned and clasped mine convulsively. Then he rose and spoke incisively to Harry Underwood.

"Will you look at her ankle before we do anything else?"

"Sure thing," said Harry imperturbably, "but we can do several other things at the same time. Wynne, tie up this fellow again—" he indicated the fallen Nick contemptuously—"and let Ronald mount guard over him. Then take one of the men and find out what's happened to his pal, Brock, will you take a man and go over to that tree, where they say they left Owen, and bring him over here, too? Then we'll load 'em into the cars.

"Now, Lady Fair, let's see what we can do for you. Marion, come here and take her shoe and stocking off."

I tried to protest, but I might as well have tried to stem Niagara. His firm, competent hands, as deft as a surgeon's, manipulated my ankle, with the minimum of possible hurt. I knew, and I tried, almost with success, to keep from either wincing or crying. Finally he bound it tightly with a handkerchief of his and one of Hugh's, and then pronounced judgment.

Marion sank down beside me and put her arms about me, and Ronald dropped wearily at my other side. I guessed that the boy was holding himself from complete collapse by sheer will power and, putting out my hand, I gripped his shoulder encouragingly.

"Just a little longer, Ronald," I murmured, "and you don't have to do a single thing more."

"I should say not," Marion struck in, with a loving indignation that I knew must have warmed her youthful adorer's heart. "He's just seen to everything, and he's nearly dead."

"Nothing to be done for this lad till we get him to the shack," Harry Underwood said, after cursory examination of the groaning Nick.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Tipping

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly settle an argument about tipping? Is it correct for girls to tip when they go to restaurants either alone or with a group of girls?

E.

Yes. Except in restaurants where it is especially made clear that a no-tipping system is in effect, we are expected to tip the waiter or waitress. This holds true for girls alone or with a group of girls, just as it does for men alone or with a group of men.

Cutting the Wedding Cake

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me how to cut a "tier" wedding cake?

READER.

It is usually easier to cut this cake from the center . . . that is, begin at the center and cut toward the edge of the cake. This is better than cutting it all the way across at first. The bride usually cuts the first piece, often the first few pieces, and, if she wishes, she cuts all the pieces to be served to the guests.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Brilliant Pass

A bridge player may consider that he has left the primary grade in his schooling toward expertness when he learns when to pass. There is no doubt that aggressive bidding is effective in the long run, and there is no question but that at times a rescue bid will save points mounting up into the hundreds. There are other times, however, when rescue bids simply mean that the partnership is leaving what may mean a comparatively safe situation for one that must result disastrously.

In preparation for the coming European matches to be held in London this summer, my husband and I and other members of the American team have been holding a series of practice matches with ranking players who are members of a prominent New York club. Recently Mr. Culbertson and I had as opponents Mr. Walter Beinecke and Mr. Lee Langdon. We were vulnerable and had a part-score of 60, when the following hand was dealt:

East, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable; Part score, 60.

Mr. Beinecke
♠ 8 6
♡ 6 5 4 3
◇ 9 7 4
♣ K 8 4 2

Mr. Culbertson
♠ 4 3
♡ K Q J 10 9
◇ Q J 3
♣ Q 5 3

North / West / East / South

Mrs. Culbertson
♠ K Q J 10 9 2
♡ 7
◇ K 8 6 2
♣ 10 7

Mr. Langdon
♠ A 7 5
♡ A 8 2
◇ A 10 5
♣ A J 9 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
			Pass
1 N T (1)	Pass	Pass	2 ♠ (2)
Double (3)	Pass (4)	Pass (5)	Pass

1—I would prefer an Opening bid of one club on this hand. It is true that there is a count at no-trump of 150 points for honors, but the Opening notrump bid makes difficult any sound bidding defense against the vulnerable opponents' part-score.

2—The prospect of defeat is not more than 2 tricks, and North's pass of the Opening notrump suggests that reopening the bidding is entirely safe.

3—South has no alternative at this stage of the bidding. The prospect of defeating the spade contract, with his four Aces, appears reasonably good.

4—A very brilliant pass. Mr. Culbertson, it will be noted, holds only two small spades, but he knows that my two-spade bid must have substantial values behind it. While the spades may be massed against me—and, in fact, South's Opening bid of notrump and later Double of two spades suggest that probability—a bid of three hearts here, although the natural bid, would be extremely bad.

5—North has a very difficult choice of a bid if he is to overcall. His partner's notrump bid does not guarantee length in any suit, and his own shortness in spades strongly suggests that his partner may have a couple of tricks in that suit. Moreover, there is a strong probability of being doubled for penalties at any Takeout he may make.

It will be noticed that in play, despite South's holding of all four Aces, there was no difficulty at all in making two spades doubled. It is, of course, equally obvious that had Mr. Culbertson bid three hearts, we should have played the hand for a loss rather than scoring the game and rubber.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Include Air Baths in the Health Campaign

This is the time of year when interest in sunshine is universal. Everyone is anxious to acquire a healthy coat of tan. No one will deny the many advantages and health benefits of the sun bath. Yet few realize and appreciate the real importance and value of air baths.

Dr. Copeland

Too little emphasis has been placed upon the value of exposing the body to currents of fresh air. I am confident that if air baths were to become as popular a fad as sun baths, great benefits would be derived. I am glad that modern bathing suits and sport clothes allow ample exposure of the skin surface to the air.

Air baths should be taken during the fall and winter months as well as during warm weather. Bear in mind that sudden and prolonged exposure to cold air is dangerous to health. During cold weather air baths should be begun in moderation. The preferable time for them is in the morning.

Air baths are most beneficial when taken out doors. When weather and facilities do not permit this, they should be taken anyhow. The baths should be taken in a moderately cool, well ventilated room.

For the first bath, only half the body should be exposed. As the body becomes accustomed to the cool air, more clothes can be discarded. Air baths should never be taken by the aged, under-nourished or weakened individuals.

A good plan is to take a warm tub bath and then an air bath. Be sure the body is thoroughly dry before exposing it to the air. Never take an air bath if you feel chilled, fatigued or below par.

Many persons will wonder what benefits can be derived from air baths. Nature originally provided the body with sweat glands and other delicate structures in the skin but did not provide for these glands to be covered with tight fitting clothing. Modern civilization has actually brought about a sealing of the skin and during the winter months the skin is rarely exposed to fresh air. Exposure of the skin to circulating air allows ventilation of the pores of the skin.

Air baths improve the texture and tone of the skin. This strengthening is of vital importance to the body. The skin is an important aid in regulating the heat mechanism of the body.

Carbon dioxide and other undesirable gases are passed off through the skin. This function helps purify the blood.

GIANT SERIES OFFERS BUCS CHANCE

SOME LITTLE ENCOURAGEMENT, to offset in part the loss of the second game yesterday and the demonstration that Waite Hoyt still is as far from being a starting pitcher as he was after his first two performances of the year, may be found by Pirate fans in the indications that Leon Chagnon is about ready to take his turn as a regular. The first half of the Sunday bargain in Brooklyn marked only the second time Chagnon had started this season and the first time he had gone the route, and the excellent exhibition he gave in turning back the Dodgers with six hits offers the hope that Manager Gibson will have one more slab dependable for the remainder of the race. If Chagnon can keep up that gait he will supply an urgent need.

Leon Chagnon

The Bucs have a chance to help the race in general and their own cause in particular by slowing down the fast-stepping Giants in the New York series opening today. When the Rovers first invaded the Polo Grounds in May they were leading the field by two games. Today they were six games behind the leading Giants, two-thirds of the margin being in the "Lost" column. Not so good, but there's still plenty of time with the right kind of ball, and if the Gibsons can do as well as to take two out of three in this session it might serve to check the Giant rush, and the Bucs might gain later while the Cards and Giants are battling in five games. Beating the Terrys at home appears to be a contract, as they have played almost .700 ball on their own lot this season, having won 26 games while losing only 12 up to today, for a mark of .684, but perhaps the inconsistent Corsairs will rise to the occasion just when they promise least.

THE REASON GIVEN by Clyde Sukeforth, Brooklyn catcher, for his refusal to report to the Memphis club in the Dodgers' deal for Outfielder Joe Hutcheson, is that he fears he could not stand the Southern heat. He says he never has recovered from the strain of catching 112 games for Cincinnati in 1931 and thinks a transfer to a hot climate would only make matters worse.

Sukeforth is 10 pounds underweight now, and doesn't care to risk a further reduction. He plans to ask the Brooklyn club to put him on the voluntarily retired list for the remainder of the present season, with the agreement that the Dodgers will take him on the training trip next spring and give him a chance to earn a contract.

MEANWHILE, WITH SUKEFORTH'S name erased from the roster, Max Carey is taking a long gamble in attempting to pilot the Dodgers through the pennant race successfully with only two catchers available for service—Al Lopez and Chick Outen.

Outen is a powerful fellow, but by no means a finished backstop. Lopez is one of the league's best, but has a bad ankle that may go wrong again at any time. At one stage this season both Lopez and Outen were out of commission at the same time. If that were to happen again, the Dodgers would be in a sorry way.

WITH CLUBMATES AND opponents alike extolling the work of Frankie Frisch for the Cardinals this year, it remained for the head of the St. Louis outfit to come forward with the highest praise of all for the brilliant second sacker. Gabby Street, manager of the Redbirds, pronounces Frisch in his present form the greatest ball player he ever saw. "I don't know how good Frisch was six or seven years ago," says Street. "I never had seen him then. But he couldn't have been much better than he is today, because today he is the best ball player I ever saw. I have been looking at a lot of them in both leagues for a lot of years, but when it comes to doing everything, I repeat that I never saw anybody in Frisch's class."

Riggs Stephenson

WHATEVER THE PROMISED early return of Kiki Cuyler would have meant toward bolstering the Cubs has been offset to a great extent by the loss of Riggs Stephenson. The Bruins will be hard hit, if as feared, Old Hoss is kept out of the game for three weeks as a result of the injury suffered when the third finger of his throwing hand was broken by one of Glenn Spencer's pitches.

The fact that the Cubs managed to win nine out of 12 games while Stevie was out with a bruised heel the latter part of May was misleading as an indication of what the swatting outfielder means to the club. There isn't a more dangerous hitter in baseball, and if he is missing from the battlefront for a month at this important stage any chance the Bruins might have had to crawl up on the leaders will just about fade.

OLD GROVER ALEXANDER had doubted the reports that fewer boys were going in for baseball these days, but he is convinced after touring the country with the House of David team. He says he found that the modern kids do not want to become Honus Wagners, Ty Cobbs or Walter Johnsons.

"It was different when I was a kid," Alex comments. "All that I ever wanted to do was to play ball. I thought a bunch of Nebraskans were crazy when they offered me $50 a month to pitch for them. I would have done it for nothing."

LONG OBSERVATION HAS led Wilbur Wood to the conclusion that in no other division of boxing is the line drawn as sharply between the first and second fives of the leading 10 fighters as in the heavyweight class. That is, as measured by the public's interest in them. The second half of the list will draw only an absurdly small percentage of the gate the first half will atttract. Two of the leaders, Max Schmeling and Max Baer, recently fought before 60,000 persons representing a gross gate of $245,000. Last week Tommy Loughran and Steve Hamas, in the lower bracket, drew only $14,242. Thursday night the figures will soar again when Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera fight for the title.

IT IS FIGURED that among all the leading 10 heavies, only four can attract gates of $100,000 or more, these being Sharkey, Schmeling, Baer and Carnera. Apparently, the fans will pay fancy prices at any time to see the first few men on the select list, but give little attention to those ranking lower.

Ring followers are now speculating as to the size of the gate Thursday night. Naturally, with the championship at stake and higher prices prevailing, it would appear likely to draw more than the Schmeling-Baer card, but there are some who think the receipts will fall short of $245,000. But it's all guesswork. There never is any telling how the public will go for a heavyweight match until the night of the fight.

BECAUSE THEY WON 16 out of 21 individual titles in the senior metropolitan track and field games recently, the New York A. C. stars have been installed as favorites to retain the team championship in the big national A. A. U. track and field meet at Chicago Friday and Saturday.

Walter Hagen

But they'll have a different and much stronger field to fight there. They didn't have any Cunninghams, Metcalfes, Kellers, Meiers, Hornbostels, Grabers, Labordes and others of that type to beat in New York. If they retain the team honors they'll probably have to do it by massing points in the minor places.

WHILE THERE IS no disputing the great strength and class of the team of American professional golfers meeting the British pros in the Ryder Cup matches at Southport today and tomorrow, United States fans will not feel any too sure of victory before the final returns are in following the second day's play. For Capt. Walter Hagen and his men have tradition as well as the Britons to beat. The Americans never have won this international team series on British soil. They have broken even in four meetings, but the victories of 1927 and 1931 were scored in this country. Playing abroad, the United States pros were defeated for the Ryder Cup in 1926 by a count of 13½ to 1½, and in 1929 they lost again, 7 to 5. It's hard to figure, too, in view of the fact that in individual play American golfers have been so successful on the other side of the Atlantic as to win the British open against the best British pros the last nine years.

SOUTHPORT, England, June 26.—(AP.)—Great Britain's professional golfing forces, challenging for the Ryder Cup, today took the lead, 2½ points to 1½, after completion of the four two-ball foursomes, but the United States averted a rout by staging two spectacular rallies.

The fourth American combination, Bill Burke and Ed Dudley, pulled the last match out of the fire on next to the last hole, beating Alf Padgham and Alf Perry, 1 up, for 36 holes, after being 4 down in the morning round.

HAGEN-SARAZEN RALLY

The American captain, Walter Hagen, and Gene Sarazen, British Open titleholder, also uncorked a rally to end the feature match all square with Percy Alliss and Charles Whitcombe. This gave each side a half-point.

The British won the remaining two "Scotch foursomes" by thin margins. Abe Mitchell and Arthur Havers combined to beat Olin Dutra and Densmore Shute, 3 and 2, while W. H. Davies and Syd Easterbrook outfought Craig Wood and Paul Runyan, youthful American stars, 1 up, in a ding-dong match.

SINGLES TOMORROW

The Ryder Cup series will close with eight singles matches tomorrow.

The British weer favorites to take a more substantial lead in the foursomes, and American hopes, based on the afternoon's rally, rose. The invaders, however, must win five of the eight singles to keep the Ryder Cup.

The supposedly "weak" team of Burke and Dudley provided the brightest fireworks by shooting the course in 69, four under par, this afternon. The American pair overhauled their rivals by winning four of the first six holes, then waged an exciting battle right down to the home green.

UPHILL STRUGGLE

It was an uphill struggle all day for the Americans. They trailed at lunch-time in three of the four matches and were all square in the other. The cards:

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

CLEVELAND, June 26.—I said to Griff today:

"I would like a loan."

Griff said:

"I've got enough of your I. O. U.s already to start an alphabet soup factory."

I said:

"What are you kicking about? I, O and U are rich, strong vowels. Suppose I gave you some of the weaker consonants — what would your alphabet soup be then?"

Nick Altrock

Griff said:

"Are you trying to borrow five bucks or sell me some soup?"

I said:

"You are only half right—I want to borrow 10 bucks."

Griff said:

"What for?"

I said:

"For an option on Grant's Tomb."

Griff said:

"What will you do with Grant's Tomb after you get it?"

I said:

"I will have to have the 10 bucks first."

Griff said:

"I'll give you two."

I said:

"Put it there."

So Griff gave me the two-spot and said:

"Now what are you going to do with Grant's Tomb?"

I said:

"I had big plans if you'd only lent me $10. But with two bucks I can only make a down-payment on an equestrian statue."

Griff said:

"What's the name of the horse?"

I said:

"Lucy G., in the fifth race at Pimlico."

Oh, well, that's one way of promoting a loan.

The Parmelee and Iroquois clubs, of the Greater Pittsburgh League, have a clash booked for this evening at the Peabody High School Field that just about tops the district sandlot baseball card.

The Chicago-Whitaker game, scheduled for Greenlee Field yesterday, was called off, but this evening Dormont clashes with the Chicago club in a night game. The game will be called at 9 o'clock.

Two games are carded for the City League this evening. Dormont meets the Books and will try to prevent any mathematical possibility of the defending champs grabbing the first half pennant. While the leaders are fighting it out at Mt. Washington, Whitaker and the Cochrans clash at Wilson Avenue Field.

SHOOT DATES SET

The Konne-Yaut Indians, one of the outstanding trap shooting organizations of the United States, will hold their annual shoot July 6, 7, 8, at the shooting grounds at Oakland Beach, Conneaut Lake. Among the shooters of the Pittsburg district who are to attend are George E. Painter, J. Painter Jr., George J. Fuller and Howard G. Hammer.

PIRATES SPLIT DUAL BILL IN BROOKLYN

BULLETIN.

NEW YORK, June 26.—Rain today prevented the opening game of the series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants. A double-header will be played tomorrow.

NEW YORK, June 26.—Now that he appears to have won a regular berth on the Pirate hurling corps, Leon Chagnon, speed-ball righthander, may prove to be just what the doctor ordered for the ailing Pirates. Members of the Pittsburgh squad today were lavish in their praise of the French-Canadian who limited the Dodgers to six hits in the first clash of yesterday's doubleheader, thereby enabling the Rovers to register an even break in the dual bill. The scores were 5-2 and 9-1.

Manager Gibson was in a jam in Chicago about two weeks ago and he called upon Chagnon to make his first start of the season. Leon reeled off a fine game, but his infield support blew up higher than a kite and he failed to record the victory to which he was entitled.

Gibson, distraught with the in-and-out performance of what was supposed to be a high-grade slab staff, decided to throw Chagnon at the Carey Clan yesterday.

PICINICH GOES WELL

The pitcher with all the zip was capably handled by Val Picinich who did his first catching trick with the Buccos after having signed late Saturday. The veteran apparently is close to top form. Val was not able to help out much on the offense, but his handling of Chagnon's speed and curve left nothing to be desired. None of the Dodgers could swipe a base on Picinich, either.

Perhaps the advent of Picinich means an era of steadier pitching on the part of the Pittsburgh flingers. There has been a criticism of the Pirate catchers on the grounds that they are too young. Picinich has been in the major wheels for something like 16 seasons and he surely knows what it is all about.

After Chagnon and Picinich had led the way to a Pirate success in the first contest of yesterday, Walter Beck came along and the Pirate hitters stumbled over the Southern Association star. Beck let the Pirates down with four hits, Comorosky making two of them.

HOYT INEFFECTIVE

Waite Hoyt staggered a lot in the first inning of the second encounter. His looseness coupled with an error by Tommy Thevenow gave the Dodgers four runs. Hoyt was in another jam in the second when Kremer relieved him. The home batters jumped on Kremer for four runs before he retired in favor of Harris.

The Pittsburgh attack clicked in the first inning of the opener to give Chagnon sufficient runs to win. Three runs went over at the expense of Van Mungo. The Pirates picked up safety tallies in the third and seventh.

Vice President Sam Watters, of the Pirates, announced last night that the Pirate-Philly game scheduled for next Monday had been moved back to August 28, when it will help to make up a double-header. This means the Buccos will return to Pittsburgh after next Saturday's double-header with the Quakers, unless there should be a rain postponement in the coming series between the two clubs.

Catcher Earl Grace today was reported to be improving in Roosevelt Hospital where he underwent an operation for an infected left leg. He will be lost to the Buccos for several weeks.

Explosion Damages Hoff's Gymnasium

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—(AP.)—Several buildings near Thirteenth and Market streets were shaken and scores of pedestrians frightened by an explosion which blew out the windows of Max (Boo Boo) Hoff's gymnasium yesterday.

Police said the blast was caused by a gas heater. Michael Pirello, a boxer, was burned badly about the face by flames. The interior of the gymnasium was damaged.

Southern League Season Divided

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 26.—(AP.)—The Southern Association season has been split by unanimous vote of the eight clubs, making Memphis winner of the first half pennant.

New Orleans finished second and Chattanooga third.

The first half of the season will close officially with today's games. The second half starts with the games of tomorrow.

JOHN O'LOUGHLIN COPS WEST PA. NET TITLE

DOUBLES PLAY ON PROGRAM FOR TODAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Dr. John O'Loughlin, ace of the P. A. A. and top-ranking player of the Pittsburgh district, has regained the men's singles net championship of Western Pennsylvania after a lapse of five years and incidentally landed the David I. McCahill Cup, symbolic of local man-to-man honors, in the Steel City for the first time since it was placed up for competition in the summer of '29.

Flashing magnificent defensive tennis interspersed with frequent decisive attacking thrusts, the slim Winged Header yesterday edged out his sturdy brother, Dr. Dave, by the thinnest of margins, 4-6, 7-5, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4, to cap climax of the forty-fifth annual West Penn titular tourney as more than 2,000 enthusiastic fans jammed every conceivable niche and cranny of bleacher and standing room about the Stanton Heights Golf Club gallery courts.

MISS CARSPECKEN WINS

A bit earlier, Margaret Carspecken, spectacular volleyer from Morgantown, had overwhelmed the defending premiere, Dorothy Anderson, of Butler and the University of Southern California, 6-0, 6-2, in final women's singles fray for possession of the Honus Wagner Trophy, which has now been annexed by five different contenders in as many seasons of play. Miss Carspecken later returned to win the mixed doubles crown with her partner, Paul Sullivan. The verdict read 3-6, 6-0, 6-1. The losing finalists were Mrs. John Ricketson III, and Bill Brown, Allegheny Country Club pair.

A heavy shower that interrupted the men's singles wind-up just prior to the end of the second set delayed the program for considerably more than an hour and this fact, combined with the exceptional length of the O'Loughlin-O'Loughlin duel, rendered impossible the running off of the men's doubles title tilt, wherein the ultimate singles survivors were slated to tangle with their younger brother Billy and Frank Broida, of Harvard, and thrice captor of the Pittsburgh Parks double. The women's doubles finale, in which Miss Carspecken and Miriam Sullivan, Winged Head racquetress, were to have clashed with the Alleghenians, Mrs. Ricketson and Mrs. Martha Guthrie Snowdon, was likewise postponed. Both engagements were re-scheduled for play-off at 4 p. m. today.

DUEL BRILLIANT

The all-O'Loughlin feature produced by all odds the finest tennis seen in West Penn milling since Bill Tilden defeated Alfred Chapin for 1924 laurels on the old P. A. A. lot.

Miss Carspecken, performing soundly and patiently, brooked no opposition from her Butler rival. The entire affair went pretty much by rote and formula, the Morgantown star working her way to the barrier, where she compares favorably with any feminine net artist in the business, and there either inducing hostile misplay or polishing off the points with keen volleys or powerful smashes.

Miss Carspecken's excellent net sharpshooting dominated the mixed doubles debate. She sustained her team in the milling as her partner erred wildly in set one and was on deck to clinch the deal as the enemy weakened in the second and third stanzas.

Entries for two important tournaments close this week. The men and women's singles lists in the Allegheny County championship, which opens Thursday at the Westinghouse Club on the Greensburg pike, will close Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock. Entries may be filed with W. J. Clardy, Westinghouse Club, 501 Penwood avenue, Wilkinsburg, or by calling Frank Markley at Churchill 0280.

Entries for the Southern Pennsylvania tournament at the Westmont Tennis Club at Johnstown close tomorrow at 5 o'clock. T. E. Owen is receiving entries.

SHARKEY RULES 7-5 CHOICE

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—If boxing matches were decided on the basis of bulk, Jack Sharkey could concede his heavyweight championship to Primo Carnera now and go home to Boston and take care of the flowers he likes to talk about.

But there's more to it than that and, unless Jack has turned overnight into one of those well-known "hollow shells," then he should be rated a strong favorite for his 15-round title defense against the big Italian in Madison Square Garden's outdoor bowl in Long Island City Thursday night.

One of the most puzzling aspects of pre-fight speculation has revolved around the betting odds. Where Sharkey was a 4-to-1 shot when he fought Carnera for the first time two years ago, the odds now have dropped to 7 to 5 with a possibility of a further shortening before champion and challenger climb through the ropes Thursday evening.

Carnera boxed eight rounds against four sparring partners at Pompton Lakes, N. J., yesterday and planned another workout today.

Sharkey, at Orangeburg, N. Y., went through a 10-round workout, three rounds of it consisting of boxing against two sparring mates.

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY: A REAL SON OF THE REVOLUTION—Osborne Allen, now in his ninety-seventh year, is the son of James A. Allen, who entered the War of 1776 as a drummer boy at the age of 14. He enlisted again in 1812 and died in 1867 at the age of 105. The younger Allen, a chip off the old block, served with two brothers and a brother-in-law with the Northern Armies in the Civil War. We wish him many more happy years to round out so distinguished an existence.

TOMORROW: THE LARGEST BEDROOM IN THE WORLD.

GIANTS, NATS GAIN GROUND

Associated Press.

The two second-place clubs in the major leagues are learning by painful experience that if they give the New York Giants or Washington Senators an inch in the pennant races they'y take a mile.

The Giants, after picking up a half game Saturday, stepped out yesterday while the St. Louis Cards were having a day off and added another full game to their margin by taking two decisions from the Cincinnati Reds. The Senators also winning twice, pulled out a game and a half in front of the New York Yankees, who got only an even break with Detroit.

Bill Terry's highly efficient pitching staff played its usual important part in downing the Reds, 7-1 and 6-3.

Washington took two games from the Cleveland Indians, 9-0 and 10-1, in its usual slugging style.

The Yanks carried on the opening battle against Detroit for 12 innings before an error by Frank Crosetti opened the way for the Tigers to win, 6-5. The second game was halted by darkness after six innings and in that time Russell Van Atta gave only two hits and fanned seven to win, 3-0.

After getting only two hits in his last 17 trips to the plate, Babe Ruth was benched and Dixie Walker sent to the outfield in the second game of the bargain bill.

The St. Louis Browns were the day's other double winners, taking two games from Boston, 10-6 and 6-4, to draw up a half game behind the seventh-place Red Sox.

The Philadelphia Athletics registered a half-game gain on Cleveland by splitting a twin bill with the Chicago White Sox, 3-2 and 5-3.

Chicago's Cubs found their batting eyes in the first game against Boston and pounded their way to a 12-3 triumph with 18 hits, but they couldn't keep it up and Boston put over a ninth inning run against Charley Root to win the nightcap, 4-3.

CARDINALS WIN

CAMDEN, N. J., June 26.—(AP.)—The St. Louis Cardinals pumped base hits to all parts of the Fairview ball park yesterday to defeat Schaub's Camden Baseball Club, 10 to 4, in an exhibition game.

BLUE STREAK RACE VICTOR

Flying at the rate of 50 miles per hour under a blistering sun, Blue Streak, of the Relay Loft, a Central Combine entry, won the 300-mile race of the Pittsburgh Racing Pigeon Concourse yesterday from Greenfield, Ind., with a mark of 1582.07. Bonnie Blue, to the loft of Joseph DeRunk, was second, and B. Postriech's Cabinet Boy was third.

A series of races will be staged from Newark, O., the first carded for July 2, and continuing throughout the month.

COOPER WINS PLAYOFF

CHICAGO, June 26.—(INS.)—Harry Cooper today was the Illinois professional golf champion, having defeated Tommy Armour with a 69 against a 75 in the 18-hole playoff yesterday at Medinah Country Club. The two professionals had tied Tuesday at the end of the regulation 36 holes with cards of 146.

BETZEL SUSPENDED

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP.)—Bruno Betzel, manager of the Louisville Club of the American Association, was indefinitely suspended today by President Hickey for his actions during the Louisville-Indianapolis game yesterday in which spectators tossed cushions at Umpire Eddie McLaughlin.

VINES VICTOR AT WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, England, June 26.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines, Jr., United States and Wimbledon tennis champion, today began defense of his title in the famous Wimbledon play with a 6-1, 6-2, 6-0 victory over G. R. D. Meredith, of England.

Clayton Lee Burwell, former Carolinian, now a student at Oxford, who had a first round bye, defeated H. Kleinschroth, unranked German veteran, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2, to advance to the third round.

Keith Gledhill, of the United States, won by default when Herr Matejka, of Austria, failed to appear.

Jack Crawford, Australian champion, recent conqueror of Henri Cochet and one of the favorites to win if Vines should fail, barely escaped elimination in the first round as he just edged out Enrique Maier, of Spain, 7-5, 6-4, 2-6, 3-6, 6-4. First round results in men's singles:

Ellsworth Vines, Jr., United States, defeated G. R. D. Meredith, England, 6-1, 6-2, 6-0.

Clayton Lee Burwell, United States, defeated Hans Kleinschroth, Germany, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2.

Cliff Sutter, United States, defeated E. Itoh, Japan, 6-2, 8-6, 6-1.

David Jones, United States, defeated J. D. P. Wheatley, England, 6-4, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

W. L. Breese, United States, defeated H. K. Lester, England, 3-6, 8-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Fred Perry, England, defeated A. Lacroix, Belgium, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

Nat Farquharson, South Africa, defeated J. R. Reddall, England, 6-0, 6-3, 6-2.

V. S. Kerby, South Africa, defeated G. E. Godsell, England, 6-2, 6-4, 6-0.

Daniel Prenn, Germany, defeated C. M. Jones, Jr., England, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1.

Jack Crawford, Australia, defeated Enrique Maier, Spain, 7-5, 6-4, 2-6, 3-6, 6-4.

Jiro Satoh, Japan, defeated V. Landau, Monaco, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1.

R. J. Ritchie, England, defeated G. Jason, United States, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

Metcalfe-Owens Sprint Duel Off

CLEVELAND, June 26.—(INS.)—Jesse Owens, sensational high school sprint star of Cleveland, has decided to call off the scheduled "race of the century" with Ralph Metcalf, Marquette University dashman, which was to have been held in Chicago on July 1.

In announcing Owens' decision not to enter the race, Charles Riley, coach of the Negro flash, asserted today that he feared the proposed contest to determine the "world's fastest human" would be too much of a strain for the young Clevelander.

Allen Roughs Ump, Suspension Looms

DETROIT, June 26.—(AP.)—Johnny Allen, starting New York pitcher in yesterday's first game of a Yankee-Detroit doubleheader, is slated for several days of enforced vacation for roughing Umpire Hildebrand in the fifth inning after two close decisions had gone against the Yanks in that inning.

Only Lou Gehrig's quick work in seizing the flailing arms of Allen saved Hildebrand from at least a few punches.

OAKMONT STARS LEAD FATHERS', SONS' PLAY

By TOM BIRKS

Carl Van der Voort and his son, Robert, led the early finishers in the annual fathers' and sons' golf championship being played over the Allegheny Country Club course today when they completed the 18 holes with 88-14—74. The leaders hail from Oakmont.

Prior to the start of the tournament officers were elected by the members of the organization, J. Frederic Byers, of Allegheny, was elected president; W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont, vice president, and George A. Ormiston, of Oakmont, secretary-treasurer.

The board of governors will be composed of Byers, Fownes, W. A. Irvin, Pittsburgh Field Club; A. K. Oliver, Fox Chapel; G. P. Rose, Allegheny; Tom Jamison, Greensburg; E. E. Hewett, Indiana; Judge R. M. Gibson, Oakmont, and James L. Marks, Oakmont. Thes cores for 18 holes follow:

Carl and Robert Van der Voort	88	14—	74
A. M. and John Hirner	89	9—	80
George P. and J. Bernd Rose	101	12—	89
John W. and John W. Henry, Jr.	101	14—	87
William T. and Max McCullough	98	18—	80
J. F. and J. F. Stephens, Jr.	98	18—	80
C. M. and C. M. Thorpe, Jr.	103	14—	89
Wm. B. and W. K. Chapman	110	20—	90
J. A. and J. A. Carey, Jr.	94	17—	77

Early this morning, at the Uniontown Country Club, the leading members of the paid brigade started out over the well laid out course in the first professional invitation tourney of the season. Practically all of the district pros, with the exception of Pete O'Hara and Emil Loeffler, were on hand.

This afternoon, the pros will be paired with the leading amateurs of the club in a pro-amateur affair.

The women are competing in the first 18 holes of the 36-hole, two-day tourney, held by the Western Pennsylvania Women's Golf Association over the links of the Westmoreland Country Club.

Eighteen holes will be played today and the final 18 holes tomorrow. Mrs. Louis K. Friedman, home club member, is favored to win the event.

Artillery Polo Team Gets Win

The 107th field Artillery polo team scored a unique victory over the Charleroi riders yesterday afternoon on the new Cavalry Field, Fox Chapel road, winning by a score of 6 to minus 1¾.

Due to rain and a wet turf, indoor rules were applied, accounting for Charleroi's minus scores.

In other games yesterday, Fox Chapel made it two in a row over Monongahela, winning 5 to 4 and South Park crushed Chartiers, 9 to 2.

In a West Penn Polo Association game, the Library trio defeated the Old Furnace riders, 7 to 1, on the former's field.

George Lott Wins Over Frank Parker

RIVER FOREST, Ill., June 26.—(AP.)—Calling on everything he has learned during his long tennis career, George Lott, Jr., of Chicago, took the Western singles championship away from solemn, methodical Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee, yesterday in a bitterly contested five-set match at the River Forest Tennis Club, 0-6, 7-5, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2.

Local Rivals Meet Again

EDDIE ZIVIC

Local lightweight, who seeks to reverse a victory over him by Battling Gizzy in the 10-round windup at Hickey Park, tonight.

BATTLING GIZZY

Returning to action after a considerable layoff, Gizzy expects to flash such form as to leave no doubt about his superiority over Zivic. When they met before the decision in Gizzy's favor was disputed. These are Sun-Telegraph pictures.

ZIVICS BATTLE TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Eddie Zivic vs. Battling Gizzy, 10 rounds; Joey Bazzone vs. Harry Jacoby and Anson Green vs. Casey Eberles, 5 rounds each, and Don Asto vs. Fritzie Zivic and Dominic Mancini vs. Jerry Clements, 6 rounds each, Hickey Park, Millvale.

Frankie Carlton vs. Victor Lotti, 10 rounds, West Springfield, Mass.

Tony Galento vs. Reds Barry, 10 rounds, Laurel, Md.

Jack Peterson vs. George Cook, 15 rounds, Cardiff, Wales.

Lew Feldman vs. Lou Lombardi, 10 rounds, Jersey City.

Bucky Keyes vs. Carmen Roman, 10 rounds Englewood, N. J.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

One of the most optimistic souls in the boxing game hereabouts is Luke Carney. He believes he has two potential champions in the Zivic brothers, Eddie and Fritzie, both of whom go to the post at Hickey Park, Millvale, tonight.

Eddie is in the main bout, against Battling Gizzy, of Donora, and Fritzie in one of the six-rounders, against Don Asto, the Fighting Barber, of Uniontown.

It is Eddie's second go against the very unorthodox Gizzler, who received a disputed decision over him at Motor Square Garden during the past winter.

BOTH IN-AND-OUTERS

If you ask Carney which of the Zivics, brothers of Jack and Pete, two former good fighters, and also of Joe, the referee, is the better workman inside the ropes, he'll frankly tell you he doesn't know. And the same is true with the fans, who have been watching the progress of the pair for some time.

There are nights when both Zivics look like all their manager says about them as rare prospects, and other nights when they seem to lose all of their stuff. They are real in-and-outers, and no mistake. When they're on, they're hot stuff, and when they're not they aren't even luke warm.

Perhaps the reason is that they don't get enough work to enable them to keep their form. Maybe they're too young in experience and will settle down to a more even stride later. Whatever their trouble is, there is no gainsaying the fact that they have a lot of natural ability and should develop rapidly once they find themselves. And, being brothers of two former good battlers, they have more folks around here pulling for their success than any other two ringmen you could mention.

MECHANICALLY GOOD

Both are good mechanically and both can box and punch. Eddie is liable to go out there tonight and punch Gizzy all around the ring. He's a good timer and a sharpshooter and doesn't take much punishment. It all depends upon how good Gizzy is or isn't following his layoff.

Fritzie has a softer touch in his preliminary, although Asto showed to better advantage in coming from behind and beating Johnny Durso in his most recent start than he ever did here before. He quit boxing and turned in and fought that night.

Two eight-round bouts and another six-round bout complete tonight's card. Casey Rhodes takes the place of Tommy Glenn, of Springfield, O., in the semi-final against Anson Green, Negro middleweight puncher, of Homestead, who stopped Tiger Roy Smith, of Rochester, N. Y., his last time out, impressing the latter so much that he went away from there pronouncing Green a "black devil."

JACOBY VS. BAZZONE

In the first eight-rounder, Harry Jacoby, formerly of Newark, N. J., now of Pittsburgh, boxes Joey Bazzone, of McKeesport. Dominic Mancini, of Connellsville, meets Jerry Clements, of Jeannette, in the opener, set for 8:45.

SHARON SPEED MARK FALLS

SHARON, Pa., June 26.—Covering the half-mile distance in 26.6 seconds, Jack Berry, Akron (O.) automobile race driver, set a new track record for the Sharon Speedway here yesterday. Berry also held the old record of 26.8.

The scheduled 50-mile race was halted at the end of the fifty-eighth lap with Berry the winner, Carl Bangert, of Columbus, was second and Milke Felbar, of Brandenville, third.

Shorty Wolfe, of Columbus, won the third 10-mile event with some spectacular driving.

Driver Injured

NEW MARKET, N. J., June 26.—Albio Lattanzio, of New Brunswick, suffered a broken arm and ribs, cut throat and possibly internal injuries when his automobile crashed in a qualifying test here yesterday. Ed Terry won the 25-lap race, the five-mile fast car event and finished first in the time trials.

DETROIT, June 26.—Ira Hall, of Terre Haute, Ind., was the winner of a 35-mile race here yesterday, with Chet Gardner second. The race was cut from 50 miles because of the poor condition of the track.

PITTSBURGH BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

ALUMINUM HIT BY TRADE SLUMP

NEW YORK, June 26.—Aluminum Company of America has been called the perfect monopoly. It has received, according to its detractors, all the benefits and favors that a complacent government and an aggressive management could shower upon it. But it showed a loss, even before sundry surplus debits, of $7.58 a share during 1932 and a loss of $2.88 in 1931. Clearly something more than a monopoly is needed to make a profit in the aluminum industry during a period of severe industrial contraction, the Econostat, a weekly business digest, declares in its current issue.

The Pittsburgh Reduction Company, formed to exploit the metal, struggles, at first, to find a commercial use for its products. Then, backed by a group of Pittsburgh capitalists, and protected by its patents and a sizeable tariff, it began a program of creating new uses for the metal and simultaneously expending its own production. This is the program that made it and its successor, Aluminum Company of America, so successful.

PATENTS EXPIRE

By the time the patents expired in 1907, it was discovered that practically all the commercial bauxite deposits in this country were in the hands of the company. It had also obtained control of the large deposits in Dutch Guiana from which it obtains most of its raw material today. A raw material monopoly had appeared to replace the waning patent monopoly.

Also, because of the very large amounts of electricity required, estimated at 25,000 kilowatt hours per ton of aluminum, the company had taken steps to obtain a large share of the available low-priced power. Some 450,000 horse power of hydro-electric power are now controlled either from its own plant or under long-term leases from others. In addition, the company has several undeveloped water power sites with large potentialities. Its interest in one of these, the Frontier Company, was turned over to the Niagara Hudson Power for some 2,500,000 shares of that company's old stock.

MELLONS CONTROL

Aluminum Company is known to have a large number of subsidiaries, largely fabricators of the metal, but the complete list of its holdings has not been made public. Its foreign properties, including those in Canada, were transferred in 1928 to Aluminum, Ltd., which has some 50 unrevealed subsidiaries. One share of Aluminum, Ltd., was issued to stockholders in Aluminum Company of America for each three shares of the latter company held. This separation, however, did not go far to break down the world-wide monopoly, since a majority of the shares of both are closely held between the Mellon family and the estate of Charles Hall, the inventor, the Econostat declares.

Its monopoly permitted the company to maintain a price of 23 cents a pound throughout the depression, but sales declined so rapidly that its operating income, which equalled over $34,000,000 in 1929, dropped to $11,000,000 in 1931 and to $3,543,793 in 1932, a sum insufficient to cover depreciation and depletion. Dividends on the preferred stock were reduced and were in arrears $3 per share on December 31, 1932. But even with the lowered dividends, the deficit for the year was $6,763,375.

LIABILITIES GAIN

As current liabilities have had a steady upward trend and at the end of 1932, equalled more than three times the 1928 total. These figures show the strain that the company has been under to maintain the price of aluminum during a time when all other commodities were falling. It stood by its monopoly rights almost regardless of expense. After several futile attempts, its monopoly is now being threated by anti-trust suits that appear to have more promise of success. Should these suits break the Aluminum Company down into three or four units and should real competition enter the industry, it would not be surprising to find the new arrangement more profitable than the old, the Econostat says. That has been the experience of the oil and tobacco trusts and there would appear to be no reason why it should not be the case with Aluminum.

DUQUESNE BREW LISTS STOCK

The Pittsburgh Stock Exchange officially listed Class A and common shares of Duquesne Brewing Company, successor to Independent Brewing Company, today. Listing of bonds of Independent Brewing, which have been deposited, also has been authorized. Deposited bonds, to be eligible for trading, must be stamped with the guarantee of principal and interest by Duquesne Brewing Company. Unstamped bonds are not eligible for trading.

The company is seeking a further extension of interest for a period of two years from the holders of undeposited bonds. Interest on coupons of undeposited bonds due July 1 will not be paid, officials declared.

FURTHER STEEL GAIN SEEN

CLEVELAND, June 26.—(AP.)—The Magazine Steel said today that "predominant conservative opinion among iron and steel executives appears to be rallying to the position of the Industrial Recovery administration that price advances be deferred until after wages gave been raised. The review says:

"This week, when executives meet in New York to consider the iron and steel industry's trade practice code, a determination of prices is expected.

"In the meantime, the intrinsic strength of the markets, regardless of any artificial supports, is manifest in isolated advances such as 50 to 75 cents a ton on coke, $5 a ton on rivets, and short range selling on practically all products.

"This underlying firmness, little due to anticipation of higher prices, is reflected in a rise of two points in the steelworks operating rate last week to 51 per cent, and a certainty that a further gain will be recorded this week. Pig iron corroborates this gain in steel production with resumption of four more blast furnaces."

Chemists to Study Brewing Product

Officials of the Union Brewing Company, of New Castle, announced today that chemists of J. E. Siebel Sons Company, together with the head of the firm, will be in New Castle this week to examine the company's products. The supervision of the Siebel Institute, internationally known brewing engineers, in the brewing and lagering of the company's beer requires the personal stamp of approval of Mr. Siebel before it can be released to the public.

'Dollar Wheat' Nears And Stocks Stage Celebration

"Dollar wheat" came a step closer today, and with the upturn in the grain ensued a bullish demonstration in the stocks usually tied-in with the agricultural staples. Farm machine and mail order stocks were turned over in extremely heavy volume. Case Threasher led the move in the equipment group and Montgomery Ward was handled in huge lots in the mail-order division. The trade in grain was of record proportions; likewise the turnover in stocks was at the rate of about 1,000,000 shares an hour. Adding to the enthusiasm, Steel common went to new high ground for the year. Bonds went higher with stocks and cotton soared $3 a bale.

Pronounced weakness in gold currencies featured dealings in foreign exchange with the Dutch guilder suffering a severe break which carried it off about a cent. The slump in exchange on Amsterdam had its repercussions in other leading gold currencies, French francs and Swiss easing abruptly after early strength. Sterling participated in the setback, but hardly to the same extent as the gold group. Heavy selling of the guilder was accompanied by rumors of possible early departure of Holland from the gold standard, generated quite evidently by the recommendation of Sir Henry Deterding that inflation be undertaken.

The flow of funds into the bond market which got under way late last week was reported in progress again today. Bonds were strong throughout as trading began with the observers reporting little distinction as between various classifications. Nevertheless the main force of buying of this character naturally tended toward the high-grade descriptions, though the major advances occurred in the more speculative liens which are geared closer to the movements of equity securities.

The Trader, in Baron's Weekly, says: "Certain technical factors functioning this year tend to discourage selling of stocks by those that might otherwise be tempted by quick profits. There is, of course, the heavy federal and state taxation now prevailing. In the face of the taxation handicap, a reaction would have to amount to formidable proportions to permit the assumptions of the risk of losing a long-term position. In the second place, with new financing virtually non-existent and permanently dwarfed by the radical new Securities Act, investors and speculators find the stock exchange almost the only outlet for surplus funds now made available by the price rise itself and by the sweeping business improvement."

The Street is looking forward to the United States Steel, General Motors and Telephone dividend meetings without the old qualms. Steel preferred looks more and more like a cerainty for the regular of $1.75. It wouldn't be surprising, either, if something were done on the accumulations, amounting to around $8,000,000. Steel, it is reported, will get back more than this from the government as a result of the repeal of the recapture law, having paid Uncle Sam a lot of dough on the rails it owns . . . Predictions are that steel operations will be around 70 per cent by fall.

Visible Grain Supply.

NEW YORK, June 26.—The visible supply of American grain shows these changes in bushels: Wheat, increased 1,886,000; corn, increased 2,056,000; oats, increased 1,855,000; rye, increased 514,000; barley, increased 237,000.

Announcement was made today of the appointment of the Hoover Scale Company as distributor in this territory for the Ralston Scales Corporation, a subsidiary of the Ralston Steel Car Company, Columbus, O.

Ira C. Hoover, head of the Hoover Scale Company, has been in the scale business in this city for the past 27 years. He will devote the entire time of himself and his organization to the distribution of the Ralston line scales.

An invitation is extended to the public to witness demonstrations by representatives from the Ralston factory at the Hoover Scale Company's headquarters, 1529 Penn avenue, tonight.

EVIDENCES OF HIGHER

BUSINESS GAIN SPURS AIR STUDY

Aviation is beginning to feel the impetus given general industry by President Roosevelt's "new deal," according to Fred Crawford, manager of the Penn School of Aviation. He said:

"During the first five months of 1933, there has been an increase of more than 30 per cent in the number of active students in the school. The present enrollment is greater than it has been during the last four years."

One fifth of the students enrolled during the last month have been girls, Mr. Crawford said. Women learn flying more quickly than men, as a rule, but their program is restricted by general disinterest in mechanics and ground work and by lack of opportunity, he continued.

WOMEN TRAIN

Students have come to the Penn School of Aviation from Turkey, from as far west as Idaho and as for south as North Carolina. Organized in 1929, nearly 650 students have received instruction. About 15 of them have been women, with several mechanics among them.

The collective flying hours of the school's students number more than 15,000, covering a million and a half miles.

The Penn School is fully approved by the Department of Commerce for all grades of flying, Mr. Crawford said. It is a division of Pittsburgh Aviation Industries and has six fleet training planes, a Fairchild KR-34 and a Stinson Junior, equipped for blind flying

BUILT FOR TRAINING

The planes are especially built for training purposes, with dual controls, and all the latest instruments including altimeters, directional gyros and artificial horizon indicators.

After looking over the papers submitted in the "Win Your Wings" contest sponsored recently by the school in conjunction with the Sun-Telegraph, Mr. Crawford said:

"The interest that the youth of Pittsburgh and vicinity has in aviation amazed me. It was extremely difficult to select winners. One 13-year-old girl wanted to be a mechanic. I wish everyone could have been given a prize."

BUILDING CODE TO PREVENT ABUSES

CHICAGO, June 26.—Machinery for enabling public officials, architects and those contemplating the award of contracts for construction to gauge accurately the ability and responsibility of prospective bidders on their work, would be officially impressed into service under the proposed code of fair competition which is to be considered at an open meeting of general contractors called by the governing board of the Associated General Contractors of America here today.

Contemplating that all bidders should be prequalified for the work involved, the proposed code stipulates that every general contractor, upon request, must file his past performance record in detail with the Bureau of Contract Information Inc., Washington. This agency, after verification, would make such data available to those legitimately entitled to the information by reason of being responsible for the award of public or private construction contracts, the writing of contract bonds or the extension of credit.

The bureau already has been in operation for three years, during which time more than 6,000 responsible general contractors have voluntarily submitted their records and the information has been widely used by surety companies and awarding officials. Heretofore, however, it has been impossible to force the irresponsible elements—those who "gyp" and default—to make their records available, officials of the Associated General Contractors state. Mandatory requirements for the filing of records, as provided in the proposed code, however, would force the recalcitrants into the open and quickly eliminate their harmful competitive influence, construction leaders believe.

The information compiled by the bureau makes it possible for those entitled to the records to determine not only the responsibility of the prospective bidders, but also their experience in each particular class of work and the magnitude of work which may be safely entrusted them.

BUSINESS :: Guaranty Trust Sees Swift Trade Revival

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

levels of production and trade are increasing rapidly and leave no doubt that a swift business revival is under way. This declaration is made in the current issue of the Guaranty Survey, published by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

The index of business activity of the Guaranty Trust Company for May stands at a preliminary figure of 59.4, which compares with 54.8 for April and shows the sharpest monthly gain since the beginning of the depression. The movement of railway freight has risen steadily for several weeks and now appears to be about 12 per cent above the level of a year ago. Steel ingot output has advanced to 50 per cent of capacity, the highest rate since April, 1931.

Production of electricity has risen without interruption for seven weeks. Sales of department stores last month increased for the second consecutive time and were only 2 per cent below the total of a year ago, whereas sales for the first five months of the year were 18 per cent below the comparable figure for 1932. The American Federation of Labor estimates that employment has increased by 1,629,000 since the end of March. Early reports on railway earnings for May show an increase in net operating income of nearly 100 per cent over the total for May, 1932. Bank clearings in leading cities during the third week in June were the largest for the year to date and showed the greatest increase over the figure for the corresponding period of the preceding year since the depression began. * * *

Gains Attributable To Natural Factors

THE CONSERVATIVE Guaranty Trust Company is not altogether sold on the desirability of artificial inflation. In fact, the organization is skeptical in regard to the use of such policies. In commenting on the recovery the survey says:

"There is ample ground for the belief that the advance in business activity is due largely to natural factors in the economic situation and is capable of proceeding on a sound and normal basis without any dangerous efforts at artificial stimulation by currency manipulation, subsidies to special groups, or other forms of governmental interference. To the extent that such measures are resorted to, doubt will inevitably arise in the minds of business men concerning the genuineness of the recovery and will seriously impair the confidence on which any sound and lasting improvement must be based.

"As far as the domestic trade recovery is concerned, it is becoming more widely realized that thus far the improvement has taken place, for the most part, in basic raw materials and other producers' goods, and that its permanence must depend on the extent to which it produces a corresponding expansion in actual consumption. Such an expansion, in turn, depends on the release of additional purchasing in the form of wage payments. This realization underlies the policy of the government as embodied in the industrial recovery act, which lays down rather strict requirements covering the provisions of industrial codes relative to wages and hours of labor. That many industrial executives are aware of this necessity is shown by the promptness with which numerous enterprises have advanced their wage rates at the first appearance of improving conditions. On the whole, business has shown a commendable willingness to co-operate with the government in promoting the purposes of the law. It was in this spirit, apparently, that the railroads recently surrendered for a period of eight months, their right to seek a reduction in wage rates."

President Gets Sweeping Powers

While the outlook for American business is conditioned on many intricate national and international factors, the chief uncertainties in the near-future economic prospects in this country center around the discretionary inflation powers granted to the President by Congress, according to the survey. The uncertainties do not exist alone because the outcome and ultimate manifestations of a program of inflation are necessarily indefinite, but also because there is no way of telling whether or not the President will use all or part of his powers along this line. In this respect the survey says:

"The 'inflation' amendment to the farm relief act confers upon the President broader and more sweeping monetary powers than have ever been delegated to the Executive in times of peace. Thus far, however, the powers of inflation placed in the hands of the President have not been used in any appreciable degree. The advance in security and commodity prices since inflation became a legislative possibility is due to an actual upturn in business levels and the rush to purchase commodities and securities in the fear that the inflationary powers will become operative. The administration's declaration that an inflationary movement will be launched only if it is deemed necessary offers no indication of what set of circumstances might be regarded as warranting this monetary program. However, the statement leaves little doubt that the government is reluctant to set the machinery of inflation in operation and that it is fully aware of some of the unhappy experiences with inflationary programs in various periods of the world's financial history."

STOCKS LEAP TO NEW HIGH LEVELS

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—Financial markets leaped forward today under the leadership of grains and cotton and new high prices for the past year or more were established by leading securities and most staples.

The so-called farm stocks were given a fast ride as wheat soared 3 or more cents a bushel and cotton recorded buoyant gains of $2.50 to around $3 a bale. Corn and rye stepped up along with wheat. Roseate views of acreage reduction, with fair prospects of an international agreement on this point, together with crop damage reports, speculative forward buying and short covering were some of the factors credited with the upswing of staples. At the same time the American dollar held fairly steady in foreign exchange markets, while continued good news of business and industrial improvement continued to come from all parts of the country.

Share prices opened steady to firm, but a heavy buying movement began in the second hour. For awhile the movement was speedy and volume was at the rate of around 5,000,000 shares. The activity quieted down, however, in later trading and most of the sharp gainers dropped back from their tops. Case led the upturn with an extreme gain of about 6½ points, but subsequently yielded some of this. Others of the agricultural group up 1 to around 2 included Sears, Roebuck, International Harvester, Montgomery Ward, Caterpillar Tractor and Allis Chalmers. Allied Chemical and National Distillers up around 4 each, while lesser advances were registered by United Aircraft, Bethlehm Steel, American Telephone, Western Union, United States Industrial Alcohol and Crown Cork. The rails and oils were firm, but not too enthusiastic.

The tendency of the domestic commodity situation to usurp market leadership which has been held for some time by gyrating foreign exchanges was of considerable interest to traders. Various indices disclose that the level of commodity prices in this country has advanced to a new high for the past 18 months or longer. While production curtailment plans, coupled with damaging crop weather, had an important effect on the price movements in grains, the basic strength of commodities generally has been attributed to the administration's announced intention of raising prices, one way or another, so that debts can be liquidated with money at about the same value as when the obligations were contracted.

WHEAT NEARS DOLLAR MARK

CHICAGO, June 26.—Wheat leaped 3⅜ cents a bushel today the moment trading began. Forced upward by a big rush to purchase, all deliveries of wheat overtopped recent high records, with corn and oats also outdoing season's peaks.

Heat and drought destroying crops was unabated. Opening 1½-3⅜ up, wheat later continued to mount, with May contracts above 95 cents a bushel. Corn started ⅛-1⅛ higher, and then rose further.

Immense new buying operations kept all grain prices pointed upward most of the time, despite huge selling to collect profits. Skyrocketing of quotations took wheat to heights unreached since 1930. Corn quickly soared to 60 cents for December delivery, rising more than 2 cents, oats and rye jumped 4 cents, and barely 6 cents.

Deplorable crop conditions reported as prevailing in Illinois corn fields did much to hoist the market for that cereal and oats, as well as other feed grains. About 60 per cent of corn fields were asserted to be two to three weeks late, with poor stands and bad spots showing in some of the best fields, and no visible growth during the past week.

Provisions advanced sharply with grains.

TRADE LEADERS REASSURED BY JOHNSON

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, June 26.—With evidence of increasing consumption, as well as of building up of subnormal inventories, domestic business continues to move upward in a counter seasonal manner.

Mr. Rukeyser

The partnership between the "new deal" economics and actual dynamic shortages has given the propelling force, and, as the unemployed have returned to work, a new spiral of recovery has been set in motion. The administration, with its belief in controlled economics, is seeking to accelerate the favorable momentum by inaugurating a substantial public works policy and by regimenting industry and agriculture along more rational lines.

There is at present some uncertainty as to how the Industrial Recovery Act will work out, but I find business executives more hopeful than some of the old-fashioned theorists. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's indication that the new codes could forbid selling below cost heartened those who were discouraged by his earlier proposal of an armistice on prices. In any circumstances, with social supervision of minimum wages and hours, the new competition will more precisely test the relative efficiency of management within specific industries.

Purchasing power has been bolstered up by the rise in agricultural prices and by a return of idle men to jobs.

The fundamental business indicators are still pointing upward.

Power consumption is higher than a year ago for the whole country, and in New England is 18 per cent ahead.

TRADE SPREADS THROUGH U. S.

NEW YORK, June 26.—(Universal.)—Trade reports from various sections of the country last week continued to show marked improvement. In the New York area the upswing was greatest in Wall street's speculative section, but retail trade rose above the previous week's total measured by department store sales. Greater activity was reported in wholesale lines.

With a $3-a-bale appreciation in cotton, the South's wealth increased $27,000,000 and production and wage increases continued at a steady pace.

Advices from the Chicago area show that wholesale and retail profits rose to levels beyond the expectation of officials. Employment in the Chicago region increased more than 3 per cent.

From San Francisco comes word that on the West Coast greater consumer demand and further price rises caused business to forge ahead for greater gains. Both San Francisco and Los Angeles report a jump in bank clearings of $2,100,000. Here, too, employment figures also have risen.

All in all, except for some speculative caution in Wall street, confidence in the upturn seems to be maintained throughout the nation.

Coal Production Higher Last Week

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—Both anthracite and bituminous coal production continued to mount the week ended June 17.

The Bureau of Mines today estimated hard coal output for the week at 825,000 and bituminous at 5,660,000 tons.

Those totals compare with 735,000 tons of anthracite and 5,435,000 of bituminous the previous week.

During the corresponding week last year 573,000 tons of anthracite and 4,048,000 of bituminous were mined.

Drug Announces Debt Moratorium

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—Louis K. Liggett, president of the United Drug Company, announced today a "debt moratorium," designed to strengthen the credit position of the drug stores affiliated with his organization.

The plan provides for the freezing of all sums owed to the United Drug Company by retail druggists as of May 31, and the liquidation of these debts through an installment plan.

Cambria Blows in Another Furnace

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 26.—(AP.)—The Bethlehem Steel Corporation's Cambria plant is operating its first hot iron since August, 1931, having blown in the No. 6 blast furnace.

Tapping of this furnace brought in four of the seven in the plant into operation—three of which were started in June.

SAVAGE PARADISE -:- Audacious Girl Reveals Secrets Of the Southern Seas -:- By MARGARET MATCHES

CHAPTER XXXV.

Sepik villages are ruled not by a chief but by a council of old men, although there is usually one man in each council who sways opinion. Jim said he had often seen a village hold a council of war, the council consisting of old men. This takes place in the ghost house. A ghost house has a curious stool made of a flat round top slightly hollowed in the center. It is on four carved legs, and at the back of the stool is the carved figure of a human head, with mother-of-pearl eyes and human hair. In a meeting each old man in turn gets up and has his say. There are at hand small bunches of leaves bound together and called "tangets"—four or five of them—and the orating councilor emphasizes the points of his argument by picking up one of these tangets and flinging it down on the stool. As he concludes his argument he picks up the whole bunch of them and flings them all down at once on the stool.

If war is decided upon, the village makes a singsing, after which the warriors set out on the expedition, accompanied by some of the older men carrying the tambarans, hollow wind instruments 5 or 6 feet long. The older men scatter when they arrive in the bush, and keep up an infernal racket in order to inspire the warriors with the assurance that the spirits are on their side. If the raid is successful, the entire overwhelmed village is massacred regardless of sex or age. The heads are severed from their bodies and carried back in triumph to the home territory. No captives are taken, and the village is plundered of whatever is considered of value. Upon the return of the victors a great victory singsing is held, and sometimes the heads are thrown under the ladder leaning up to the interior of the housetambaran while the singsing is in progress. They are later buried in the ground till such time as only the skull and bones remain; the skulls are then dug up and remodeled into the original shape with the use of clay, after which the eye-sockets are filled with shells.

RELIGION CHANGING

Father Kirschbaum says that the religion of the New Guinea natives is undergoing a change. Older generations seem to have believed in a supreme deity; not necessarily a benevolent spirit, just a number one spirit. But the modern belief is generally in totems and tambarans, spirits and devils. A curious conception of life after death is held by the natives of the middle and coastal Sepik region; life will go on in much the same manner as at present, they think, except that they will have to eat revolting food. It is a very dreary outlook. All the natives seem to have stoic resignation as to death. They treat it casually no matter how close to them it is. As I have already said, all too frequently they die by autosuggestion, believing that a spell has been put upon them and that there is no combating their fate. So they lie down to die, and they do die.

Disposal of the dead varies in different parts of the Sepik region. A middle Sepik custom is to place the body in a small canoe, wrap it in leaves of the lumbum (bush betel-nut), and place it near a fire; then the marys and men of the village plaster themselves all over with clay, squat around the canoe, and mourn loudly, penetratingly, and heartily until the singsing feast is exhausted.

COVER WITH CLAY

All through the Sepik country, when a family or village is in mourning, they cover themselves from head to foot with a very sticky clay, and the period of mourning endures until all the clay has been dropped off. I have seen natives in the state of "half-mourning," shaggy and filthy with mud; they are repulsive and fearsome apparitions.

A burial is always a big time among natives—always an occasion of a singsing. There is much wailing of women and hoarse, ceaseless chanting of men; there is much beating of kundus, the drum artists squatted in a circle, their bodies swaying back and forth, their throats emitting strange and ancient songs of which generally they themselves don't know the meaning. The firelight, within the enchanted circle of which evil spirits dare not enter, flickers on dreadfully painted faces and bodies welted with tribal marks. After the burial, frequently the marys lie prone over the grave of the dead relative for days. This prevents the spirit beneath from rising out of the grave.

PARTY ON BOAT

The skipper of the Nuloa planned a little dinner party aboard the schooner. The guests were to be Father Kirschbaum, Capt. Watson, of the Bonta, Jim and Brearly (no longer our passengers, alas), and Robbie. It was to be at night, and great doings were under way for the event, for Elisa was to open some tinned asparagus. On the cruise of the Nuloa asparagus day was always a red-letter day. The engineer took a shoot-boy and returned to our midst with a dozen fat plover. Jim and Brearly and Robbie couldn't come to the party, however; they had spent the entire afternoon at Robbie's house and were not sober enough to appear.

Nevertheless, by the light of the pendant hurricane lamp the rest of us ate asparagus and stewed plover. Capt. Watson told us of his trip with the little Bonta up to Ambunti. The skipper of the Nuloa, growing a little bleary-eyed and expansive from much beer, gave us many sentimental reminiscences of his life in Suva. The mate said little, but devoted himself kindly to seeing that I had everything I wanted, and even rolled a cigaret for me from his rank tinned tobacco, which I smoked manfully, and eventually liked. Father Kirschbaum, as usual, quietly and contentedly sat back and listened, puffing at a cigar. The hurricane lamp flickered about a cheerful and well-fed party. The eternal drums of the jungle we heard only when we especially paid attention to them. The vine-bedecked kanaka crew droned an evening singsing as they crouched about another flickering lamp on the foredeck.

JOINED BY JIM

The pretty girl (vintage of 1910) with blue eyes and flowery hat smiled down at our board from her frame on the cabin wall. A few cockroaches promenaded with an engaging familiarity along the mess-table. It was all very friendly and cozy, that dinner party. After it was over, and the men had retired to the skipper's hot cabin, I carried my large flashlight and my copy of "The Light of Asia" up to the topdeck to read a bit, stretched out on a skylight, and thanked God for a trade breeze and no mosquitoes.

Presently, to gladden me, Jim came along. Robbie was with him, mellow as usual. But Jim was all right. Robbie waved his hand to me as they went down to the skipper's cabin. But in a little while Jim's lank form loomed up the ladder, and my two combers and I were together again, for the last time. Conversation ran to their expedition. Everybody at Marienberg had been very discouraging, even Father Kirschbaum. He knew the good stuff of which these two pioneers were made, but he knew equally well the madness of their undertaking.

Robbie's head appeared above the ladder with an invitation to come down to the skipper's cabin for a "spot." Jim told Brearly to represent us.

Jim smoked the last half of a cigaret in silence. Jim and I liked each other, a liking born of splendid days of riding together out into the New Guinea jungle, days of jolly companionship aboard an idly sailing schooner. Now, quite suddenly, I found myself caught in the steel vice of his arms, and his lips were against my throat. And, almost as suddenly, I was freed again, and the lank bushranger who feared neither crocodiles nor cannibals stood waiting for what might befall him now.

UNHAPPY FAREWELL

I said: "Jim better go home, or down to the party."

"I don't want to. The house will be strange and empty, and I don't want to be alone. And if I go down below I'll get drunk."

"Getting drunk might be good for you, Jim."

"All right. Good-bye! I'm hoping that whatever you do is successful."

"The same to you, Jim."

I hated to have him go. He stood looking at me. The unforgettable shag of red hair hung over his forehead. I hated to have him go.

But he didn't go below to the skipper's party. I saw him step over the side of the schooner, and without looking back he crossed the little clearing and disappeared along the jungle path toward the D. O.'s house.

The next day the skipper did a little trading with Father Kirschbaum, who took us all into a padlocked shack that was filled with rare Sepik curios — spears, clubs, carved gourds, masques, shell adornments—and let us plunder to our hearts' content.

The next morning we set out again toward the northern atolls and the Admiraltys. It rained hard the day we left Marienberg, a forerunner of the northwest monsoons due in full fury within the next few weeks. And how it rains up the Sepik! My transparent raincoat—"a perfect tropical raincoat," sold to me by a famous New York expedition outfitter—gave up the fight early, and I wrapped myself in a piece of sail canvas.

I said farewell to Jim and Brearly wistfully. They had been good company; companions grow strangely dear in circumstances such as had surrounded our journey together. Under the gray rain I strained my eyes, as we rounded the first bend of the river, to see them through the torrent. The last I saw of Jim was his tall, lank form in a dripping raincoat, waving his sombrero.

Youngsters Shouldn't Delay Starting Patrol Club

Has a Junior Patrol been formed in your neighborhood?

Have you elected a captain and first lieutenant?

Have you picked a place and time for regular weekly meetings?

Those are a few of the things that all good patrol members should be thinking seriously about these days. Don't wait for the other fellow to start the club. Don't lag behind. Start a club yourself.

Every Junior Patrol member should have a little leadership ability. Every one of you should be able to get several members together for the first meeting.

Maybe you won't be elected captain or even first lieutenant, but your turn will come. If the boys and girls don't look upon you as a leader when you hold your first election of officers, your turn will come later.

There have been many such persons in history. You have read about them in school. Take George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and even Napoleon Bonaparte. None of their childhood friends ever dreamed or thought that they would become great leaders when they grew up.

However, they were forming leadership traits and characteristics when they were young boys. They became great leaders because they were good followers. They listened to the wishes of the people and the crowd first. They were not selfish. They thought about their neighbors and their fellow citizens before they obeyed their own wishes.

When you are picking your captain and can not come to a final choice because of a tie vote—don't let that spoil your chances of having a Junior Patrol.

Take our own government for instance. If everybody wanted to be President of the United States, we would never get anywhere. And unless we all help the President, he can never get anywhere. Without united action there can never be any success.

Who was it that said: "In Union There is Strength!"

If you don't know the answer, look it up in a history or reference book. Or else ask one of your fellow patrol members. Right here is a perfect step in helping one another. Questions that you cannot answer for yourself should then be referred to another member of your Junior Patrol.

Then if the members of your patrol cannot answer your questions, write in to the Junior Patrol Headquarters, Sun-Telegraph Building. We will do everything we can to help you. Never leave a question go unanswered, because some day you might have to answer that very question again.

FOLLOW SUGGESTIONS

When you form your patrol, try practicing things that are mentioned in this column. The Junior Patrol was organized so that you might learn to help others at home and at school and at play.

By the way, have you been reading Quin Hall's comic strip, "The Junior Patrol," which appears daily in the Sun-Telegraph? It is mighty interesting to read, has lots of action and will surely hold your interest from day to day.

There are thousands and thousands of young boys and girls in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, who are reading it every day. Some of the patrol members live as far away as Philadelphia. So we should have a good patrol club in Philadelphia.

So far we have not heard about any clubs electing a captain and their first lieutenant. Many are being formed—we do know that. We hope that soon we will hear from you. We would like you to send in a picture of the patrol captain.

That is the first lieutenant's job. He should be the secretary of the club. When you lieutenants send in pictures and club news be sure and attach a return address.

Watch this page tomorrow for more news concerning the Junior Patrol.

Complications

Once Overs

—By J. J. Mundy—

In summer there must be more or less elasticity in family routine.

Everyone wants a little leeway and there is less desire to hustle, to meet "up to the minute" appointments.

If dinner is not ready to serve at the usual time on a hot day, what of it—there should not be any complaints.

If when it is served it proves to be a very simple affair, so much the better for health in warm weather.

Those responsible should not be censured if they seek to save effort required to prepare a large meal and to have it ready at a regular time.

Mother should have a vacation in summer, should be allowed a few months when she need not worry if her work gets a little behind.

On the other hand wives should be considerate in their allowances for the husband and children when they are enjoying play spells that hang over past meal time occasionally.

A fifty-fifty agreement is fair and fairness breeds happiness.

Of course if a husband is accustomed to arriving at home for dinner at a certain time and has not given previous notice of change, his plans should be arranged to make things easy at home by conforming to family routine whenever possible.

Old Lady History on Return Visit

Many years ago Bellamy wrote, "Looking Backward" which was really looking forward.

He gave us history slightly on the bias and prophesies on the diagonal.

His thought was that Utopia in which man coveteth not his neighbor's money, his lawn mower nor his skill at auction bridge.

All public servants would be as honest as a paper weight which weighs nothing and balances no scales.

Seems that the mountain is laboring in that direction now. It certainly brought out a big nest of mice.

While we feel that investigations are rather nasty bowls of chowder, yet, you cannot deny that you must skin egrets to get feathers.

But they are nothing new. If your memory has the carfare you can go all the way back to the Roman republic and grab the same old moss-covered details.

The bankers threw the ancient Romans on the spears, they cornered the grain and sliced investments both ways against the customer. They had their market quotations, their high pressure centaurs and their directors meetings on camel back.

We ain't doing a thing they didn't do then. History repeats itself, stutters and lisps. Judging by the life span of the Roman republic we still have 250 years to go. We should learn something by that time if there are young Pecorans to study the law.

Nobody likes to see great names wrestled in the mud. But, that also seems to be a cross-section of history. Every so often you have to open the clothes closet and smack the moths in the face with rock salt and camphor.

You've got to clean house, wash the windows and scrub in the corners. A nation is only one average home multiplied by 30,000,000.

While taking care of the roots don't forget that a tree dies at the top.

The Man for Mayor

He Must Not Only Be Honest and Independent, But Should Understand Municipal Affairs

The political parties will nominate their candidates for Mayor of Pittsburgh in the primary of September 19.

The Democrats carried Allegheny County last November, and are conceded to have a better chance than usual of electing the Mayor.

The fact remains, however, that only one Democrat—George W. Guthrie, elected on a fusion ticket 27 years ago—has been chosen Mayor of Pittsburgh during the present century. Civic leaders and others who put the city's welfare above partisan considerations are consequently more interested in the Republican primary.

Shocked by the scandals that have marked the administration of the city government in recent years —THE FRUITS OF MACHINE RULE, OF THE SPOILS SYSTEM, AND OF THE ALLIANCE OF THE MACHINE WITH RACKETEERS—the Citizens' Committee and the League of Women Voters, co-operating as the Citizens' League of Allegheny County, are casting about for a Republican candidate, free from affiliations with the machine, to whom they and unorganized independent voters can give their support.

They appreciate that Senator James J. Coyne who dominates the machine, is wily, astute and powerful, and that HIS CANDIDATE WILL BE HARD TO BEAT. Consequently their first concern is to find a candidate on whom all the opponents of the machine can unite. It is realized that if the opposition to the machine is divided, as it was four years ago, the machine is almost certain to win at the primary.

To be successful the Citizens' League must have the aid of the professional Republican politicians who are disgruntled with the Coyne leadership, Gov. Gifford Pinchot's local lieutenants and others who, while normally allied with the dominant organization, are now at odds with Coyne.

To satisfy all of these various elements is not easy.

Consequently, with the primary less than three months distant, the independents have not yet agreed on a candidate.

Judge Frank P. Patterson is being urged to run by certain of the independents. He has been proved to possess political strength and to appeal to the voters, for he was elected to the Common Pleas bench as an independent, and over the opposition of the machine, although he received some organized political support.

Judge Patterson has aroused the enthusiasm of the public by his fearless fight on the politically protected racketeers. When the city and county police officials refused to interfere with the operations of the Monaca Club, a speakeasy and gambling house on Forbes street, across from the Oakland Police Station, Judge Patterson had State police from Reading raid and close the resort. That incident gives a good slant on his independence and his concern for law and order.

PITTSBURGH'S WELFARE DEMANDS NOT ONLY A MAYOR WHO IS HONEST AND INDEPENDENT, BUT ONE WITH THOROUGH UNDERSTANDING OF MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS. Judge Patterson has had no executive or administrative experience. But as newspaperman and lawyer and judge he has lived in Pittsburgh for many years and is, of course, familiar in a general way with the municipal problems.

Judge Patterson probably will not be a candidate. He is unwilling to make the race. We cite him merely as an example of the type of candidate being considered by the Citizens' League.

This group should not permit itself to be stampeded into choosing any candidate merely because he is honest, fearless, independent and acceptable to all its allies. There is another requisite, A REQUISITE OF THE FIRST IMPORTANCE—A GRASP OF THE COMPLEXITIES AND PROBLEMS OF GOVERNMENT IN A GREAT CITY LIKE THIS.

If Pittsburgh is to progress, it must have an executive who not only will suppress the rackets and strip corrupt politicians of their power, but will give an efficient business administration.

And THE CANDIDATE SHOULD ALSO KNOW SOMETHING ABOUT POLITICS, THAT HE MAY SUCCESSFULLY REPEL THE TRICKSTERS who will attempt to carry on their illegal practices, no matter who is mayor. He must be a man of courage, a man who can say "no" when "no" is the right answer.

The independents should support a candidate WHO NOT ONLY CAN BE ELECTED, BUT WHO WILL MAKE AN ABLE MAYOR.

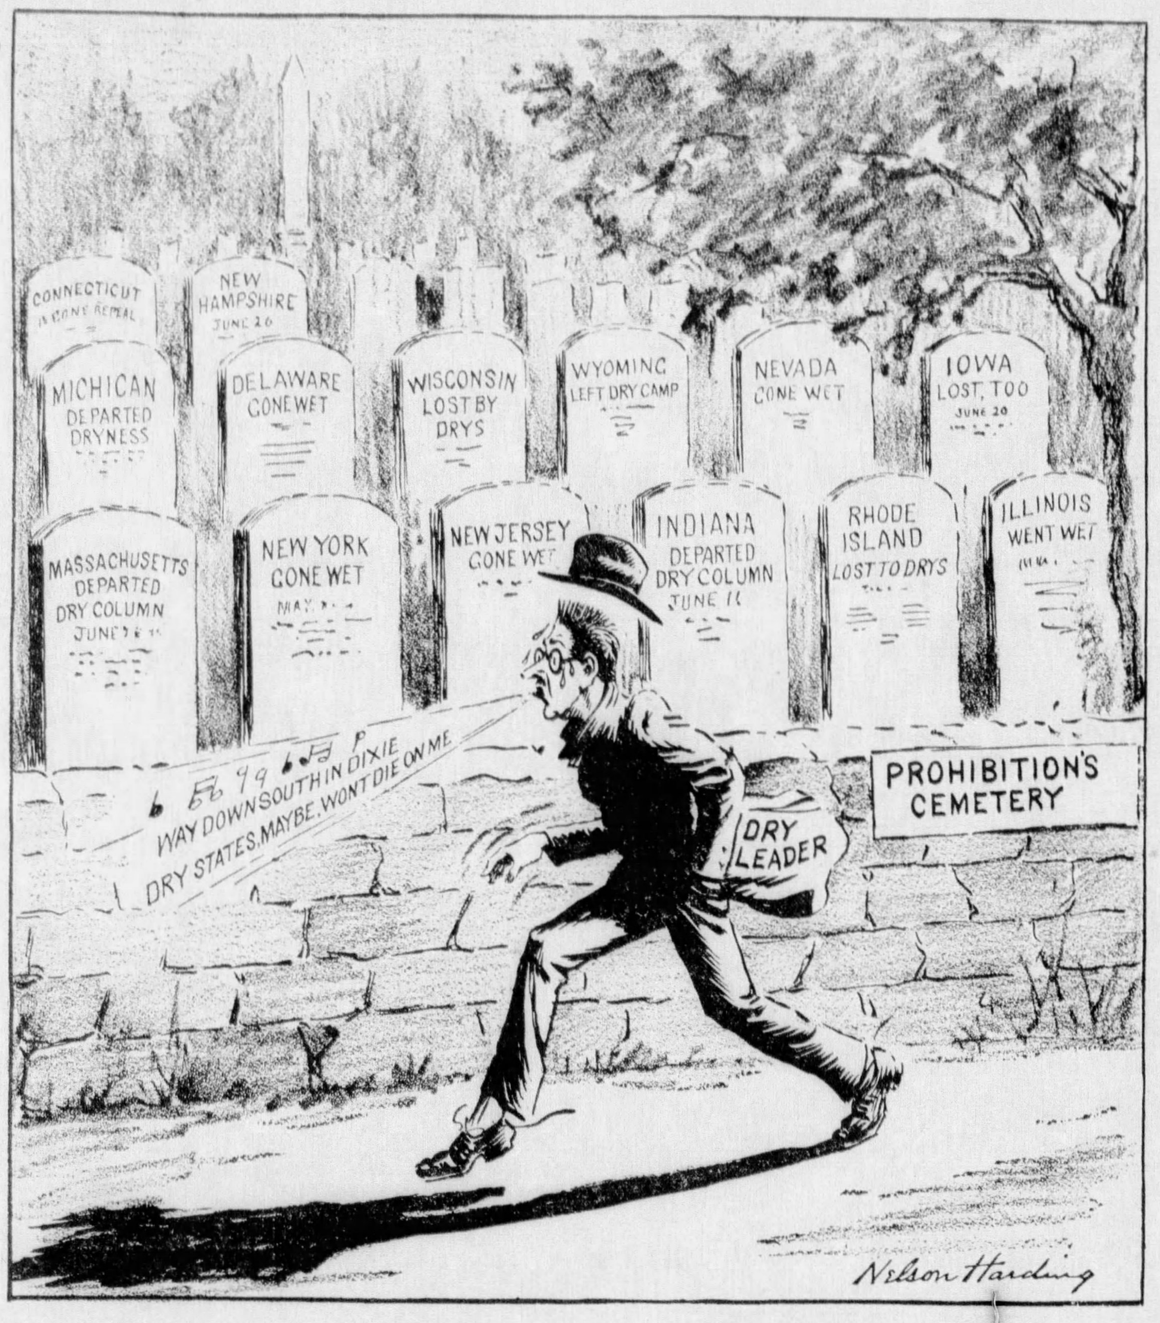
SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

1—A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
2—Rapid Transit.
3—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Town Hall, seating at least 15,000
6—Voting machines to insure honest elections.
7—Development of river transportation.
8—Development of air transportation.
9—Electrification of railroads.
10—Fair public utility rates.

Whistling Past the Graveyard

By Nelson Harding



No doubt in such a place as this
It comforts the poor man
To whistle his most cheerful tune
As loudly as he can

To give him courage and conceal
The symptoms of his fright
Caused by the rows of stones within
The graveyard on his right.

The Human Side of the News

London, Scene of the World Conference, a Fascinating City—Its Extraordinary Fogs—Edward VII and His Torchbearers

By EDWIN C. HILL

NOW that Congress has gone home and the President is resting up from toil that makes the labors of Hercules seem like a round of clock golf, London becomes the news capital of the world. Black men, brown men, yellow men and white men, representing sixty-six nations, are at the conference.

Always a fascinating city, London Town finds itself the center today of the hopes of humanity. It is difficult to think of a great city which, of its own suggestion throws more arresting pictures upon the screen of memory. And of all the pictures of London, this writer likes best to think of the old city as it lies blanketed in fog—one of those all-enveloping, all-embracing North Sea fogs—which makes all cats gray and all humans strange wraiths from the unknown and the unpredictable.

If you have ever been caught out in a real London fog, a regular "London's particular," you have had one of the weirdest experiences known to man. You found yourself in a mysterious and fantastic world; a world as unreal as a dream, shot through with nightmare; a world of ghosts and baffling whispers and murmurs. A great London editor, Muirhead Bone, has described a London fog in that delightful work of his called "London Perambulator." It arrives, says Editor Bone, "like something young, delicate and playful. As charming for a little while as a young pig."

* * *

Strange Happenings In London Fogs

YOU are aware, in Trafalgar Square or Piccadilly or on the Embankment, of a delicate mist, faint and volatile, drifting like idle cigaret smoke in the currents of air. But presently, as if by magic, it becomes an overwhelming monster, destroying the world you are familiar with and creating a wanton, monstrous, grotesque world of its own. You grope your fearful way along a wall, or, seized with a strange terror of movement, stand transfixed at a corner. The voices that come to you—voices of busmen and taxi drivers and bobbies—take on a rounder heartiness than ever they have in the lost sunshine. Policemen loom up out of nowhere, like incredible giants.

A spirit of misrule is abroad, as if all of the hobgoblins and pixies of Halloween were at their pranks and mischief. Newsboys play tricks and cry news that never occurred on land or sea or in the air above. Sober citizens find themselves in public houses, hobnobbing at the bar with queer fish from the great pool of London's East Side. Strange companionships are formed and strange friendships made.

Dark deeds are done that never see the light. Judges and prisoners on bail lose their way. People turn up at the wrong theaters. Ambulances speeding to accidents get quite lost. Cats come out into the street and pursue their vendettas as if it were night.

Like a Fantastic Picture by Dore

IN private houses people light up their rooms for cheerfulness against the all-pervading yellow murk that blurs the city. You glance into windows and see lit interiors, with figures precisely like stage scenes framed in black. You can study the tastes and fashions of a past century in old mantelpieces and modelings, as if you were strolling through the British Museum or a gallery of antiquities. Buses appear out of nowhere and passing in weird procession, huddling close for comfort and staggering on into the mystery.

It is all like something from the brush of Gustave Dore, a phantasmagoria of djinns and mumbling lost spirits. The long dead past has a trick of escaping the tomb and living again before your eyes.

A great London editor said to me: "The oddest sight almost that ever came before my eyes was one of those strange pictures of the fog. I was marooned, appalled, peering for some landmark to help me on my way, when out of nowhere, in the general mystery, came a glare of torches and a body of men. The torches were carried by liveried footmen and policemen. On came the group, slow-paced, the flare of the torches sending weird gleams through the enveloping murk.

"They passed me close by," said Muirhead Bone, "and in the brief illumination of the torches I saw, in the center of the group, a portly gentleman with a full, neat beard, partially cloaked by an Inverness cape. It was Edward the Seventh, King of England, making his way home with his gentlemen to Buckingham Palace, guided by linkmen and torchbearers, precisely as his Stuart ancestor wended home through the fogs of three hundred years ago."

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Here's to the Bride!

What a lucky girl is the June bride of 1933! Never before have women started on the journey of matrimony with such an accurate road-map, such a clear knowledge of their destination and such a complete guide to men!

* * *

Only two short years ago, reckless young couples were being married in airplanes and parachuting down to earth in a foolhardy way that was symbolic of the flighty and short-lived marriages of that day. Every other marriage was just the first step toward Reno—the brief interval between the courtship and the Court House.

* * *

The average girl was completely at sea about men. She didn't know whether to be subtle and vampish and sophisticated—or to be frank and friendly and casual. Whether to be sweet and feminine and old-fashioned—or to be wild and gay and full of whoopee.

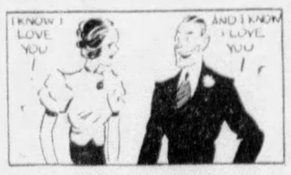
She didn't know whether to rush into a man's arms and respond eagerly to his kisses, and run the risk of frightening him off. Or to snub his overtures and refuse to accept his casual love-making—and run the risk of losing a date.

* * *

And men were equally hazy about women. They suspected all women—but were never quite sure of what they suspected them.

* * *

A man could never make up his mind whether a girl would be indignant if he played the heavy lover on the way home in the car—or insulted if he didn't. He never could be certain whether she was playing for a wedding ring—or just playing him for a good thing.



With no traffic-rules to guide them, no wonder so many dizzy-headed young lovers plunged into marriage, right off the deep-end.

* * *

But these past two years seem to have DONE something to us! To have sobered us up, brought us out of the fog, and made men and women see and understand each other clearly. Girls have dropped their poses and men have shed their doubts and cynicism. For the first time in centuries, when a man and a woman look into each other's eyes, at the altar, they can read each other's meaning. All the traffic lights to a happy marriage are bright and clear, and both of them know all the signals!

* * *

There will be fewer detours and fewer smash-ups among this June's weddings than there have been in a decade! Here's to the lucky bride of 1933!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 26.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and a knifey letter from Gordon Sinclair, the pamphleteer, who is foot-loose in India again and so d. ing with the Will H. Hays and my wife to Westchester and breakfasting at the Stage Coach Inn, being served by waiters in periwigs and knee breeches.

Typing and to the tram to welcome my sister-in-law, Dr. Ed Martindill's Nelle, whom I love very much. And later off with Harry Silvey to see an amateur ball game in Prospect Park. But the sport has lost zest for me and walked over Brooklyn Bridge wondering from what spot Steve Brodie leaped.

To dinner at Matt and Ceile Carneys, and Bob and Madge Davis there. Also the Irvin Cobbs. And Cobb and Davis in rare story telling form. So much so that when I told my most accomplis' i yarn everyone felt sorry. Home and read "Queer Street," splendidly writ, until 4 a. m.

Near slumbering Tarrytown was an old-time horse sale we stopped to watch. It was a throwback to the Saturday sales in our town. I thought the motor age vanquished the horse dealers of another era. .t they were there, prodding flanks, feeling hocks and running sensitive fingers over withers. One expert referred disparagingly to a "wind sucker" and a "roarer" and another animal received a professional sniff for "eatin' her beddin'."

* * *

No gourmet—perhaps gourmand is more descriptive — has ever touched the appetite of Diamond Jim Brady in the history of the town's gastronomics of the past two decades. They were telling of his yearly visit to Ben Riley's, where jumbo frog legs are the piece de resistance. Brady, upon such occasions, would order a triple portion with an empty plate on each side. Then with both hands, piston-like, he would gorge the huge pile, tossing the bones into empty plates.

News drifts from far-away Borneo of the hair-breadth escape of the novelist Somerset Maugham in an attack of a hamadryad, the king cobra, near Sandakan. This is the only snake attacking man on sight. Maugham left a dinner party for a turn with a steamship captain before retiring, when the reptile made for him. The snake was killed by the captain with the only walking stick in Borneo—Maugham's cane, a gift from Arnold Bennett.

* * *

The super thrill of a movie, filmed in Borneo, incidentally, is a python attacking a native, climaxing in a hair-raising crushing scene. Maybe it isn't cricket to tell—I'm not jerry to jungle etiquette—but there are non-visible wires on the snake's head and tail. When the pressure gets too strong, coolies pull and ease off constrictions.

Gene Crawley has a worldling friend who, having skylarked a fortune away, is touched by the horrors now and then. The other afternoon little green-whiskered men on velocipedes began jumping out of the gutter at him and he fled home in the nearest taxi to calm himself. When he got into his flat he thought he saw smoke curling from a laundry chute and opened the door to see. A bonfire of flame burst out. He quickly slammed the door and sat down to read a novel and compose himself. "Mustn't see that sort of thing. Silly. Have to get frayed nerves under control," he murmured. Ten minutes later firemen were carrying him down a jolly old extension ladder, feet-up!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Questionnaire for parents:

Are you training your youngsters to think for themselves?

Or do you insist on doing their thinking for them?

Do you make them accept your decisions and judgments?

If so, what's your motive?

Do you do this because you fear they'll come to some harm?

Or because you don't want to be bothered by their muddlings and fumblings?

And if you do think for your children, just where do you get those thoughts?

How come YOUR OWN ideas of right and wrong?

Do you get them out of your own mind?

Do you base them on your own experience?

Do you face life-as-is, frankly and fearlessly, and draw your own conclusions?

Do you do things yourself because you've decided they are good and right, regardless of the neighbors' opinions?

Or do you trim and twist your own notions, for fear of "what people will say?"

Do you feel that's a true test for behavior?

And do you insist that your children shall do so, and feel likewise?

So then, what?

Now that your children are in Hi, how's your system working out?

Are they rounding into reliable, self-respecting young men and women?

Are they meeting life strongly and sanely?

Are they facing our new problems with brave, well-balanced reasoning?

And keeping their heads cool in the midst of this chaos?

Or are they going haywire?

Yielding to every temptation that comes along?

Clutching avidly at every new sensation regardless of its value?

And do they laugh when you warn them "what people will say?"

Do they wave your opinions aside—tell them you "won't understand"—that you're "behind the times?"

And then proceed to raise Cain regardless?

Is that what's happening?

And, if it is, are you surprised shocked and furious, broken-hearted and filled with self-pity?

But why should you be?

Why should you be surprised because they don't know the difference between right and wrong?

Why should you be shocked because they can't pick "the fine things" of life, but prefer the sensational and shoddy?

Did you ever give them a chance to learn the difference between right and wrong by making them, when they were little, suffer the consequences of wrong decisions?

Did you ever help choose the "fine things of life," or did you insist that they follow the conventional pattern, whether or not it seemed right and fine to them?

And if you insisted that they follow patterns, why should you be so amazed because they are now following the patterns of their wild young contemporaries, instead of doing their own independent thinking?

Aren't your children doing exactly what you prepared them to do?

You were a copy-cat in safer, simpler times, weren't you?

Aren't they just copy-catting as you taught them to do in those more dangerous times?

And why should you be filled with self-pity because your children now reject your ideas and say you're behind the times?

Were those ideas ever YOUR ideas?

Did you ever dare to do any real thinking for yourself?

Have you made any real effort to keep up with the times?

In short—isn't this what you asked for?

If you wouldn't keep up with life why should you expect life to loiter along with you?

If you wouldn't teach your children to stand on their own feet why should you rave when they wobble?

Text for Today Delight thyself also in the Lord; and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart.—Psalms, xxxvii:4.

IMPRISONMENT

By Winifred Black

Did you see that story of the woman over in Scotland who saves up her money and buys all the caged birds she can find?

She carries the birds home in their cages, feeds them, gives them plenty of water to drink and then takes the cage out into the garden, presses a little brass spring and—glory be—the little prisoner is free—again.

This woman has done this for at least a hundred poor, little, frightened, unhappy, feathered prisoners.

I'd like to see that woman; wouldn't you?

And wouldn't you love to be with her some bright morning in early June and watch the poor birds try their wings in wonderment and delight?

And oh, how I would love to free from their self-made prisons of the mind — some poor, caged human beings.

There's a mother-in-law I know. She lives with her son and his wife and the wife hates her. Her husband died when she was a young wife and she fought day and night through sickness and discouragement and something akin to despair to feed and clothe and educate the little brood that was left to her.

Now one of the brood lives in Europe and one is dead, and this one—her son—is married, and her son's wife hates her and humiliates her and shames her and tormenis her in a thousand almost invisible ways.

How I would love to throw open the door of that woman's prison, and see her step out of it—free.

There's the man who is the prisoner of his nagging wife and two selfish daughters.

The man was all right when business was good and he was buying new clothes and new motor cars and trips to Europe for his wife and daughters, but now that times are hard and the money is scarce—these three women taunt him openly with his "failure" in life.

Day by day that man is losing heart and courage and spirit.

He looks 20 years older than he looked four years ago—how I would like to open the door of his unhappy prison, and set him free.

And did you read the little tale of the workmen hammering away in a great public structure the other day? And suddenly around their heads beat the flutter of belligerent wings.

A little mother bird resented the intrusion of the workmen—she had a perfectly good nest up in the corner of that wall they were planning to make over, and she didn't intend to let any mere human being interfere with her plans for hatching out her little brood.

And do you know what happened?

The boss called the men off, set them to work in another part of the huge building and let little Mrs. Robin tend to her housekeeping.

What a tale she had to tell Mr. Robin when he came home carrying her dinner in his beak.

I'd like to know the boss who did this thing, wouldn't you?
